Rising Hope In Talks

PARIS (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant conferred with Ambassadors W. Averell Harriman and Xuan Thuy on the Vietnam peace talks Saturday at a moment when fresh optimism is beginning to develop about moving negotiations toward a settlement.

The prospective release of three American fliers by North Vietnam has started a small new wave of hope in Paris and Washington that deadlocked talks may finally begin to make progress.

Harriman, who spent 45 minutes conferring with Thant at the U.S. Embassy said the United Nations might yet play a part in bringing peace in Southeast Asia.

"We are always very glad to have him take an interest in these affairs," Harriman added, "because the United Nations at some stage could be very helpful. Not at the present time, of course."

Thant is one of various possible go-betweens who could work at peacemaking. But since North Vietnam has rejected any right of the United Nations to a role in Vietnam, Russia or France would seem much more likely to take it. Both have close links with the United States and North Vietnam.

Thant said on arrival he thought peacemaking would be a long process. After talking with Harriman he said assessment was difficult to make.

Diplomats who clutch at straws in the wind to bolster their hope suggest signs are multiplying of a possible break in the two-months-old deadlock over de-escalating the war.

They point particularly to speculative reports in Washington that President Johnson, who limited the bombing of North Vietnam March 31, might unconditionally end all attacks on the North soon. That would require a radical change in U.S. policy, and there has been no official indication of such a change in Paris or Washington.

Perhaps significantly, Ambassador Xuan Thuy officially informed Ambassador W. Averell Harriman of the decision at last Wednesday's meeting. Harriman had spoken in the past of the good will be thought North Vietnam could gain by a prisoner release. But he clearly was working for release of a much larger number than three.

Israel To Get Antiaircraft Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced Saturday the sale to Israel of a number of batteries of Hawk antiaircraft defensive missiles.

A spokesman said it was the first new sale of military equipment to Israel since the Arab-Israeli war more than a year ago.

"Acquisition by Israel of additional Hawks should enhance its ability to defend itself against air attack," the announcement said.

The Pentagon refused to say how many batteries—there are 18 missiles to a battery—are involved in the sale, which the announcement said was agreed to on June 29.

Nor would the Defense Department say how much Israel is paying for the antiaircraft missiles, being sold under a U.S. government credit arrangement.

Testimony Reveals

F111A Lost Both Wings In Early Test Flight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wings of an F111A broke off during a ground test for structural strength two months before the controversial warplane was sent to Vietnam, it was disclosed Saturday.

The Defense Department said a structural fix designed to correct the condition had not been incorporated into the planes sent to the war zone but they were operating under limitations to reduce the amount of stress.

And, the department said, the incident in which the wings broke off involved "an overtest of the aircraft's capability" involving strains far beyond those expected in normal flight operations.

The wing failure in test was brought out by Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., at a closed hearing of the Senate military preparedness subcommittee April 24.

A transcript, censored by the Defense Department, was made public Saturday.

Curtis asked Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research and engineering, about the assignment of the planes to the war zone.

This exchange took place:

Curtis: "Were you aware at the time the decision was made that the wings had been broken off of the F111A during structural testing on the ground in late January 1968?"

Foster: "Yes, I was aware of that. There was a test made to determine the structural strength of those components of the F111A and the aircraft components did withstand the tests required of them. There was an indication, however, of failure more abruptly than was expected."

Curtis: "The wings broke?"

Foster: "Yes, but when one is making a test on aircraft components, one frequently stresses them to the very limit."

Foster said in a later report to the subcommittee that normal tests required to clear the plane for flight "generally were satisfactory and did not disclose any major structural difficulties."

Three of the first eight F111As sent to the war zone—they were based on Thailand—crashed.

The flights controls of one were jammed by a tube of sealing liquid. The cause of the other two crashes has not been determined.

In May, an F111A flown by a test pilot crashed in Nevada and the cause was traced to a defective valve part. As a result, 42 of the planes, including five remaining in Southeast Asia, were grounded pending modifications.

Ray Gives Lawyer Leads In Defense

LONDON (AP) — James Earl Ray gave his American lawyer Saturday what the attorney called "names and other leads" to investigate in preparing Ray's defense against charges of assassinating Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The attorney, Arthur J. Hanes, former mayor of Birmingham, Ala., conferred with Ray for 70 minutes in Wandsworth Prison.

Ray was arrested here June 8 and is being held pending a London court appeal against an extradition order to the United States signed by a British magistrate last Tuesday.

Hanes had visited Ray Friday in company with his court-appointed British attorney, but was alone with Ray Saturday except for prison guards. The lawyer was searched before the interview.

The two men were separated by a glass panel, with a thick metal grille on either side to allow the passage of sound. At times they whispered and exchanged notes which were passed back and forth by the guard.

Hanes told newsmen he found the interview with Ray "most helpful, most fruitful, and beneficial." He added: "I am beginning to build a case, to organize a defense. He gave me names and other leads to follow up back in the United States, and I am building a file."

Hanes refused to disclose anything about the information Ray gave him. He also refused to comment on how his case might work out if Ray comes to trial, or to go on record about Ray's political orientation.

Hanes said he found local security procedures restricted his freedom to talk with his client, but he did not criticize them.

Apparently alluding to conditions in Dallas after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy—whom he met in the White House while serving as Birmingham's mayor in 1960—Hanes said: "I think the procedure over here is rather good. There have been people hurt in other cases like this and I didn't like that at all."

May Give Third Heart To Blaiberg

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) —The condition of Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, worsened Saturday. Medical sources said a combined heart and lung transplant might be tried to keep him alive.

Groote Schuur Hospital sources said a new lung was thought needed to eliminate creeping pneumonia, now believed affecting both Dr. Blaiberg's lungs.

Blaiberg's wife, Eileen, said Saturday evening, "The only way to save Philip's life is to give him a new heart."

The Weather

Partly cloudy through Monday with a chance for afternoon and evening thundershowers, especially in northeast and central Missouri. Little change in temperature. High Sunday mid to upper 80s.

Sunset Sunday will be at 8:40 p.m.; sunrise Monday will be at 5:55 a.m.

Latins Cheer, Protest Visit

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — President Johnson joined a summit conference of five Central American leaders Saturday after tens of thousands of Salvadoreans gave him a cheering, confetti-filled welcome marred by antiwar youths who spattered his bubbletop limousine with red paint and an egg.

The youths, numbering about 100 under anti-Vietnam war posters, were grouped on a hill overlooking the President's route from the airport where he arrived from San Antonio, Tex. They threw a dozen or so paint bombs and perhaps two dozen eggs. One egg splattered against the side window of the car near the President's head.

The paint bombs missed, but spattered the car when they hit nearby.

A photographers' truck preceding the limousine took the brunt of the egg barrage while cars carrying Central American leaders behind Johnson fell into the path of the paint bombardment.

At no time was Johnson in danger of being hit by the missiles because of the bulletproof bubble over the top of the limousine's back seat.

After the motorcade reached the downtown site of the summit conference, Secret Service agents began wiping away the paint spatters and egg from the limousine.

Inside, Johnson immediately got down to business with the presidents of El Salvador, Nicaragua, Guatemala, Honduras and Costa Rica.

He announced $65 million in U.S. loans to help Central Americans and their seven-year-old regional common market.

He approved $30 million to the Central American fund for economic integration and to help transportation and communications improvements. Another $35 million was approved for programs in each of the five countries. These included a pilot educational television station in El Salvador, a loan for elementary school development in Guatemala, a loan for rural electric cooperatives in Honduras and in Costa Rica to promote agriculture.

"One day the material needs of the Central American people will be met" Johnson said. "But I believe it can be said that the spirit of Central America has already triumphed."

In South Build-Up Areas

B52's Move To Support American Ground Forces

SAIGON (AP) —Eight-jet B52 bombers, largest U.S. air weapon in the war, flew new raids against southern build-up areas inside North Vietnam Saturday to ease pressure on American ground forces spaced along the border front.

The U.S. Command in Saigon reported the Stratofortresses hit weapons positions, storage areas, bunkers and antiaircraft sites just above the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams.

The planes flew two missions, 13 miles and 14 miles northnortheast of the American outpost of Con Thien, a spokesman said.

Attacks over North Vietnam by B52s have been relatively rare in the Vietnam war, partly because of the threat of surface to air missiles. They were stepped up last week, however, as part of the drive to slow the infiltration of men and materials to the South.

Six other missions were flown Friday by the big bombers, striking at targets north and south of Saigon and near the coastal city of Quang Ngai.

Over North Vietnam's Southern panhandle, U.S. strike planes carried out 136 missions Friday. Antiaircraft fire that was described as moderate to heavy over target areas brought down two Air Force F4 Phantoms and the four crewmen aboard the two aircraft were listed as missing. Radio Hanoi reported the capture of two airmen Friday.

The loss of the two planes raised to 863 the announced number of American planes downed in combat in the North so far in the war.

"Ground and water traffic, as well as military storage areas, continued to be the prime target," a headquarters communique said in reporting the day's strike over the North. "The crews destroyed or damaged 16 supply barges, 6 warehouses and 6 trucks. Roads were cut in 28 places and two bridges were made unusuable."

While only sporadic ground action was reported, new rumors circulated in Saigon of a threatened Viet Cong attack on the South Vietnamese capital. They came after a few Viet Cong flags were found flying at the end of the 6 a.m. curfew in parts of the city.

Vietnamese intelligence sources said late information indicated the Viet Cong threat to hit Saigon again would be carried out before July 20.

BULLETIN

One person was killed, another is in critical condition and three others injured in a headon collision on U. S. Highway 65 just south of the Warsaw and U. S. Highway 65 spur north of Warsaw about 9:80 p.m. Saturday.

Dead is Leroy Byrne, formerly of Mexico, but recently working in Warsaw. He was in a car driven by Larry Young, 21, Warsaw, who was reported in critical condition at the Bothwell Hospital, late Saturday night.

Injured brought to the Bothwell were John Allen Lewis, 28, Belton, Mo., Richard Ray Wray, 18, Warsaw; Dale Pursear, 84, Warsaw. Another youth Norman Dale was reported to have received minor hurts.

The body of Byrne was taken to the Reser Funeral Home and the injured brought to Sedalia by the Reser ambulance.

Sgt. Glenn Means who with Trooper, Gary Friar, reported that Lewis, driving a 1965 Plymouth coach, was passing a pickup truck on the crest of a hill while driving south and crashed headon into a 1961 Rambler sedan driven north by Young. Both vehicles were demolished.

Smithton Boy Killed By Tractor

Dennis Merk, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Merk, Smithton, was pronounced dead on arrival at Bothwell Hospital by Dr. Elliott Braverman about 2 p.m. Saturday following a tractor accident.

The youth was reportedly working in a hay field on the Merk farm on Route W south of Smithton when a tractor backed over him. Dr. C. Gordon Satuffacher, Pettis County coroner, listed the cause of death as massive head injuries sustained when Merk's skull was fractured.

Merk was born on Sept. 2, 1951, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Merk, Smithton.

Survivors include his parents, two brothers, Donald and Cloyd Dustin, both of the home; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Henry Lewis, Smithton; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hoehns, Smithton.

He was preceded in death by one brother in infancy.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at the Neumeyer Funeral Home, Smithton.

Other arrangements are incomplete.

Burial will be in ths Smithton Cemetery.

Points To 'Gamble' By Johnson

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon charged Saturday that the United States is caught in a tightening grip of inflation because President Johnson "gambled on an early end to the war."

"The entire country paid for that foolish wager and will still be paying for it long after Lyndon Johnson leaves the White House," Nixon added in a strongly worded statement attacking administration economic policies at home and abroad.

The former Republican vice president declared: "When President Johnson faced the moment of truth on the battlefield in Vietnam, he committed the troops and the resources necessary to stave off imminent defeat. However, he flinched on the home front.

"There was no moment of truth in America because the President did not take the people into his confidence. He escalated the war by stealth; he encouraged the belief that Americans could go on enjoying guns and butter and the deficit-financed favors of the Great Society without giving the war in Southeast Asia a second tought.

Humphrey Hits At 'Abusive Tactics'

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, denouncing what he termed "the abusive tactics which have reappeared in American politics," called on all presidential candidates Saturday to denounce those tactics.

He attacked the supporters of his chief rival for the Democratic nomination, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who he said "rigidly enforced their will when in the majority, but loudly cry 'foul' and walk out when they lose."

And he warned that "History is strewn with the tangled wreckage left by militant minorities—each of which thought it had cornered the market in social justice and virtue, and had discovered the True Belief to the exclusion of all others."

The vice president's sharply worded speech was prepared for a Harry S. Truman day celebration in this southeastern Missouri community.

"I am betting that America will reject cynicism and will reward faith," he said.

"I am betting that America believes in majority rule, and in the democratic process and that it will not fall victom to those who preach that the means of totalitarianism and tactics of the street will somehow bring the ends of democracy and the benefits of the rule of law."

Referring to a recent incident in Minneapolis and to the antiwar demonstrators who disrupted his Independence Day speech in Philadelphia Thursday, Humphrey called on Americans "to challenge those who chant and jeer and disrupt those with whom they disagree—whether they disagree with those celebrating the rights of man on July 4 at Independence Hall Philadelphia, or with Gov George Wallace trying to speak his views in Minneapolis."

Humphrey gibed at the McCarthy supporters who have walked out of state party conventions in Connecticut and New York when he called also for a challenge of "those who will not accept the fair verdict of the democratic processes; who rigidly enforce their will when in the majority, but loudly cry 'foul' and walk out when they lose."

Accident Fatal To One

Everett Eugene Downing, 29, 5518 Hardesty, Kansas City, was killed in a one-car accident on U.S. Highway 50 at the east curve leading into Dresden about 5:15 a.m. Saturday.

David L. Bogue, 21, of 835 North Liberty, Independence, was seriously hurt in the accident.

Downing's death was the eleventh to have occurred as a result of a traffic accident in Pettis County this year compared to 12 at the same time in 1967.

Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher, Pettis County coroner who visited the scene, reported Downing apparently died instantly from severe head injuries. His body was brought to Sedalia and taken to the Gillespie Funeral Home. The body was later taken to the Hinton Funeral Home at Raytown.

Bogue was brought to Sedalia by the Sedalia Ambulance Service and taken to the Bothwell Hospital where Dr. Karl Gonser had X-rays taken of his head injuries. He had suffered a fractured skull. Later he was transferred to the Independence Sanitarium by the Sedalia Ambulance Service.

The two young men were riding in a Mustang and headed west. According to Trooper Charles Pieper, the driver apparently was driving at a high rate of speed and coming upon the curve applied his brakes, the car went off on to the shoulder on the right side, and pulled back on to the pavement when the vehicle went into a side skid. From the point of the first skid marks to the point it left the pavement the last time the car had traveled approximately 238 steps or 714 feet, went skidding sideways off of the pavement into a soybean field for an additional 83 paces of 279 feet, rolling two and a half times and coming to stop on its top, according to Trooper Pieper.

Downing was thrown into the

See No Serious Problems After July Tax Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tax increse which goes into effect in mid-July will brake a speeding economy more than the government's experts had planned but they foresee no serious problems as yet.

Coupled with the $6 billion in spending cuts, the income tax surcharge by some unofficial estimates could result in an unemployment rate exceeding 4 per cent in the first half of next year.

"We're certainly aware of the problem and are sensitive to it," one key government source said of the extra restraint." . . . but we don't see any clear evidence it's serious at this time."

In addition to adding spending cuts President Johnson didn't want, Congress waited longer than the administration had hoped in approving higher taxes, thus jamming the collections into one year instead of spreading them over a longer period.

Collection of the 10 per cent tax surcharge through increased withholding from paychecks will begin with checks received after July 13. Since July 14 is a Sunday, the effective date for practical purposes is July 15.

Some economists have expressed fears the extra restraint of the tax-spending package—the shift from the economic accelerator to the brake is the sharpest in two decades—might force a sharp rise in unemployment and possibly a recession.

Top government economists dispute this, but none of the experts challenges the idea of some increase in unemployment.

What's anticipated now is a slowdown in economic growth during the first half of 1969 to a range of 1.5 to 2 per cent in real terms. A 4 per cent growth rate is considered the ideal.

But the experts currently foresee no decline in the economy or even a pause similar to the one which occurred during the first half of 1967.

This prediction is based however, on belief that the Federal Reserve Board will cooperate by easing the nation's credit to compensate for the extra restraint in the tax-spending package.

Gross National Product, the value of all goods and services produced in the economy, climbed by a record $19.4 billion at an annual rate during the first quarter of this year—6 per cent growth in real terms—and officials look for a slightly smaller advance in the second quarter.

A slowdown to about $10 billion quarterly is now foreseen in the first half of 1969 with a resulting rise in unemployment.

Pilot's Wings Are Clipped Permanently By a Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man who worked his way up to a top pilot's job with a major airline before it was discovered he held only a private license has been barred from flying anything permanently.

The National Transportation Safety Board said Friday it had upheld earlier rulings in the case of Jimmie H. Lane, 35, and had closed the book on him.

The Federal Aviation Administration discovered early last March that Lane, then of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., had been flying as a pilot for Eastern Air Lines since 1957 although he held only a private pilot's license. That license authorized him to fly only single-engine planes, and did not qualify him to carry passengers.

The FAA said Lane altered the certificate to make it resemble the card of an air transport pilot.

After attending Eastern's pilot training school, Lane advanced progressively during 11½ years to the command of the piston-engine Constellation and then the four-engine Electra propjet, into the $20,000-a-year salary class.

He flew the busy New York-Washington shuttle service regularly, and had a perfect safety record.

He was unmasked, finally by an FAA inspector checking his competence to become a DC9 jet captain.

Eastern promptly fired him, and last March 4 the FAA ordered emergency revocation of his only flight document.

Lane, now listed by the FAA as of 7 Pin Oak Drive, Trenton, N.J., appealed to the National Transportation Safety Board, contending that with his long experience and accident-free record he should at least be allowed to continue flying small planes.

The Safety Board's chief hearing examiner, Joseph C. Caldwell Jr., conducted an oral hearing at Miami and upheld the FAA.

Nine Persons Are Injured On Turnpike

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Nine persons were injured in a chain of collisions involving 15 cars on the Kansas Turnpike one mile east of the Lawrence service area Friday night.

Three of the injured were admitted to the Lawrence Memorial Hospital. The six others were treated for minor injuries and released.

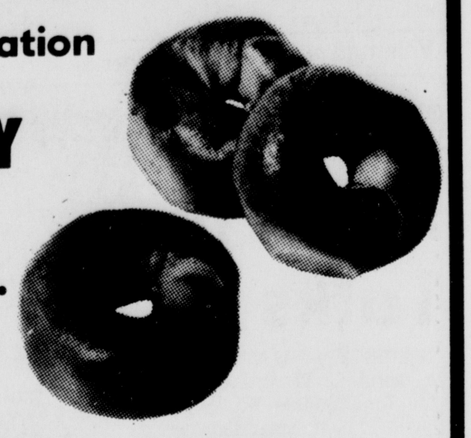

The highway patrol said an eastbound car jumped the medial strip into westbound traffic and touched off the multiple crashes. The driver, identified as Alexander Hodsahayan of St. Louis, was held for questioning, the patrol said.

Rep. Curtis Will Address GOP Dinner

The Pettis County Republican Women's Club is sponsoring a dinner at 6:30 p.m. July 20, at Smith-Cotton cafeteria. The featured speaker will be Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, of the second congressional district of Missouri and Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

In a recent meeting of the club, Mrs. Paul Steinkuhler, president, appointed the following chairmen: Mrs. Hank Monsees, general chairmen; Mrs. Henry Keeler, tickets; Mrs. R. W. Hartman, special music; Mrs. Raymond Wasson, decorations; Mrs. Dean Edwards, menu; Mrs. Zeb Thomas, programs; Mrs. James Atkinson, Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. John Zulauf, Red Carpet Committee.

Tickets are being sold by all Republican committeemen and women, or may be purchased by calling Mrs. Henry Keeler, 826-4187.

Lifesaving Classes

Mrs. Maurice F. Hogan, water safety chairman, has announced tentative dates for Red Cross junior and senior lifesaving classes to be held at Liberty Park pool. Both classes will be given July 22 - Aug. 2. Junior lifesaving will be from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and senior lifesaving 5:15-7 p.m.

Interested persons should enroll in advance at the Red Cross office, 112 West Fourth, phone 827-0618.

Ann Landers

Her Dad's Talks Are Very Limited

Dear Ann Landers: I will be 16 in three weeks. My problem is my father. He has said exactly three things to me in the last five years. Please don't think I am exaggerating because I can tell you what they were.

The day after Christmas in 1963 he said, "Get off your fat rump and clean up the house. Or do you plan to let the boxes and wrapping paper lie around till next year?"

On January 2, 1964 he said, "I don't care if it was our party. Clean up the house."

Three weeks ago he said, "Either get a haircut or roll it up. You look like a witch."

I have tried to start a conversation with him many times but he ignores me or talks to me through someone else. For example, if I say, "How come your sox don't match?" he'll say to my mother, "What is she bugging me about anyway?"

Please tell me how to deal with this problem. When I see other kids carry on conversations with their fathers I get very unhappy. — IGNORED

Dear Ignored: Accept the fact that your father is no communicator — probably never was and never will be. You are not going to change him so you'd better change your attitude. I feel sorry for a man who is so walled off from his children that he can't even speak to them. And one day I hope you will understand how sad this is and that your resentment will turn to compassion.

Dear Ann Landers: I feel like I've been hit by a 10-ton truck. Please help me to understand what has happened to me.

Peter and I went together for nearly three years. We are not teen-agers — far from it. I am 25, Peter is 27. For the past two years I dated him and no one else. So far as I know, he was completely faithful to me also. Last February he gave me a diamond. We planned to be married in August.

We've been apartment hunting and made honeymoon plans. I've been buying linens and china.

Last night after dinner I felt something caught between my two front teeth. I took a toothpick and tried to dislodge what must have been a piece of chicken. Peter suddenly jumped out of his chair and said, "The wedding is off! I could never marry a woman whose manners are so poor that she would use a toothpick in my presence."

He then launched into a how all of a sudden he saw me as I really am — uncouth, coarse, vulgar and "no lady!"

I burst into tears, handed him his ring and he left. Please help me understand. I am in a state of shock. — WILTED ORANGE BLOSSOMS

Dear Wilted: A romance that could be felled by a toothpick wasn't much in the first place.

It should be obvious, even in your state of shock, that Peter used the toothpick episode as an excuse to crawl out of the commitment. Accept the fact that he lacks the maturity for marriage and consider yourself lucky to be rid of him.

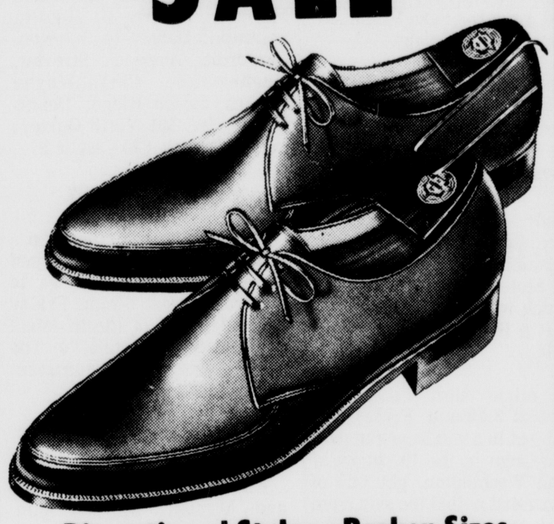

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Accidents

No injuries were reported in a two-car accident in the 300 block of North Hurley at 10:24 p.m. Friday.

Involved were a parked 1968 Rambler, owned by Phillip H. Bergman, 43, 507 West Fifth, and a 1962 Oldsmobile, driven south on Hurley by Sherman O. Frederick, 66, Kansas City.

A 1965 GMC pickup truck, owned by Dwight G. Collister, 26, Route 4, was involved in a hit-and-run accident while it was parked on the Thompson Hills Shopping Center parking lot at 12:00 a.m. Friday.

Damage was to the right front of the pickup.

A car-truck accident occurred at the intersection of Fifth and Lafayette at 11:16 a.m. Saturday.

Involved were a 1948 Chevrolet pickup truck, driven south on Lafayette by Herbert Bodenhamer, 52, 1621 East Ninth, and a 1962 Mercury Comet, driven east on Fifth by Issac E. Warren, 20, 1102 Esst Broadway.

One person sustained apparently minor injuries in a one-car accident in the 2800 block of West Main at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Involved was a 1968 Dodge, driven west on Main by Jack Richard Horner, 25, 160 West Avenue. According to the police report, Horner told police that the accelerator on his car stuck, causing him to lose control of the car, which came to rest in the ditch by the east-bound lane.

Two persons complained of injuries as a result of a three-car accident at Broadway and Barrett about 7:15 p.m. Saturday. Their injuries were not believed serious.

Involved was a 1966 Pontiac convertible driven east by Glenn A. Finnell, 18, 2601 Southwest Blvd., followed by a 1966 Jeep two-door, driven by Harold E. Hines, 51, 818 East Tenth, and a 1968 Ford tudor sedan, driven east by John R. Hicks, Jr., 19, of 119 South Stewart.

Police reported Finnell said he had slowed to make a left turn, Hines reported he had stopped to wait for the car to make the turn. Finnell and Hines both reported hearing squealing tires and then felt their cars being struck. Hicks according to Officer Richard Guymon reported he was headed east and heard a car in back of him making a noise and glanced back. When he signal forward he saw the stopped car but was unable to stop himself.

The rear of the Pontiac was damaged, the front and rear of the Jeep damaged and the front end of the Ford damaged. The latter car was towed away by a wrecker from Parks.

Finnell was taken by a brother to the Bothwell Hospital suffering from shock. Hines complained of a neck injury and reported he would contact his own doctor.

Hicks was issued a police summons to appear in court July 12, Officer Guymon reported.

No injuries were reported and only slight damage resulted to two vehicles in an accident at Broadway and Engineer about 6 p.m. Saturday.

Involved was a 1960 Ford tudor sedan driven west by Phillip F. Poppler, 21, Whiteman AFB, and a 1960 Jeep convertible driven west by William D. Wilson, 238 State Fair Blvd.

According to the police the Jeep was the lead car and had stopped for the traffic signal and the Ford was behind the Jeep. When the signal turned and the cars started up the Jeep rolled backward into the Ford. Slight damage resulted to the front of the Ford and slight damage to the Jeep resulted.

Police Report

Bill Griffith reported to police that vandals broke a window glass at the Gulf service statio, Broadway and Engineer, sometime Friday night.

Mrs. Carrie Cretcher, 1215 South Lamine, reported to police that someone took a large trash car from the above address sometime Friday night.

Andy Kramer reported to police that vandals broke the windshield of a car owned by R & R Motors sometime Tuesday evening while it was parked on the R & R Motors lot on South Limit.

A crime alert caller told police at 8:19 a.m. Friday that a subject in a small car ran over a stop sign in the 100 block of South Washington, got out of the car and pulled the sign from under the car and then drove off.

Georgia Burke, Kansas City, reported to police that someone took her purse from her car while it was parked in the 400 block of East Saline about 5 p.m. Thursday. The purse, minus $10, was later found in the 300 block of East Saline.

A concrete block was thrown through the window of the residence of Ella L. Jones, 312 North Lamine, about 12:15 p.m. Thursday according to police reports.

A storm window and a window glass were destroyed by the unknown vandals.

Shirley Floyd, 308 North Lamine, reported to police that her son, Dylan, 7, was bitten by a dog Friday. Upon investigation, poundmaster Dennis Rogers found that the dog had its rabies shots. Rogers stated that the bite was "just a scratch—it didn't even bring blood".

Magistrate Court

The following persons pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated and were fined $100:

John J. McCall, 1227 West Spring; Carl W. Hoehns, Green Ridge; Raymond E. Terry, Warrensburg.

Johnson, Concordia; Avery A. Streeter, Hughesville; Carl Wayne Hoehns, Green Ridge; Dennis R. Kreisler, 601 North Quincy; Lena M. Crank, 626 East 24th.

Area Fires

A break in an air hose on a tandem tractor-trailer caused an estimated $500 damage to the truck about 8 p.m. Friday 2½ miles east of the Marshall junction on Interstate 70. The Sweet Springs fire department extinguished the fire.

City Fires

Firemen were called to Main and Missouri at 8:51 p.m. Friday. A 1968 Plymouth, owned by Robert Hunt, caught fire when the carburetor apparently overloaded. Damage was listed as slight by firemen.

Firemen were called to 1615 South Carr at 1:52 p.m. Saturday where some light wires were down. There was no fire. The Missouri Public Service was notified.

Firemen were called to the old Katy Shops, 20th and Beacon, at 11:25 a.m. Friday to extinguish a grass fire. Careless handling of matches by children was attributed as the cause of the fire.

Husband is Shot During Argument

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Thomas Sands, 30, of suburban Overland Park, Kan., was shot to death early today in what police said was a family argument.

Authorities are holding Sands wife, Glenda, 27, who told police her husband was beating her up at the time of the shooting. Investigating officers said the woman's clothing was badly torn.

Sands was shot three times with a pistol, police said.

back of the car and pinned by the rear seat.

Bogue was partially pinned in the front part of the car but succeeded in freeing himself to crawl out beside the machine. He was in a semi-conscious condition.

Richard Thomas King, 21, of Knob Noster, who resides at the Rigdon Trailer Court, was enroute east on the highway and was the first to arrive on the scene. He said there was smoke around the car and he was able to reach in turn off the ignition and the headlights and told of Bogne working himself free.

Earl Manley, who has a garage nearby, took his truck to the scene and lifted up the rear of the car in an attempt to free Downing.

The automobile which was demolished was towed to Sedalia by the Parks wrecker.

Downing was born Feb. 15, 1939 in Leeton, son of Edwin La Velle and Ruth G. Sidwell Downing.

He was married to Gwendolyn Anne Downing.

He was a punch press operator at Western Electric.

The body was taken to the Gillespie Funeral Home and later transported to the Hinton Funeral Home, Raytown, where funeral services will be held Monday.

Burial will be in Florial Hill Cemetery, Kansas City.

TO STAY YOUNG KEEP HEALTHY

Some people continuously suffer from minor aches and pains, always feel tired; and try every newly advertised remedy without any permanent relief. Unless they do something about it soon, no matter how young in years they are, they will soon be old. For, to feel young, you have to be healthy.

Such people should place themselves under the guidance of a physician and do everything he suggests. After making certain by examination and tests there is nothing incurably wrong, let the physician specify what medicines to take, the exercises to do and what diet to follow. The odds are good health will come and lasting youth will follow.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine and we will gladly deliver it without charge. If you prefer you may pick it up at our drive up window. We keep accurate records for tax and insurance purposes. We carefully fill welfare prescriptions and deliver or mail free of charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Question What does your membership in the National Funeral Directors Association mean to me?

Answer It used to be said, "What you don't know won't hurt you." But, in today's economy, and especially in the realm . social benefits, what you don't know can be very costly to you! It is to your advantage if your funeral counsellor is aware of benefits due you from Social Security, Veterans Administration, Workmen's Compensation, Civil Service, Public Employees Retirement, Railroad Retirement, and perhaps others.

Our membership in the National Funeral Directors Association is your assurance that we are qualified to safeguard your entitlement to certain death benefit allowances. Changes are being made continuously in these benefits, and through the National Association we are able to maintain a constant awareness of their importance to those we serve.

Alex Rose Given Hero's Welcome

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP) — Alex Rose, the modest vegetableman who sailed alone round the world, was knighted Sir Alec by Queen Elizabeth II Friday. His reaction: "I can't believe it."

The 59-year-old grandfather, who received a hero's welcome from 250,000 when he reached home Thursday, stepped out on the balcony of his store, tears of emotion in his eyes, and waved to crowds chanting "Sir Alec, Sir Alec."

"I feel overwhelmed," he said. "I am proud and honored, especially for the city of Portsmouth."

Rose and his wife Dorothy, who was serving vegetables in the shop Friday, will lunch with the queen at Buckingham Palace Wednesday. There has been no official word on when he will be dubbed a knight, but the ceremony is generally expected to take place then.

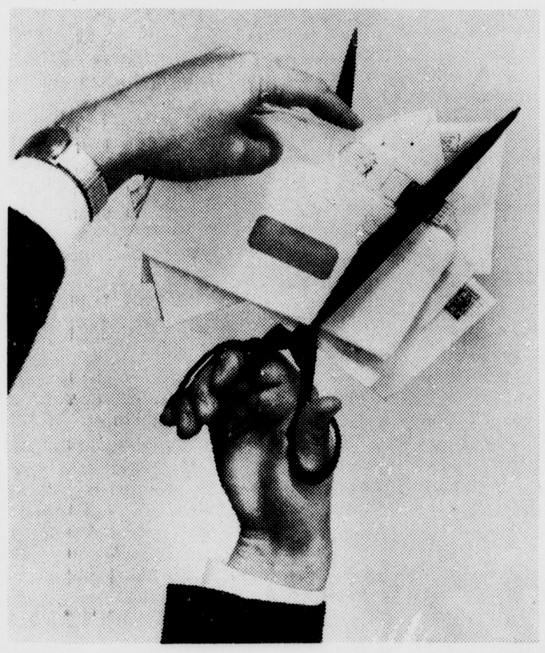

Hundreds of congratulatory messages poured in for Rose, including two from a pair of England's most famous yachtsmen—opposition Conservative leader Edward Heath, a weekend sailor, and Sir Francis Chichester, the first man to sail around the world alone with only one stop.

Rose and Chichester started their voyages at about the same time in 1966 but Rose was forced back three times by accidents and other mishaps. The knighthood award paid tribute to Rose's perseverance.

The announcement from No. 10 Downing Street, London residence of Prime Minister Harold Wilson, said: "The queen has been graciously pleased to approve that the honor of knighthood be conferred upon Mr. Alec Rose. This recognizes the tenacity, skill and courage which he displayed in his single-handed voyage around the world."

Anniversary Gift

Shown above is a miniature house made by the Haggards' children as a gift on their anniversary. It is covered with 50 one-dollar bills.

Haggards Observe 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. T.O. Haggard, 709 West Third, were honored with a dinner Sunday, June 30, at the enclosed shelter house at Liberty Park in observance of their 50 years of marriage. Also the homecoming of their three children, their daughter, Mrs. George E. Wiliams, Albuquerque, N.M., and their twin sons, Robert and Raymond Haggard, both of Lakewood, Calif.

The wedding anniversary was really in March, for Miss Elizabeth Oaks, Sweet Springs, and T. O. Haggard, Saline County, were married on March 12, 1918 in Clinton by the Rev. Arthur M. Linsey. The next week Mr. Haggard entered the armed service. At this time, 50 years ago, he was with the MG Co. the famous 356 Infantry, in Germany.

Mr. Haggard, who worked for an appliance company in sales and collection out of St. Louis, with a territory of 25 states, had lived in Sedalia part of the time. He retired in 1955 and in 1959 they came to Sedalia to reside.

It wasn't possible for their children to be with them in March so the celebration was postponed until last Sunday.

A very different gift the Haggards are proud of is a money house. This was a miniature house made by their children and covered with 50 one dollar bills.

Attending the dinner were 150 relatives and friends. Those from out-of-town were: Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Williams and daughter, Albuquerque, N.M. Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Haggard and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Haggard and two daughters, all of Lakewood, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Williams, Angelton, Texas; Mrs. M.E. Rathburn, son, Eddy and daughter, Myra, Atoka, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mueller, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Tony Thelian and son, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. William Hildebrant and son, Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart, and Mrs. Bea Stewart, all of Belton, Mo.; Clifford Oliver, Jr., San Diego, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. T.P. Toboben and Florence Patterson, all of Independence; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Schindoeff and Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Cooper all of Lenexa, Kans.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kennedy, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kennedy, Jr., both of Raytown; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Smithy Lamb and Miss Irene Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Blanton and family, Mrs. Thelma Oaks and Richard, all of Kansas City and Lloyd Paully, Columbia.

Viet Cong Make a Singer Regret Booking in Vietnam

By PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writer

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — Paula Levine is a winsome, dark-haired 20-year-old entertainer who figured she could make a bigger mark as a pop singer by going to Vietnam than by any other route.

"After all, they told me it wasn't dangerous out here, that nothing would happen to us, and they said there would be plenty of bookings and a lot of exposure," Paula said bitterly as she sat on the edge of an Army hospital bed and clutched her blue gown to her.

That was how "Brandi Perry and the Bubble Machine" was born. Paula—who is "Brandi"—had an audition with an organization handling entertainment in Vietnam and, after she sang a couple of songs, the agent said, "Get yourself a trio, you've got yourself a show."

Blond Jack Bone, 18, joined as an organist. A 17-year-old drummer and a 19-year-old bass player completed the Bubble Machine.

They never had seen each other before May but by June 11, when they arrived in Vietnam for a two-month tour, they were a "happy family," Paula said. "These kids were like my brothers."

On Friday night, the bubble burst.

In a month traveling to bases around Saigon and in the Mekong Delta to the south, the musicians had learned that the GIs they entertained looked forward with great anticipation to the occasional shows that came their way. That is why the group was driving to the coastal resort of Vung Tau in the late dusk Friday.

Highway 15 is notorious for Viet Cong incidents and several persons have been kidnaped along it recently. South Vietnamese militiamen had a roadblock up Friday and the musicians, about halfway to their destination, were told they could not go any farther.

They turned their pickup truck back toward Saigon and were singing to themselves.

"I thought I was hearing things. Then it came," Paula said, her hand twitching nervously.

"I was sitting in the middle of the front seat. The boy on my right was hit in the arm and when I realized that someone was shooting at us I remembered the advice someone gave me when I got here—whenever you hear a crack, duck!"

"I threw myself to the floorboards and as I did so I heard a splintering crash and something hit my back. Later I realized it was the shattering windshield that had hurt me," she said.

Bone, in a back seat, said the headlights picked out five or six people holding guns on the road ahead of them.

"We stopped, or tried to, and the pickup ran off the road," he said. "We thought they were our soldiers firing at us in mistake. Three of us jumped out into the roadway and started shouting that we were Americans and for them to stop firing. They just stood there and fired at us point blank about five yards away.

"A bullet smashed into my hand and knocked me into the ditch. The two other boys were killed."

Also wounded at this time was a young Army sergeant who had volunteered to drive with the group to Vung Tau.

Paula said the guerrillas rummaged through the truck and the three survivors played dead. The guerrillas took wallets, ID cards and airplane tickets the men were carrying but did not touch Paula.

"Maybe they didn't see me," she said. "If they had I think they would have killed me, or at least stolen my jewelry.

"I wore a golden Star of David around my neck that my parents had given me. I would never have let them take that. Up to that moment I had not been very religious," Paula added.

Girls' Auxiliary Crowns New Queen

The Girls' Auxiliary of the Flat Creek Baptist Church held a candlelight coronation service Sunday, June 30.

For passing her first step, thereby becoming a maiden, Tina Wilson was awarded the G.A. charm bracelet and a sterling silver maiden charm: an octogan, foundation for the G.A. emblem.

Beth Bohon and Judy Finley became ladies-in-waiting, and received lady-in-waiting charms — an octagon with a star — to add to their sterling silver charm bracelet.

Five girls passed the step making them princesses. They are Brenda Boatman, Mary Beth DeHaven, Debby Wilson, Terry Wilson, and Kathy Fenley. They defined the goals and ideals of the Girls' Auxiliary and of Christians in general, laying special emphasis on the work of overseas missions. Mrs. Donna Boatman then presented each girl with the princess charm — an octagon with a star and the letters G.A. — in recognition of their new status as princesses.

The highlight of the ceremony was the crowning of Joyce Anderson as G. A. Queen. When called forward, she approached the podium on the arm of Bob Bohon. Billy Garrison, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Garrison, preceded her down the aisle, bearing a white satin pillow on which rested a gilted crown edged in green. Green, gold and white are the G.A. colors.

Joyce recited several lengthy passages of scripture — a small part of the prerequisite of becoming a Queen — and told in her own words the meaning of the church ordinances.

Bob Bohon then removed the crown from the sain pillow, laid the pillow at her feet, and as she knelt upon it, he placed the crown upon her head. Mrs. Boatman presented Miss Anderson with the Queen charm — the complete G.A. emblem: octagon, star, G.A. letters, and green enamel.

The G.A.'s then sang one verse of "A Child of the King," and Mr. Ralph Thomas offered a closing prayer.

Following the ceremony, a small reception was held in the room adjacent to the auditorium. A white sheet cake decorated in green and yellow was served, with lemonade. The table was covered with a white cloth, and was decorated by bowls of yellow roses, candles, punch bowl, and green and yellow napkins.

Hippies Get Police Escort Out of Town

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — A group of 20 hippies, who held a Fourth of July picnic on the Dennis Dews farm northeast of Fulton, were ordered Friday to clean up the mess they made, then leave town.

Three others, Wayne Mistler, Dennis Branneker and another man known only as "Benny," were charged. Magistrate Hugh P. Williamson set preliminary hearings July 23 for Mistler and Branneker.

Mistler was held on $1,000 bond on a charge of indecent exposure, and Branneker on bonds totaling $6,000 on charges of destruction of property and tampering with a motor vehicle.

A John Doe warrant charging destruction of property and tampering with a motor vehicle was issued for the man known as "Benny."

Most of the 23 young men and women were said to be from the St. Louis area. Callaway County authorities said they left the picnic area littered and ruined a 125-year-old log cabin on the farm.

On Magistrate Williamson's orders, officers escorted the 20 persons not charged back to the farm Friday and saw them off after they tidied up the area.

Boy Hit By a Car Dies of Injuries

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 7-year-old boy died of injuries received Friday night when he was struck by a car on the block where he lived.

The victim was Anthony E. Jenkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jenkins. He ran onto the street from between two parked cars, police said.

'Dear Uncle Ho' Letter Sent North By Defectors

SAIGON, (AP) — "Dear Uncle Ho," life in South Vietnam is better than the suffering in the North, says a letter purportedly signed by 55 North Vietnamese defectors and currently being beamed over government propaganda broadcasts.

Addressed to Ho Chi Minh, the 78-year-old North Vietnamese president, the letter was said today to have been signed by 55 former soldiers of the Quyet Thang—Determined to Win—Regiment who volunteered for an infiltration assignment into the South last month.

It is being broadcast by the Voice of Freedom, a government radio station that beams propaganda exclusively to North Vietnam, and by Radio Saigon which reaches listeners in the South.

Saying they wanted to address "some sincere words" to Ho, the defectors, according to the broadcast, wrote:

"With an absolutely zealous patriotism we responded to your appeal by energetically volunteering to go to South Vietnam, kill Americans and save our fatherland and our people from the domination of imperialism.

"We have remembered your advice well. That advice was that when arriving in South Vietnam, we would be heartily welcomed and supported by the people in South Vietnam and that the troops of the South Vietnamese government have been badly demoralized and that if we were captured by them we would be killed immediately.

"But oh, dear Uncle, your advice is contrary to the reality that meets us here. When our troops came to any place here the people abandoned their houses and properties, and then carried their children and evacuated. They ran from us. They also refused to furnish us with supplies and food.

"The soldiers of the ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) have a very high spirit of fighting and were also very kind. They defeated us, but even so gave us kind treatment with humanity... They cared for our wounds and gave us food and recreation and let us watch television, movies and exercise in sport, etc...

"Besides all this we would like to present to you the following: The GVN (government of South Vietnam), ARVN troops and South Vietnamese people have initiated a benevolent open arms policy, welcoming our comrades to rally because of the clemency of this policy.

"The standard of living in South Vietnam is very high. Here people are leading a happy, comfortable and easy life, full of animation. This is quite a difference from the suffering life of the people of North Vietnam.

"We earnestly ask you to think of and have mercy on the young generation and we ask you not to force them to make any sacrifice for you and the (Communist) party any more. At last, we would like to extend our warm concerns for you."

The letter did not say when or where the 55 North Vietnamese capitulated to government forces.

U.S. sources, who provided a copy of the letter, said it was written by one of the 55 defectors and the rest agreed this was what they wanted to say.

Indians Lay Claim To Timber Lands

INDIAN TOWNSHIP, Maine (AP) — About 40 Passamaquoddy Indians have conducted a sit-down demonstration at a logging site in this forested township. The Indians contend the Georgia Pacific Co. is logging on land that is theirs under a 1794 treaty. At issue are 19,000 acres of timber which both parties claim.

Makes His Call, Pays for Damage

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — John F. Buckley found a note with a dime attached to the damaged door of his service station when he opened up Friday.

The note read: "I am sorry that I broke in, but I needed to use the phone. Here is the dime, and I will pay you for the damages later."

There was no signature.

New Release Policy For Vietnam Vets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soldiers returning from Vietnam, Korea or other "short-tour" overseas areas soon will be eligible for up to five months early discharge.

The Army, announcing this Friday, said the new policy will go into effect Aug. 1. Present policy allows early release of up to 90 days.

The Army said "short-tour" areas are those where a man serves less than 18 months if unaccompanied by his family and less than 24 if he has his family along.

"In the past, the majority of individuals assigned to units in the United States, after their return from short-tour areas, have been with their units for too short a time to justify retention on active duty," the Army said in explaining the policy change.

The regulation, however, will not apply to soldiers returning to the United States with more than five months. This will give men serving in Vietnam or South Korea a chance to extend their tours to qualify for early separation, the Army said.

Comic Book Values Increase With Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Comic books that once sold for 10 cents each now are selling for up to $150 at the first International Convention of Comic Art here, which ends Sunday.

In attendance since Thursday have been editors, cartoonists, middle-aged sentimentalists, but mostly teen-agers.

Howard Rogofsky, 21, said he sold a 1939 first edition Marvel Mystery for $330.

Glenn Farley, 15, said, "I like to read old comic books. You get to know what people liked, what they said then."

Man Wanted In Missouri Is Buried

WICHITA (AP) — Marvin L. Fisher, 25, of Monmouth, Ore., who had been wanted in Missouri in connection with a murder, was buried at county expense here Friday. He was shot to death by an officer on a crowded bus last week.

The officers stopped the bus as it entered Wichita after receiving a tip that Fisher and three other persons wanted were aboard. Authorities said Fisher was shot and killed by Sheriff's Lt. Art Stone after Fisher pulled a gun on Sheriff Vern Miller, Stone and other officers.

Fisher and three other persons were wanted at Wentworth, Mo., in connection with the slaying of a farmer. The other three have been returned to Missouri on murder charges.

Slides 13 Floors By Laundry Chute

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank A. Phillips was in the prison ward of Los Angeles County Hospital when he slipped down a laundry chute—13 floors straight down to the basement floor.

Phillips, 29, suffered leg and back injuries in the fall Friday. Authorities said he was trying to escape while being treated for narcotics addiction during a robbery sentence.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

A couple of weeks ago I carried a letter from an "unhappy" father regarding Little League and Offering his criticism of some actions of a certain team. I went so far as not to divulge the name of the team, the sponsor, or the writer and especially his son, but several apparently had it figured out with answers which were tossed at me. They still are not sure, and I expect their guessing was not too close.

I must say several remarks have been made regarding such incidents as these, related in the letter: more cooperation between Little League and the father; emphasis on the fact that the services of the manager or coach are volunteered and donated; requests that the father urge the son to report for practices regularly and that the father help to coach the son in his play at home.

Now, I have received another, in answer to the first, as follows:

I have read your "Sports Scraps" in todays paper, but I wonder if you are fully aware of ALL of the facts. Have you talked to any of the parents of the other boys on this team? Have you; thought about the problems of the manager in seeing that all the boys get to play when there are 15 or 16 boys on a team?

Although I am not connected in any way with Little League, I feel that we have an outstanding operation here. Sure they have problems, but these problems would be a lot less if all parents would pitch in and help when called upon.

Although I have no idea as to who is involved in this, I would bet that this man has never lifted a finger to help with the operation of Little League. If he feels the League has faults, why doesn't he devote some of his time and energies to better it? I doubt if he has so much as ever attended any one of the open meetings that have been held. Probably he can give you a number of excuses why he cannot help, but those interested in the success of the operation put those excuses aside and make time for Little League. Let him get in there and manage or coach a team. Then perhaps he will sing a little different tune.

There are a lot of important things to teach boys, but since when is winning so unimportant?

What is the object of the game? It seems to me that what this man is really saying is "I don't care whether the team wins or loses so long as my boy gets to play." Has he ever worked with his own son to develop his baseball skills? Most managers spend many long hours in practice sessions and yet time is so short. For instance to give each boy; 10 minutes practice would consume about; 2½ hours for the team. Individual instruction by the father could be of great help to the boy by giving him a good deal more practice. Baseball is a competetive sport and the incentive for improving is the ability to better compete with other boys his own age and the chance to play more. Just perhaps it may be that this father is letting his own son down.

If indeed there was profanity, this should not be condoned, but I wonder if this is the case. The managers I have known, with very very few exceptions have been fine gentlemen and my hat is off to them as well as the League Officials for the effort and the many long hours that they DONATE to see that boys have the opportunity to play Little League Baseball. I for one feel they should be commended—not condemned.

"Sig"

P.S. I didn't see anywhere in the article where it said the boy wanted to quit playing Little League Baseball.

———

But I have received another communication—a Des Moines Sunday Register—an article "Over the Coffee" which begins with "When adults take over a kids' game, the first thing they do is draw up a set of complex rules of insure against danger of accidental fun.

"Little League Baseball is a case in point. XXXXX."

I bring this out to point out that not only in Sedalia do we have some criticism over the acts of a few—regardless what a fine program it is there is always some who want to rip it apart. I personally feel that those who donate, volunteer and work in the program are doing the best they can to make it beneficial to these youngsters. If there is any mishandling or misconduct, the men in charge sooner or later will get it corrected.

Regarding the game the first letter referred to about the boy on second base being reprimanded by the manager—incidentally it was his own son, and his son took it like a gentleman, I am told by a parent of one of his little team mates.

It's going back a few years, but my "old school chum" Palmer Nichols dropped by Friday and offered a piece for the Sports Scraps. Nick used to be a "cub reporter" on the Sedalia Capital during the days when the late Roy Morris was news editor. Nick being well known to many of those old-time ball players he wrote many stories about them.

Today his story is about Charles R. "Curly" Brown, and is as follows:

An also forgotten era of Sedalia baseball came to light with the recent death of Charles R. (Curly) Brown, age 79, at his home in Spring Hill, Kan.

Brown, a left-handed pitcher, was one-half of the famous Brown and Brown battery. Drummond Brown, his catcher, was a former member of the Boston Braves, and in many of the games he caught he used the old Braves uniform.

This battery performed in Sedalia in the early 20's with the Sedalia team known as The Nafzigers sponsored by the baking company with Vic Leffler as the president of the club.

Three members of that team are still living in Sedalia; "Dutch" Kirchoffer, Earl "Potts" Evans and Earl Paxton. Members were VanTappan 3b; Clyde McCarthy 2b; Jumbo Wolfe rf; Elmer Dillard cf; Durch Kirchoffer 1f; Earl Paxton ss; Keith Dancy 1b. Evans, Pat Mason, Dode Kneaves, Elmer Hicklin were some of the other players.

Brown while pitching here was famous for his change of pace or slow ball as it was known in those days. Some famous pitchers who pitched against Sedalia during that period were Roy Sanders, Red Shackelford, Claude Hendrix, Spitball Miller and others.

It was at this time in a series against Glasgow with "Red" Shackelford on the mound for Glasgow and Brown for Sedalia that Sedalia secured the services of Roger Hornsby, National League batting champion, for the sum of $500.00 for one game. But the game was postponed because of rain and Hornsby did not get to appear before the Sedalia gans, although the advance ticket sales ran over 3,000.

It was during this era of the Brown and Brown battery that Earl Paxton just out of the Navy joined the Navy joined the Navy joined the team and sixteen chances at shortstop, a record that has never been broken by a Sedalia player.

Steercars did a land-office business on Sundays and holidays and both the Missouri-Pacific and M—K—T Railroads ran excursions to Sedalia to see the Sedalia boys play.

One Memorial Day the game scheduled with St. Joseph of the Western League drew 5,000 paid admissions but this game also was rained out.

"Pop" McGurren led the cheering or razzing for the home-folks and a band was on hand at most of the games as part of the activities. Only one umpire was used in those days and it was the well-known Dick Rohn.

Curley Brown pitched for the St. Louis Browns of the American League and the Cincinnati Reds of the National League and remained in baseball playing, with a number of minor league teams until he retired in 1928. Some handbills advertising the games advised the fans to see the Nafziger team featuring the giant Potts Evans, who the poster said used a telephone pole for a bat. Joe Klugmani, for many years a shortstop in the big leagues, also played a number of games with the Sedalia club.

A fabulous era of baseball gone but not forgotten by some.

The Sedalia Country Club Medal Championship played last Sunday saw Jim Buchanan, former club champion, winning with a 77-77-154, wich entitled him to "top billing" over the "rabbit show" this year. A couple of years ago a rabbit show drew headlines and Buchanan winning the club title drew a smaller head of which we have constantly been reminded about.

Buchanan was pushed all the way during this recent tournament by Earl Finley who finished with a 77-78 for 155 and John Rudd Van Dyne who scored a 77-79 for 156.

It is noticeable that all three top players made the first 18 holes in 77 while Buchanan didn't falter in the second go-round on the 18 maintaining a consistent scoring while Finley dropped back one stroke and Van Dyne two.

Top Cheerleaders

Sacred Heart's Gremlin Cheerleaders have won another grand championship at the 11th Annual Arkansas State University Cheerleader Clinic, Jonesboro, Ark., held June 23 through the 28. The six girls won the 1968 title in the "small" division of the clinic for teams with six or less girls. The six happy girls who brought back the championship shown in one of their cheerleading formations are: Mary Beth Bazin in front with their trophy and four blue ribbons, Jackie Myers, captain next; Cass Keist, and Teresa Hogan standing. On the left is Marlyn Gibson and on the right Carolyn Stretz. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Gremlin Cheerleaders Take First In Clinic

Cheerleaders yelled and cheered their way to another Arkansas State University Cheerleader Clinic Grand Championship.

This marks the second time in three years the Gremlin cheerleaders have taken the top honors.

Led by captain Jackie Myers and senior Carolyn Stretz, the sextet earned four 1st place ribbons and a third place finish in the daily competition which was more than enough for the cli nic's top honors.

Other members of the group besides captain Myers and Miss Stretz, are Marlyn Gibson, Cas Kneist, Teresa Hogan, and Mary Beth Bazin. The event was held for the 11th time and the locals made their appearance in the final week, June 23 through June 28, of the three-week program.

In the small group of six or less cheerleaders, 22 schools participated. The total clinic featured more than 1,400 students from some 12 states.

It was not only a hard road to attaining their peak performance in couping the honors, with nightly practices at Liberty Park, but the girls also included some road work.

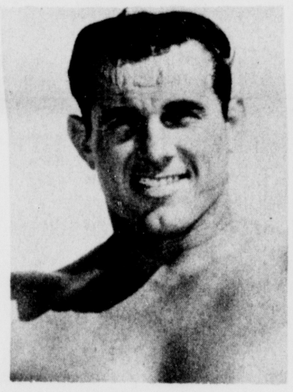

The road work was not athletic. It was instead painting street numbers on the curbs to raise money for the expenses of uniforms and the trip to the Jonesboro, Ark. campus.

Captain Myers remarked, "We'd like to thank all the people who let us paint street numbers on their curb in Sedalia. For without their help the trip would not have been possible.

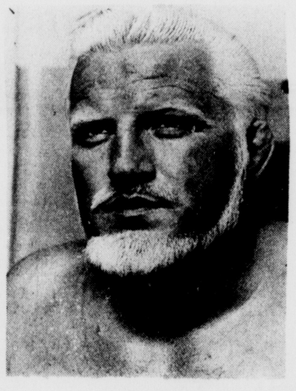

The girls are now planning their vocal support of the Gremlin team in the sports of soccer and basketball.

Week after next the junior-varsity cheerleaders of Sacred Heart will travel over to Warrensburg for more clinics and workshops.

Cheerleaders from Warsaw High School took honorable mention in the same category.

Bob Ellis

The Viking

Ellis Will Oppose Powerful Viking

Stylish Cowboy Bob Ellis, fresh from a victory over Natureboy Kirby, faces another rough assignment here Tuesday night when he goes opposite the powerful Viking.

The best-of-three-falls pairing will headline a four-event program at Convention Hall.

Ellis challenged the Viking to the showdown as part of his campaign to meet the rowdiest heavyweights in the area during the summer months.

"I'm confident I can handle the Viking," Ellis commented. "He was lucky in getting by Ronnie Etchison last week, but had to have assistance of Bob Brown to do it. We'll see how effective the Viking and his thumb jab are when I go against him Tuesday. They can throw the rules out the window because I intend to do everything I have to do to beat him."

By popular demand, the midgets will be back in ring action Tuesday. They'll be pairing in team battling, each siding with a girl wrestler. For that event, Lord Littlebrook will join Jean Antone to meet Kay Noble and her midget partner, Little Bruiser.

Kirby will be on hand to tackle Etchison in another event that promises to set a jolting pace.

Matched in the opener are Noble and Antone.

State Babe Ruth Tourney Is Set

The Missouri State Senior Babe Ruth Tournament is slated for Liberty Park this coming weekend with six teams entered. The Sedalia senior team will host the tournament which includes Columbia, Clinton, Houston, Tri-County, and Boonville.

The tournament opens this Friday afternoon and the first day schedule starts at 1 p.m. between Columbia and Clinton; second game 3 p.m. Houston vs Tri-County; 7 p.m. Sedalia vs Boonville; 9 p.m. winner of the first game vs. winner of the second game.

Saturday games: 1 p.m. loser first game vs. loser of the fourth game; 3 p.m. loser of game two vs loser of game three; 7 p.m. winner of game three vs winner of game four; 9 p.m. winner of game five vs winner of game six.

Sunday games: loser of game seven vs winner of game eight at 1 p.m. ; 3 p.m. winner of game seven and winner of game nine. Should another game be played it will be at 7 p.m.

The Sedalia team, composed of selections from various teams in the Senior League, is as follows: Dave Nash, Lanny Terry, Jerry Morris and Ken Hampy, from the Broadway Realty; Pete Green of Pepsi Cola; Larry Brownfield and Alan McCurdy, Veterans of Foreign Wars; all pitchers. The following are infield and outfielders: Ed Ream, Rick Mills and Darrell Mathews of Broadway Realty; Larry Nevill, Gary Eck, Jerry Bratton, and Pat Woods of V.F.W.; George Williams, Mike Krienke and David Pirtle of S and M Sporting Goods Co.; Mike Robertson of Pepsi Cola.

Carl Walker is managing the team and Dale Brown is a coach.

The visiting teams, like Sedalia, will be bringing to Sedalia the "cream of the crop" from their own leagues, assuring baseball fans some fine baseball on the diamond.

Cason In Action

Here is one of many saves that goalie Paul Cason No. 21 came up with in defending the Sedalia Junior Kicker's goal in the Sedalia Junior Cup last fall. In the championship game, won by Sedalia over Tower Heating of St. Louis, Cason was credited with 24 saves. The 17-year-old graduate of Smith-Cotton High School will be attending Evangle College this fall and playing soccer for the Crusaders.

Cason Signs Letter To Attend Evangel

Coach Paul Peak of Evangel College in Springfield announced over the weekend that Sedalia's Paul Cason has signed a soccer letter of intent to attend the college this fall.

Cason is the son of Mr. & Mrs. William Cason, 517 W. Jefferson.

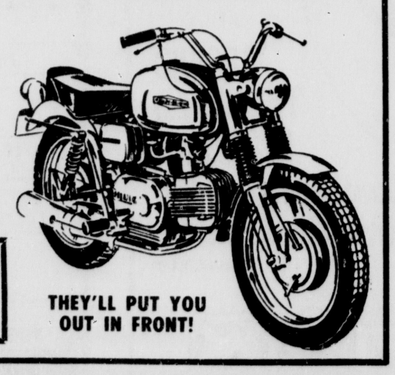

Goal tending has been Cason's speciality in his five years of playing soccer in the Sedalia Khoury Soccer Assoication. Last season he played with the Sedalia Junior kickers, minding the nets in their upsets over two St. Louis squads to capture the Sedalia Junior Cup.

Coach Peak, in making the announcement, commented, We know what Paul can do in the nets as he held us to but one goal in our match with the kickers in Sedalia last fall. Though there might be more experienced goalies in the Mo-Kan College League, there are none with his quickness and agility. The thing we like is that he can also play creditably at the halfback spot, and he comes off a team that has been well-coached and that has played strong college and amateur competition. I think he can help us be a winner."

This will mark the first player from the Sedalia Khoury Soccer League to receive a college scholarship. The program was started some five years ago through the efforts of Paul Klover and now boasts a membership of some 500 players and 30 teams.

Sedalia Junior Kicker coach Jim Koerner, remarked, "I'm very happy for Paul. He served as captain for the team and his play and spirit were big factors in the teams showing and drive in winning the cup. He will be playing for a fine young coach in Paul Peak and a league that has produced an NAIA Soccer Championship, not to mention five draft choices of the North American Soccer League. Maybe in four years that will be Paul's next stop."

Area Tennis Tournament Scheduled

Interested Sedalia area tennis players should begin preparing for the annual Central Missouri Tennis Association Tournament to be held on Saturday and Sunday, July 27th and 28th, on the Stephens College courts in Columbia.

Cities represented in the Central Missouri Tennis Association are Sedalia, Marshall, Mexico, Moberly, Jefferson City and Columbia.

Trophies will be awarded for first, runner-up, and consolation place in singles and for first and runner-up in doubles. In addition, the Bowers Memorial Trophy will be awarded to the singles winner and the Modlin Memorial Trophy will be awarded to the doubles winners.

Entrance fees are three dollars for singles and two dollars each for doubles. This year balls will be furnished by the association.

Matches will be drawn at the time of payment on the Stephens College courts at 9 a.m. Saturday, July 27th.

For every eight entrants, there will be two seedings.

For further information please contact Dave Sterling, 443-8553, or Joe Crowson, 449-5047, in Columbia.

Babe Ruth Will Oppose Seniors

Tonight the Babe Ruth All-stars will play the Senior Babe Ruth team at Liberty Park at 8 p.m.

The game will see some of the best Babe Ruth baseball teams ever assembled on the Liberty Park field in action.

An admission charge of $1.00 will be asked. These monies keep the Sedalia baseballers in uniforms and supply other baseball equipment.

City Independents Will Oppose Emma

The Sedalia Independents softball team will play the Emma Supers at Centennial Park Sunday in a double-header beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Emma is known to field a fast team. Warneke and Chandler will pitch for the Independents, with Estes Cramer on the receiving end.

The Independents are staffed by college youths home for the summer — a good game is in store for the fans.

On July 10, the Sedalia club will play the International Shoe Co. from Marshall in another double-header at Centennial Park. The first game opens at 7:30 p.m.

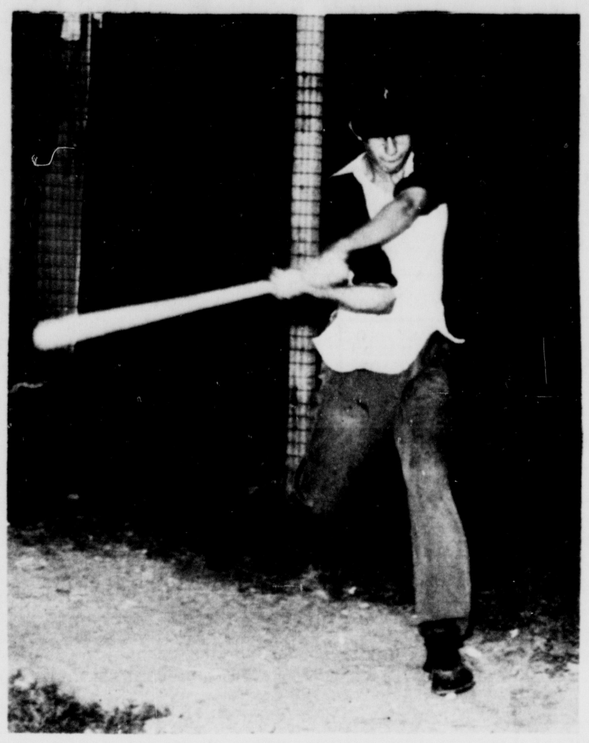

The Sedalia club is completing their schedule with surrounding towns.

Linebacker Signs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frank Buncom, standout linebacker with the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League for the last six years, has signed with the Cincinnati Bengals of the AFL.

Buncom, a free agent, was an all-AFL selection last year, marking the fourth time in his career that he had been so designated. He played college football at Southern California

The Babe Ruth managers were kept busy for over two hours Friday selecting the 1968 Babe Ruth All-stars, and decided on reportedly one of the best teams yet.

Each team manager selected the boys that he felt were of all-star material about three weeks ago. A total of 30 boys reported for practice the following Friday. Out of these the all-star team was selected.

It was made clear to the all-star nominees that even if they were not chosen and showed they could excel an all-star material they would be given consideration. Two of the boys selected for the final team were chosen by this means.

The final selections were nip and tuck, so close in fact that the managers had to cast ballots eight times and finally decide by a show of hands.

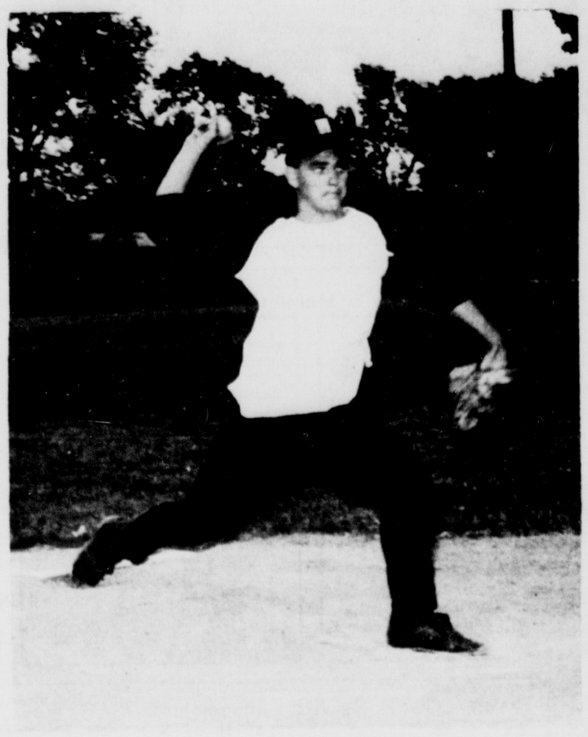

After the two-and-one-half hour decisive meeting the following 14 boys and two alternates were picked for the 1968 Babe Ruth All-star team:

Bob Geotz, 15, McCown Brothers; Bob Pledge, 15; Coca-Cola; Chuck Huddleston, 15; Coca-Cola; Steve Eck, 15; Machinists; Jim Lewis, 15, Walker Publishing; Larry Vanderpool, 15, Machinists; Steve Gerlez, 15, Rotary; Dennis McFarland, 15, 15, Rotary; Ty Wood, 14, Adco; Sam Gravitt, 15, Coca-Cola; Rick Burlingame, 15, McCown Brothers; David Gunn, 15, Optimist; Greg Moyer, 14, Machinists; Steve Holmes, 15, Coca-Cola. William Smith and Mike Arnold were selected as alternates.

Dave Kirby is manager for the team with Charlie Huddleston coaching. When Kirby was asked what the chances are for the '68 All-stars going to the World Series he said, "It all depends on how bad the boys want to win and how they play baseball for the next two months.

"They are a fine group of boys and they all have a lot of determination, which is about all a manager can ask for. It people keep backing the boys and let them know that they are 100 per cent behind them then our chances are that much better.

"I am sure we can go to the Oregon World Series and we have the material for it."

One of Finest

Shown above is Steve Eck, 15, a pitcher on the Babe Ruth All-star team. Eck is considered by some as one of the finest pitchers ever to come out of Sedalia Babe Ruth. Steve is batting .368 and leading the league in home runs with four.

All-Star Catcher

Larry Vanderpool, 15, will fill the catchers position on the 1968 Babe Ruth All-star team. Larry is expected to give the team the added push to take them to the Babe Ruth World Series. He is batting .344.

Sedalians Among Top In Ban Johnson Baseball

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Columbia's Butch Davis holds the batting lead in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League after the first month of the season according to statistics released today by the league.

Davis, a shortstop, has a .552 batting mark on 12 hits in 23 trips to the plate. The 5-11 hustler also is tied for the most runs scored with 11 and has 8 runs batted in.

Jefferson City's Steve Slaughter is second in batting with .476, followed by teammate Randy Ketchum at .435 and Columbia's Roger Wehrli with .429. Centralia's Larry Coil is next with .425 followed by Ray Forrest of Tipton with .381.

Denny Alberts of Jefferson City and Davis have scored 11 runs while Coil tops the circuit in hits with 14. Davis and Butch Rozier of Sedalia have 12.

Jefferson City's Charley Crede, the 1967 batting leader, tops the runs batted in after the first month with 13. Coil, Dean Akins of Tipton and Tom Kivett of Sedalia have 11.

Coil, a stocky catcher, leads in triples with three.

Dennis Droege of Marshall is the top pitcher with a 4-0 mark while Gary Schmidt of Marshall is 3-1 along with Sedalia's Mike Kraxberger. Mitchell Calvin of Jefferson City is 2-0.

Centralia's Rich Loehning has worked the most innings, 58, and has also lost the most games, 6. Droege leads in ERA with a fine 1.21 effort while Kelly Whitaker is second with 1.47 and Calvin third with 1.50. Both are from Jefferson City.

Dorege also holds the lead in strikeouts with 71 in 44 1-3 innings of work. Kraxberger has fanned 54 in 33 innings.

Jefferson City and Marshall tangle in the feature game Sunday at Marshall. After a 2-0 win from Tipton Wednesday, Marshall leads the league with a 7-1 mark. Jefferson City is second with 5-1.

Other games Sunday are Sedalia at Tipton and Columbia at Boonvile.

Why Mothers Grow Gray---Children 'Learn' About Sex

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

The six children are offspring of young parents who are all well-heeled as they are well-informed, residents of a wealthy suburb.

It was a 5-year-old girl who exploded the volcano. Tearfully, she came home from playing with the other children to announce she'd been prevented from having a baby that afternoon. "I was in the hospital," she said, "I was lying down in the crate behind Billy's garage waiting to have the nicest baby when Billy and Roger started fighting again about who was to make me have it."

Her mother paled, "What was that you said, dear?" she asked.

Her child burst into open tears. "Billy and Roger fight so much about what daddies do to mommies to make them have babies that we don't have any babies any more," she sobbed.

Phones began ringing. Horrified mothers, their heads reeling with visions of infant sex orgies behind Billy's garage, made frantic queries of small sons and daughters. It was Roger who put the top back on the volcano. Asked exactly what it was that daddies must do to make mommies have babies, he said:

"They have to give them flowers. They have to take them flowers to the hospital. But Billy wants to make all the girls have his babies. He won't let me stick any flowers in the crate to make them have my babies."

The birth-rate, I'm glad to say, has risen again in the crate behind Billy's garage. Conscience-stricken mothers are seeing to it that small sons get turns at fathering babies by shoving flowers through its palings to small girls inside of it. It is psychiatrist Dr. Hilde Bruch who writes:

"What a child learns about sex from other children, even though it may be incorrect, may better satisfy his curiosity because it is more in keeping with his own current notions. There is cause to wonder whether the fact that parents have taken over sex instruction may have deprived children of something essentially necessary, namely—to learn about sex as a shared experience with their contemporaries. This learning seems to be more valid if the confidante . . . is somebody like one's self, not an adult who no longer grasps the child's sense of mystery."

Kennedys: Born to Violence

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Writer

NEW ROSS, Ireland (AP) — From the ballads, poems and history—however doubtful or imaginary—it seems clear the Kennedy's of Ireland were born to violence.

There always have been Kennedys and O'Kennedys in Ireland. They've known the Vikings, the Normans, Cromwell and their own civil strife.

There are 18,000 Kennedys today. About 200 of them claim some sort of kinship with the Boston Kennedys. They are all located around Wexford, New Ross and Dunganstown in three branches—the Kennedys, the Ryans and the Kirwans.

There is lots of Kennedy blood in the soil of the hills and valleys of County Wexford, the area that produced the founder of the family of the murdered President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

This whole area 100 or so miles south of Dublin along the coast near where the Irish Sea joins the Atlantic was always a target for bloodshed and the ballads sing not only of heroics, courage, imagination, ambition, but also tragedy.

The earliest recorded history in the Boston Kennedy's ancestors deals directly with violence.

Records in New Ross confirmed by historian Henry Finnegan tell of the 1798 rebellion in which several thousand Irishmen were killed.

A Kiss for Kennedy

When John F. Kennedy visited the homestead of his ancestors in Dunganstown, Ireland, in 1963, he was greeted warmly by his cousin, Mrs. Mary Ryan, which brought this smile to his face. (AP)

It was a direct result of poverty. The British nobles and even some of their Irish supporters put on tax squeezes, seized land from many farmers, ousted tenants and brought this whole area into a state of uncontrollable ferment. The climax came at Vinegar Hill, near Enniscorthy where the remnants of the rebels had gathered for a last ditch fight.

Led by a priest, Father Murphy, they charged with only simple pikes and it was their doom.

Two of them were brothers, John and Patrick Kennedy of Dunganstown. John was fatally wounded. Patrick helped him, brought him down to the river Barrow and there managed to get back to the Dunganstown homestead only to find his brother had died.

Patrick went back to his farming.

His son, also Patrick, grew up on that Dunganstown farm.

One summer day in 1848, the son decided he had had enough of Ireland. It was a terrible time for the Irish, the potato crops had failed. There was little food, little reason for joy. Patrick Kennedy was better off than most. His family had about 80 acres, mostly barley, and some cattle, and were by standards of that day people of substance.

But many others were leaving for the New World out of sheer desperation.

So Patrick joined the immigrant flood—to found the dynasty which has become an integral part of recent American history.

Clearly, this family history was handed down to John F. Kennedy and Robert F. Kennedy. As a young congressman in 1947, John came to Dunganstown which now was but a series of three or four farms—not really a town. He walked into the farmhouse and said:

"I'm John Kennedy from Boston, I believe this is the old Kennedy Homestead."

Old Jim Kennedy, now 70, recalls that John carried with him a letter from "Aunt Maggie" directing him to the spot.

The homestead contains Mrs. Mary Ryan who is Jim's sister, her daughter Josie and Josie's husband of three years, Patrick Grennen.

They received John F. Kennedy, the President, in the 1963 visit which raised Irish emotion to fever pitch and made every Irishman feel ten feet tall.

Several days after Robert Kennedy's assassination, a busload of school children accompanied by several nuns paid a brief visit and Mrs. Ryan received them like a duchess. When they left, she talked about the latest Kennedy tragedy.

"I heard about it on the radio at 9 o'clock in the morning after I had come from Mass," the Widow Ryan said quietly.

"All I could say was, 'He's with God now'."

"I last heard from Robert at Christmastime. They always remember us on such occasions."

Irish television brought the scenes of Robert's funeral and Mrs. Ryan saw them on the set she recently acquired.

When she heard that the Kennedy children had all participated in their father's funeral, she said: "That is right. Children must learn early to be strong and brave."

The whole area now is replete with John F. Kennedy streets, plaques or monuments but the biggest of all is the 410-acre Kennedy Memorial Park near Dunganstown.

It is an arboretum established by Ireland and the Irish-American Society, dedicated only this spring. It stretches atop the hills with a grand vista toward the Waterford harbor. Trees from all the nations of the world are being planted there. The buildings are low and stark in simplicity and outside is a circular granite monument on which John F. Kennedy's inaugural speech quotation is chiselled: "Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country."

It'll be 10 or 20 years before the park can truly be appreciated. But already it is mightily impressive and is attracting hundreds of visitors daily, as many as five or six thousand on Sundays.

There is a grass roots movement to do something to commemorate Robert Kennedy but this is in the unofficial talk stage. It undoubtedly will take some concrete form however, for everyone in County Wexford be he O'Brien or Fogarty or Callahan or Fitzgibbon, regards himself as a Kennedy.

World's Week in Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was an unfortunate week for flying airplanes. Two American commercial airliners were hijacked over Florida and forced to land in Cuba, and a troop-carrying jetliner on its way to Vietnam via Japan was ordered down on a Soviet island in the North Pacific.

The Soviet government acted with unexpected promptness in releasing the airliner, and the 231 Americans aboard, two days after MIG fighter planes forced it to land on a Soviet-held island in the Kuriles. The plane was allowed to continue its way to Japan on Wednesday, with the 214 U.S. troops on board completing the trip to Vietnam.

There was still some dispute about whether the plane violated Soviet air space. The Soviet Union said it did and the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration concluded the plane's crew made a navigational error. The State Department apologized. But at a Tokyo news conference, the pilot, Capt. Joseph Tosolini, said: "I did not stray over Russian territory."

In other high-flying adventures, two jetliners were taken to Havana at gunpoint within 48 hours. They were the sixth and seventh planes hijacked there this year.

Last Saturday, a plane bound for Key West, Fla., was diverted to Cuba by a gun-wielding passenger listed on the flight manifest as E. H. Carter. The 14 kidnaped passengers returned to U.S. soil Monday, leaving behind the hijacker and the plane's pilot, George Prellezo, who was jailed for defecting from Cuba in 1960. Prellezo is a naturalized American citizen with a wife and five children in Miami.

On Monday evening, a Minneapolis-to-Miami flight was detoured by a man who charged into the cockpit of the plane with a gun and shouted: "Go to Cuba! Go to Havana!" The plane was allowed to return Tuesday, but without its 87 passengers, who came back later in the day in a mercy plane chartered by the U.S. State Department.

In what was described as the most important disarmament accord since the dawn of the nuclear age, the United States and the Soviet Union and some 60 other nations signed a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. The pact pledges nuclear powers not to supply atomic weapons to nonnuclear states and the nonnuclear countries pledge not to acquire them.

During the historic signing at the White House, with parallel ceremonies in Moscow and London, President Johnson announced that the United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to start talks "in the nearest future" on curbing the costly missile-antimissile race between the two nuclear superpowers.

U.S. combat casualties last week dropped to the lowest total since last January, with 187 Americans killed. U.S. intelligence sources reported they were puzzled by the current lack of enemy activity around Saigon, since another attack was expected early in July. But they cautioned that the Viet Cong, which has declared there will be new attacks on Saigon, could still strike.

———

James Earl Ray, accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., will be coming back to the United States for trial. A British court approved the U.S. government's request for extradition Tuesday and gave Ray 15 days to appeal the decision. The prime evidence submitted in the extradition hearing was testimony of an FBI fingerprint expert that Ray's prints were found on a rifle that authorities in Memphis, Tenn., consider was used by King's killer last April 4. Conviction on a murder charge in a Tennessee court would mean a sentence to death by electrocution.

Hecklers prevented George C. Wallace from speaking at a political rally in Minneapolis Thursday night. Wallace, former governor of Alabama, is running for the presidential nomination on the American Independent party, a newly-formed third party. President Johnson condemned the protest demonstration as "the antithesis of what we began 192 years ago today."

Vice President Hubert Humphrey, campaigning for the Democratic nomination for president, outlined his program to revitalize American cities and made a Fourth of July speech at Independence Hall in Philadelphia. Rival candidate Sen. Eugene McCarthy wooed the farm vote in an Iowa speech.

Former Vice President Richard Nixon's campaign for the GOP presidential nomination gained impetus with favorite son Sen. John Tower of Texas releasing that state's delegation and predicting that the move will result in a first-ballot nomination for Nixon. Another Republican presidential hopeful, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, offered in a statement a broad program of increased consumer protection.

A gunman in New York's Central Park shot to death a 20-year-old woman and then fought a gun duel with police until he was killed. Two officers and a bystander were wounded. President Johnson, in Washington at the time of the shootings Wednesday, expressed horror and called anew for gun control laws "to protect the American people against insane and reckless murder by gunfire."

———

.. QUOTE OF THE WEEK: ..

"This treaty is the most important international agreement since the beginning of the nuclear age."—President Johnson, signing the nonproliferation treaty, a pact aimed at outlawing the spread of nuclear weapons.

His experiences in Spain during the Spanish Civil War inspired Ernest Hemingway to write "For Whom the Bell T[illegible]."

'Bad Record' Of Ordaining U...S. Negroes

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The record of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States in the ordination of Negroes has been termed "embarrassingly bad" and the outlook for the immediate future in St. Louis was called "very bleak."

The dim assessment of the church's record was made in a report by five priests to the St. Louis Archdiocesan Commission on Human Rights.

Msgr. Patrick J. Malloy commented that Negroes have been "systematically refused ordination" by the U.S. church.

Any shortcuts to help repair the situation, such as lowering standards, were called "totally unacceptable."

"To lower standards for Negroes would tend to confirm the notion that Negroes are inherently inferior," the report decided.

It was estimated that only 175 of 1,500 Negro seminarians in the United States have been ordained. The report added that more than two-thirds of these are in religious orders rather than diocesan priests.

Pueblo Wife Hits Attitude Of Government

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Rose Bucher, wife of the commander of the USS Pueblo, wrote to the family of a crewman aboard the captured vessel here, saying:

"I am fed up with the do-nothing attitude of the State department" and offering her assistance to the families of the crew in carrying their fight to the proper authorities for the return of the men taken Jan. 25 by North Koreans.

The John C. Higgins family, whose son John Jr., was on the Pueblo, said Mrs. Bucher enclosed a booklet, "The Spirit of America" and a car bumper sticker with the legend, "Remember The Pueblo."

She told the family she hoped they would find some comfort from reading the booklet and urged them to continue to pray for the release of the crew of the Pueblo, commanded by L. M. Bucher. She said she received about 100 letters a day from Americans concerned over the Pueblo incident.

Hope That New Outlook Means Return to Sanity

EDITOR'S NOTE—Forty three persons died in racial rioting in Detroit last July. A year later there is still fear and apprehension—and more people have guns than ever before. But a lot of positive things have been done in Michigan to smooth over racial relations, and since the murders of Martin Luther King and Robert F. Kennedy the gun craze may be dying

By HUGH MORGAN and BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writers

DETROIT (AP) — "This home is not armed."

That simple proclamation, borne by signs appearing in a small but growing number of houses, stands in silent dispute with those who flock to what Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh calls "the arms race" in Detroit.

It is, Cavanagh said, the kind of thing he hoped for weeks ago when he pleaded with gun-buying Detroiters to "return to sanity."

The craze for guns among whites and Negroes in the nation's fifth-largest city and its suburbs shows only slight signs of flagging, but another reaction is setting in.

This new reaction, says the New Detroit Committee, has produced "solid signs of hope" that Detroit, where 43 died in a riot last July, can be spared another summer of fire.

The committee, established last August to coordinate efforts to solve racial problems, says, "Only through massive attitudinal change can any significant improvement be achieved in the nation's cities."

There are indications that such change is developing in Detroit in small ways, tentatively, far short of the massive doses the committee says are needed, but at least headed in that direction.

Industry and government efforts continue and with some promising results. "The hard-core unemployed not only are employable, but some of them are winning promotions," said a spokesman for Ford Motor Co.

Dwight Havens, president of the Detroit Board of Commerce, says programs since last July have strengthened "bridges of communications" between whites and Negroes. He credits this with keeping Detroit basically calm while looting and destruction hit other major U.S. cities after the murder of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

Cavanagh, who publicly supported Sen. Robert Kennedy for the presidency, said the murders of Dr. King and Sen. Kennedy caused "shock and shame" in Detroit, but even deeper, they brought a realization between the black and white communities that "extremism in either direction was not a solution. People in Detroit now see that they must work together and must listen to each other if the problems of this community are to be solved. Even the suburbs, which have for so long shunned involvement in the problems of this city are showing a new willingness to devote time and effort to the problems of the central city."

Now small neighborhood groups, sometimes a single individual, are nurturing budding efforts to build harmony, to repudiate the burgeoning quest for guns, or both.

"This home is not armed" appears in the window or door of more than 2,000 houses in the Detroit area, the signs distributors say. If the demand continues at its present pace, the total soon will edge past 3,000, and the campaign already has spread far from the neighborhood that originated it.

There are other examples:

—Mrs. Edward Watt, a white resident of Warren, a Detroit suburb, led a fund-raising drive that netted $11,000 to be spent to improve understanding between whites and Negroes. She gave $2,500 of the money to help a Negro adult education program in Detroit develop a library on Negro history.

Warren, which is almost all-white, has about 100,000 residents and has been in the fore among whites organizing for possible racial trouble, including the formation of a "militia" to meet any invaders at the city limits.

Also in Warren, nearly 2,000 persons signed a newspaper advertisement titled "a voice of support" to encourage a racially mixed family to stay in Warren. The family had decided to leave because of harassment by whites.

—Archbishop John F. Dearden of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit, which includes 1.5 million Catholics in an eight-county area that includes the Motor City, has pledged $1 million for a "campaign designed to root out white racism, to win housing acceptance for Negroes and to bring direct help to those trapped by ghetto life."

Young Detroit businessmen have formed Men United for Sane Thought (MUST). Their project, financed by $4,000 contributed by eight members is to cool the arms race through an antigun advertising campaign that is being developed.

"Keeping up with the Joneses this summer could cost you your life," says the advertisement, remarking that with the Joneses "this year it's guns."

"Look," says the adverisement. "No one knows what'll happen in the city this summer. Hopefully nothing. But we all know what might happen in a suburban home filled with lethal weapons. All it takes is a sleepy wife. A nervous neighbor. A curious child. And a loaded gun."

The New Detroit Committee sees such programs as healthy and promising indications of determination to overcome the racial ills that beset the city.

But Detroit's efforts have come not only from private individuals and the ranks of the clergy, but also from big business in an assault against the obstacles faced by an inner-city Negro seeking work.

Seventeen companies in Detroit have hired more than 55,000 people since last Aug. 1 when they were asked to help provide jobs to alleviate joblessness in the Negro areas and other parts of Detroit.

The automobile manufacturers led the way, with General Motors hiring 19,640 persons, including 7,347 nonwhites. Ford hired 4,600 persons directly through antipoverty centers in Detroit areas most heavily populated by Negroes. Chrysler hired 10,000 persons, with 6,000 of them from inner-city areas.

"It's been very successful on the whole," said a Ford spokesman. Adds General Motors: "The percentage of these people who don't stay is about the same as the rate for anybody else hired off the street."

Board of Commerce President Havens said the major employers in the Detroit area "are doing an excellent job. Now the big chore is to get smaller companies, those with 50 to 200 employes, to hire from the inner city."

For many Negro residents who land jobs, one debilitating factor of their lives is their homes, many of them old apartment buildings infested with rats and roaches. Many Negroes claim they can get no better housing because of a shortage of funds, or the refusal of realtors to sell them newer houses in white neighborhoods, or both.

While open housing proposals, may eventually alleviate this problem, and the determination of big businesses in the Detroit area to hire the inner-city poor will help, Havens said other remedial action must be taken soon.

"Detroit has hardly given any attention to its housing code since 1917," Havens said. "This allows inadequate housing conditions to develop."

He said the Board of Commerce and city planners are drafting proposals to improve the code, and Chrysler has assigned one of its $40,000-a-year engineers to help with the task.

Cavanagh's budget proposed for fiscal 1968-69 calls for construction of more than 700 housing units, but the record $460-million budget proposal can't be financed without increases in the city's property tax and income tax.

The desire for guns, however, has not ended.

Registration of pistols has jumped by leaps and bounds. There were 1,090 registrations last January, up from 626 the previous January, and February's total was 1,421, more than double the 662 registered in February 1967.

On a statewide basis, State Police report 59,910 handguns have been registered in Michigan through May 31 compared with 29,968 registered at the same time in 1967.

The State Police say, however, there has been a slight levelling off in gun registrations in June from between 600 to 800 a day to about 500 a day.

Because of fears of racial strife, Detroit and the surrounding cities set up rumor control centers, planned steps for alerting each other in case of trouble, urged an end to the gun-buying splurge and assured the populace that police officials can handle any civil disorders.

In Detroit, efforts also are under way to change the attitudes that lead to trouble between police and those who live in the slums.

Still, the need for Negroes in Detroit's police force is strong, Cavanagh said, and he has ordered stepped-up efforts to recruit 600 Negroes for the department.

Prior to 1965, Negroes comprised less than 5 per cent of new recruits for the Detroit force of 4,200, which is about 500 below authorized strength. In 1965, the new recruits were 8 per cent Negro, 12 per cent in 1966 and 22 in 1967.

This is far short, however, when compared to the Negro proportion of Detroit's population: About 35 per cent of the 1.6 million Detroiters.

Cavanagh's budget proposal includes planned pay raises that would boost four-year patrolman's pay to more than $10,000 a year. This would make the job more attractive and satisfy Detroit policemen who went on a brief strike last June because the city declined to meet their pay demands.

The Michigan National Guard also has launched, by letter, a drive to recruit 2,000 Negro veterans from the Detroit area. The 10,000-member Michigan National Guard has only 127 Negroes.

No one is predicting Detroit will elude racial explosions this summer, but a positive note has crept into statements regarding possible trouble.

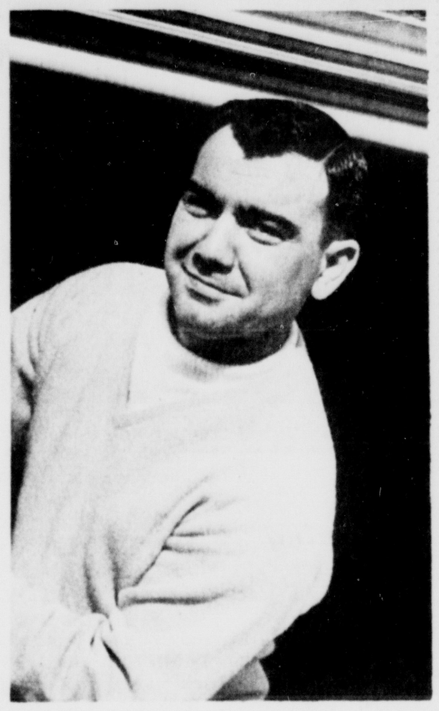

"We think there's a good chance there isn't going to be a riot in Detroit this summer," says Capt. Raymond McConnell, chief detective of the State Police.

Disarming Advertising

Attorney Ken Davies has joined with other Detroit, Mich., businessmen to form a MUST (Men United for Sane Thinking) organization, promoting anti-gun advertising, as shown, and quell what has become an "arms race" within the city area. (AP)

Empty Saddles and Silent Six-Guns on Western Sets

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A cowboy-costumed extra on a Western set shifts his holster and says: "I've made a little over $600 since January. It's chicken one day, feathers the next."

Paradoxically, amid unprecedented prosperity for movie producers, there's widespread gloom and joblessness in Hollywood's working ranks.

A California State Department of Employment aide says: "Except for an actors' strike that closed the studios in 1961, unemployment is the greatest it's ever been."

"Hollywood," says John W. Lehners, president of the Hollywood AFL Film Council, "is getting to be a ghost town."

The council which represents 32 guilds and craft unions, says conditions have changed little since its mid-March survey, which showed that of 30,500 employes, 12,700—or 41.6 per cent—are out of work.

Why? The chief reason is so-called "runaway" production—the filming of U.S.—financed movies in other countries.

Overseas production, as it used to be called, is nothing new. Unions began worrying about it in 1957. But by 1961 it was 34 per cent of the total, and last year it was 55 per cent. Now it's about 65 per cent.

A producer explains: "Hollywood has become a place FROM which rather than IN which pictures are made."

Why go overseas to make a movie? Lots of reasons:

Authentic, exotic, often spectacular backgrounds ... Freedom from front-office meddling ...Foreign travel at company expense.

But the main inducement is money. Forty-five countries offer filmmaking subsidies in various forms. In addition, labor is cheaper abroad.

"You can hire the Spanish or Yugoslav army for a few dollars a day," says a producer, "and they bring their own lunch." Extras' pay in Hollywood starts at $29.15 per day.

But there's a reverse to this coin, too. Most foreign crews are slower and less skilled than Hollywood's, so production takes longer. Director Burt Kennedy says a week's filming he did here would have taken three weeks in Spain.

Hollywood trade papers list 35 features currently shooting in England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Belgium, Italy, Austria, Spain, Switzerland, Sweden, Africa, Malta, Brazil and Mexico. Two others are in communist Yugoslavia and Hungary.

Seven are "runaways" within the United States—from Wyoming to New York, where Mayor John V. Lindsay has streamlined permit procedures and 45 features will be filmed wholly or partly this year.

Eighteen are grinding away on home lots, against 44 away. Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty urges management and labor to act to keep Hollywood from "becoming a wasteland."

John Dales, Screen Actors Guild official, says Hollywood filmmaking is "a disintegrating industry, if you're talking about the employes. Never in my 30 years have I seen unemployment so bad."

Besides runaway, there are, it is true, other causes of unemployment.

One is an annual March 1 state tax of 5 per cent on production costs of negatives in vaults and production. Production declines in December-March to dodge the tax. Producers say the bite—$100,000 or more on a negative—is unfair because it hits indiscriminately the boxoffice successes and the failures. Some say the tax itself contributes to runaway production.

Legislation to kill the tax has passed the state senate and awaits action in the state assembly at Sacramento.

Another cause of joblessness is a decline in television filming. Six nights a week of old movies mean fewer new series. So do game and variety shows and increased emphasis on news programs. Fewer series pilots are filmed than formerly. Series are now made for 17 to 26 episodes instead of the past's 32 to 39.

Also, there's a trend to hour and 90-minute shows. And an hour show requires about half the workers needed for two half-hour series.

Movie plants have money-yielding branches: recording, music publishing, television filming. Studios lease films to television— "The Bridge on the River Kwai" for $2 million, "Cleopatra" for $5 million.

Foreign boxoffice revenues keep rising, providing, producers say, a quid-pro-quo additional reason for overseas filming. The foreign take is now 53 per cent of the whole. Shortly after World War II, it was 35 per cent.

Evening Double Ring Ceremony Unites Couple in Matrimony

Miss Nancy Jeanne Boeschen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Boeschen, Stover, and Gerald Wayne Schlomer, now stationed at Hill Air Force Base in Utah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schlomer, Stover, were united in holy matrimony at 8:30 p.m. June 22 at the Christ Lutheran Church in Stover.

The Rev. Rollin Oleson performed the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with white pom-pom arrangements flanked by nine-branched pyramid candelabra entwined with spring-gari and white ribbon bows. The chancel was banked by arrangements of white gladiolas and majestic daisies. White satin pew markers completed the church decoration.

Miss Ruth Roland, pianist, accompanied Miss Barbara Fischer, solosit who sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted down the aisle and given in marriage by her father and wore a gown of veiled silk organza in a sheath silhouette styling overlaid by a flaring coat of lower-patterned Belgian lace. Long tapering sleeves, scalloped neckline, and fullness gathered with large silk bow in the back accented the dress, falling and widening into a cathedral train. Her shoulder veil was fastened with a petal cluster headpiece. She carried a cascade of stephanotis and ivy centered with three white sapet orchids. She wore a diamond necklace, a gift from the groom.

Miss Jeannie Krull was maid of honor, wearing a floor length gown of yellow bridal satin topped with a cage overdress of yellow gorgette styled with a jewel neckline. Her headpiece was a yellow satin bow trimmed with daisy streamers. She carried a crescent of white killian daisies and camellia foliage.

Miss Donna Webb, Miss Carolyn Warnke and Mrs. Ronald Marriott served as bridesmaids and wore dresses patterned after the maid of honor's attire.

Flower girl, Miss Dawn Henry, cousin of the bride from Denver, Colo., carried a basket brimming with white marguerite daisies and scattered white rose petals. She was gowned in a floor length white ensemble resembling other attendants gowns.

Mr. Donald Schlomer served as best man and Mr. Eugene Schlomer, Mr. Carol Dean Schlomer and Mr. Phillip Webb served as groomsmen.

Master David Spencer, Denver, Colo., was ringbearer. Ushering duties were performed by Mr. Ronnie Boeschen, Mr. Virgil Holsten and Mr. James Williams. Miss Pamela Palmer was in charge of the guest book and in charge of gifts were Miss Anita Allee, Mrs. Kenneth Rehmer, Mrs. Lou Wagner, Miss Beverly Boeschen, Mrs. James Williams.

The reception was held in the social room of the church. The bride's table was covered with a lace edged white linen cloth, centered with a four tiered cake decorated with yellow rose buds, sugar bells and white lattice hearts, topped with white wedding bells amid clusters of daisies. Springeri encircled the cake, which was also enhanced with daisies and white carnations. White candles in silver candelabra flanked the cake and greenery encircled the punch bowl and the bride's knife was decorated with white satin ribbons and stephanotis.

Mrs. Melvin Fisher and Miss Valeti Kipp served cake and punch was served by Mrs. E.H. Bauer, coffee by Mrs. Marvin Boeschen and rice bags were distributed by Miss Penney Boeschen.

The mother of the bride wore a beige lace sheath with mint green accessories. Her corsage was cymbidium orchids. The groom's mother selected a pastel blue dress with white accessories. Her corsage was cymbidium orchids.

The bride chose for her going away costume a yellow linen dress with white accessories. Her corsage was white japette orchids taken from her bridal bouquet.

After a honeymoon to Branson, Mo., the couple is at home in Ogden, Utah.

Elaine Vansel, Larry E. Fattig Are United in Holy Matrimony

Miss Ona Elaine Vansel became the bride of Mr. Larry Eugene Fattig in an evening ceremony June 22 at the Church of God. The Rev. Irvin C. Hamman performed the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vansel, Route 2, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Fattig, St. Joseph.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length satin gown styled with an empire waistline and an A-line skirt. The fitted bodice featured a satin bow and a rounded neckline. Long sleeves tapered to a point. Silk petals adorned with seed pearls secured her elbow length veil of nylon lace illusion, as a satin train fell from the shoulders. She carried a cascade of white carnations entwined with white velvet bow and lace streamers.

Miss Ramona Vansel, sister of the bride, and maid of honor wore a floor length gown of blue satin. Her dress styled like that of the bride. Her dress styled like that of the bride, featured a fitted empire bodice with elbow length sleeves. Lace accented her A-line skirt. A dainty Swiss rosette with short veil formed her headpiece and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations trimmed with blue and pink ribbons.

Mr. Alva Crowns Jr., cousin of the groom, served as best man. Ushering duties were performed by Mr. Edward Suiter, brother-in-law of the bride, Kansas City, and Mr. Roy Conard, brother-in-law of the groom, St. Joseph.

The mother of the bride wore a navy blue dress trimmed in white lace with white accessories. The groom's mother chose a blue printed dress with black accessories. Both wore corsages of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held with 75 guests present in the church basement. The bridal table, covered with a white linen cloth, was centered with a three tiered wedding cake decorated with pink and blue rosebuds. The cake was topped with the traditional bride and groom over an arch of nylon lace. Silver candleholders held white taper on each side of the cake. Punch was served from a crystal bowl. Wedding bells hung over the bridal and gift tables.

Mrs. Dorothy Conard, Miss Carol Fattig, sisters of the groom, St. Joseph, and Miss Linda Vansel, sister of the bride served. Mrs. Fay Suiter, sister of the bride, Kansas City, was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. Joyce Oehring and Miss Marilyn Fattig, sister of the groom, St. Joseph, presided over the gift table.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Smith-Cotton and the groom attended Benton High School, St. Joseph. The couple will reside in St. Joseph.

On May 25 a miscellaneous shower was given the bride by Mrs. Joyce Oehring at her home in St. Joseph.

A surprise miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mrs. Carol Miller, St. Joseph, on May 25.

Miss Cindy Shull and Miss Wanda Hamman gave a shower June 16 in the basement of the Church of God.

White-Bealer Exchange Vows In Double Brentwood Wedding

BRENTWOOD, Mc — The Brentwood Congregational Church was the scene of the double wedding of Miss Elizabeth Lynn White and Miss Kathaleen Ann White, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. White of Brentwood, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, June 8.

Miss Elizabeth White was united in marriage to Mr. Charles F. Bealer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bealer, Tipton.

Miss Kathaleen White became the bride of Mr. Calbert Riley Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Calbert Riley Sr. of Los Angeles, Calif.

Miss Elizabeth White was escorted to the altar by her father and wore a gown of faille taffeta and Alencon lace. The molded bodice was fashioned along empire lines with a detachable train. Her short veil of illusion net was held by a pearl and teardrop crown. She carried an arrangement of yellow roses, daisies and Gypsophila.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Elsie Kraft of Brentwood. The bridesmaids were Miss Janice Brunner, Miss Billy Riley, Mrs. S. James Deytsch of St. Louis and Mrs. Kathy Galloway, sister of the groom, Dallas, Tex. Their empire line floor length gowns were of yellow trusella. They carried bouquets of white daisies tied with yellow ribbon.

Mr. Michael Bealer was best man for his brother. Serving as groomsmen were Mr. James Albin of Tipton and Mr. Dan Council, Peoria, Ill.

Mr. Russell Bealer, brother of the groom and Mr. James Wilson, San Diego, Calif. served as ushers and candlelighters.

Mrs. White, mother of the bride, chose a mint green dress and coat with mint green and white accessories. Mrs. Bealer, mother of the groom, wore a dress and coat of lime green with white accessories. They both wore white gardenias.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Pronko Youth Hall at the church. Presiding at the serving table were Misses Norma and Barbara Ebel, cousins of the bride. Miss Joan Mollman and Miss Linda Bishop of Chicago, Ill. had charge of the guest book and gift table.

Following a short wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks the couple is residing in St. Louis County.

Also attending the wedding from Tipton were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fulks.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smart

Loyce A. Davis, William Smart Joined in Marriage, June 22

IONIA — Seven branch candelabra entwined with smilax and white satin bows flanked the altar for the marriage of Miss Loyce Ann Davis and William Louis Smart at 8 p.m. June 22 at the Ionia Methodist Church. Rev. Frank Nelson read the double ring vows for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Davis, Warsaw, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Smart, Ionia.

Twin arrangements of fresh white gladioli and white killian daisies graced the chancel and white satin bows marked family pews.

Miss Evelyn Lupacius, cousin of the groom, played organ selections and Kenneth Swearngin, Warsaw, uncle of the bride, sang "The Wedding Prayer," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Dedra Swearngin, Lance Swearngin, Warsaw, served as candlelighters. Miss Swerngin's dress was a floor length sleeveless pastel aqua brocade gown with a soft low neckline. She wore a wrist corsage of white marguerite daisies.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white gown of silk organza. The slender bodice was styled with a scoop neck and flaring tea cup sleeves. Venise lace tatting edged the neck and sleeves with flower sprays of lace highlighting the bodice and bell shaped skirt. From high at the back yoke, a detachable petal train fell to chapel length. A miniature cluster of tulle petals, centered with crystals and pearlized sprays held her short bouffant veil of imported illusion. The bridal flowers were a cascade of white marguerite daisies enhanced with camellia foliage. The bride's only jewelry was a diamond pendant, which was a gift from the groom.

Miss Linda McCarthy, Warsaw, served as maid of honor. She was gowned in a floor length dress of aqua brocade with round neckline and sleeveless. Her head piece was circlet of tulle secured by a cluster of tulle petals. She carried an arrangement of pink killian daisies and camellia foliage.

Bridesmaids Miss Susan Smart, sister of the groom, Ionia, and Mrs. Lana Whitworth, Lincoln, were dressed identical to the maid of honor.

Jack Williams of Cole Camp was best man and groomsmen were Galen Davis, brother of the bride, and Joe Brockman, Ionia. Ed Donnell of Cole Camp and Howard Cordes of Sedalia seated guests.

Patricia Friedly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Friedly, Inoia, served as flower girl. She wore an aqua chiffon dress and carried a basket decorated with daisies. She flowered the bridal aisle with rose petals. Stephen Kroenke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kroenke, Lincoln, cousin of the bride, carried rings on a heart-shaped pillow.

The bride's mother wore a mint green linen A-line ensemble with white accessories and cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom's mother chose a mint green lace A-line, white accessories and a cymbidium orchid.

A four tiered cake embellished with pink roses and bells centered the bridal table. Wedding bells and clusters of daisies and ivy topped the cake with candles in candelabra illumining the nuptial table. A white net garlanded with smilax and decorated with pink satin ribbons adorned the bride's table.

Serving were Mrs. Kenneth Swearngin, aunt of the bride, Warsaw, Mrs. Charles Maxwell, aunt of the groom, Ionia, and Mrs. Howard McCartney, Sarsaw.

Vickie Schuman, Cole Camp, was in charge of the guest book, and Mrs. Charlotte Garrett, Lebanon, Miss Margaret Crenshaw and Miss Jackie Crenshaw, Ionia, presided at the gift table.

For a wedding trip to St. Louis and northwest Missouri the bride wore a blue dotted swiss ensemble with white accessories. Her corsage was white marguerite daisies taken from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1965 graduate of Lincoln R-2 High School and attended Southwest Missouri State College at Springfield. She is now employed at R & R Motors, Inc. The groom is a 1965 graduate of Benton County R-1 School in Cole Camp and is a senior at Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg. He is currently employed by M.F.A. Elevator at Ionia.

Miss Rebecca Ann Keyte

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Keyte, Ionia, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Rebecca Ann, to Mr. David A. Kaiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Kaiser, Cole Camp. Miss Keyte is a graduate of Benton County R-1 High School. Mr. Kaiser is a Benton County R-1 High School graduate and a sophomore at Southwest Missouri State College in Springfield. An Aug. 24 wedding is planned.

A Summer Ceremony Unites Dorothy Bryan, Denis Linnebur

ST. LOUIS — Miss Dorothy Jean Bryan, St. Louis, and Mr. Denis Albert Linnebur, St. Louis, were united in marriage at 7 p.m. Friday, June 21 at the Church of Saint John, The Apostle and Evangelist, St. Louis.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Swannie D. Bryan, Raleigh, N.C., and the late Mr. Swannie D. Bryan and the groom is a son of Mrs. Leona Linnebur and the late Mr. Edward Linnebur, Tipton.

The Rev. Vincent Linnebur, brother of the groom, performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Ransom V. Bennett, Raleigh, N.C.

Mrs. Ransom V. Bennett, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Mr. Linus Linnebur, Kansas City, served his brother as best man. Ushering duties were performed by Mr. John F. Ralston and Mr. James Brashears.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Presidential Suite at Bel Air East, St. Louis.

The couple is residing in St. Louis following a wedding trip to Colorado.

The bride graduated from Wake Forest University and Charlotte Memorial Hospital School of Medical Technology, St. Louis, and is now employed at Clinical Laboratories, St. Louis.

Mr. Linnebur is a graduate of the University of Missouri, Columbia, and is now assistant production manager of Sealtest Foods, Inc. St. Louis.

Venice Is Sinking Faster Than Ever

By DENNIS REDMONT
Associated Press Writer

VENICE, Italy (AP) — A mammoth industrial project fast spreading along the shores of the Venetian lagoon has raised grave new doubts about how much longer Venice can stay above water.

Many Venetians are afraid that the industrial project, conceived 50 years ago as a way to save the canal from decay and oblivion, is now its biggest threat.

Opponents of the project claim industrial wastes already have killed most of the lagoon's flora. They also claim that deep canal being dredged to lead giant tankers through the marshy lagoon is upsetting the delicate balance of tides around Venice.

One thing is sure: the city is sinking at a faster rate than ever before.

A main target in the new dispute over Venice is the government-sponsored consortium of Italian business and industrial firms pushing to turn Venice into the first port in Italy. The city now ranks behind Genoa and Naples.

To build up the port with a supporting hinterland of factories and loading stations, oil refineries and storage tanks, the consortium has filled in much of the marshland on the edge of the lagoon. More of the same is planned along with an elaborate canal system linking Venice with central Europe.

The consortium claims the industrialization will save Venice by creating more jobs and give the city something other than tourism to live on.

They are right about the jobs. But many insist that the process of saving Venice in this fashion is actually destroying the historic city by causing it to slip faster under the sea.

The dispute has sparked a nationwide debate. Venice, the government in Rome and all Italy have split into pro-industry and conservationist camps.

Ironically, the self styled "committee to save Venice" is led by an elegant Venetian noblewoman whose father conceived the industrial harbor half a century ago.

"Venice is dying slowly like an old lady, without tears or laments," deplores Countess Anna Maria Cicogna Volpi. "It is dying stone by stone, fresco by fresco, bronze by bronze and it is tragic that in this century of scientific advances, a city will die from lack of clinical assist-

Countess Cicogna, however, has cajoled 40,000 of the city's 121,000 inhabitants to draft a petition to Italian President Giuseppe Saragat pleading the dike reconstruction be accelerated and that the government committee return to the conference table to study damage already caused by the industrial complex.

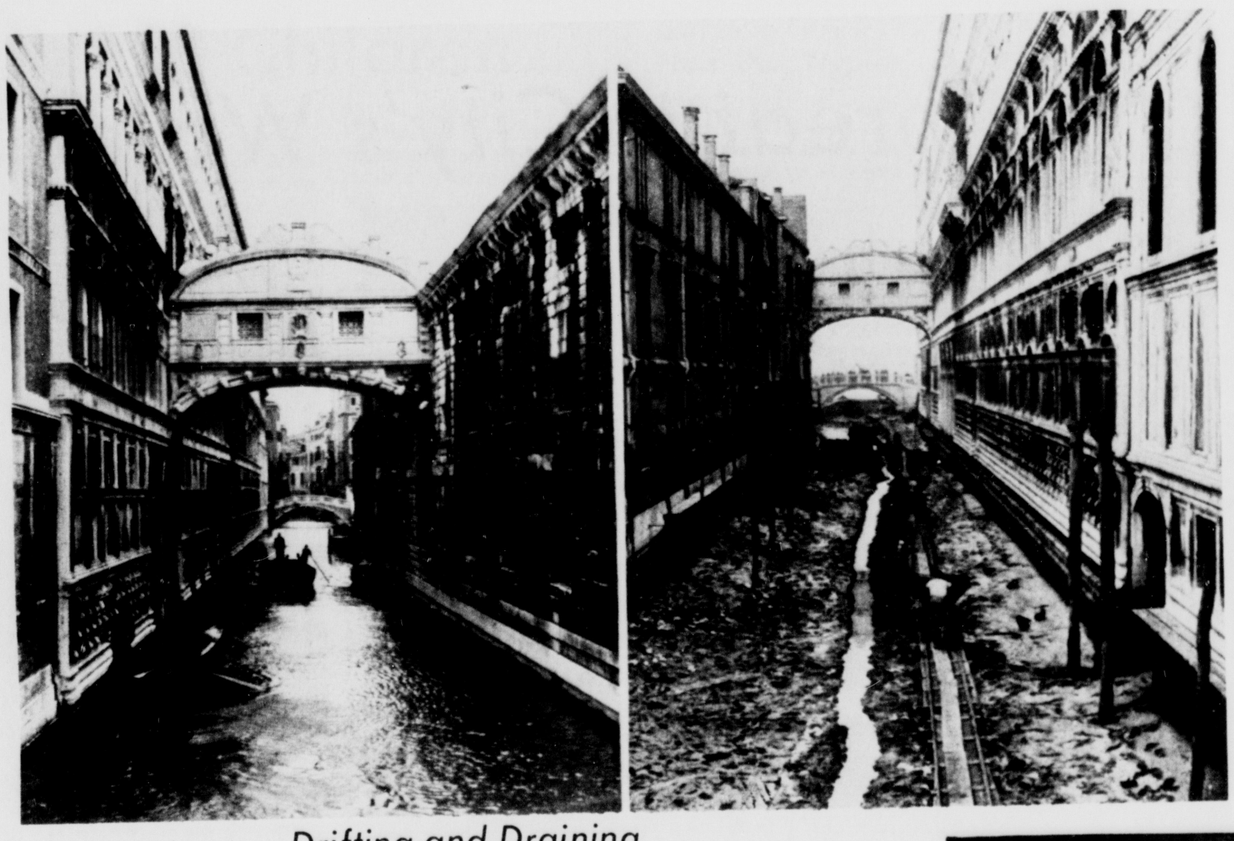

Venice rests upon an inverted forest of stakes and until now nobody wondered if she wobbled a bit. Over the centuries her wooden supports have been partly weakened by the natural corrosion of salt water, partly by the wash of power boats, partly by the deepening of the canals. Oil and gas wells in the Adriatic also contribute to the sinking.

Venice's history is full of collapsing buildings and churches. The belltower of St. Mark's Cathedral itself disintegrated into rubble in 1902 and was replaced by a similar looking red brick structure.

"But this time everything is coming down simultaneously," says Francesco Valcanover, head of Venice's galleries. "Practically nothing has been restored since the 18th century."

Valcanover warns that the tides of the lagoon must be stabilized or the houses and churches could be flooded disastrously once more.

The proponents of Venice's industrialization claim the construction of new tanker canals has nothing to do with the movement of the tides.

Drifting and Draining

To visitors across the world, the gandola idly drifting the Rio di Palazzo and passing beneath the Birdge of Sighs held a romantic charm, left. Less appealing, however, is the same area, right. This view looks in the opposite direction, with the canal being drained and cleaned.

"No one has succeeded in demonstrating that these works will cause damage to the lagoon," says Mayor Giovanni Favaretto Fisca. He predicts the new canal and a new industrial zone on the mainland will provide 30,000 new jobs for Venetians, who are largely deserting their uncomfortable city at the rate of 4,000 a year.

The mayor's opponents claim the canal will bring the Adriatic rushing in much faster through one of the three openings of the lagoon, and that the flow will be much slower on the way out.

What can Venice do to "save" itself?

Some art lovers have advised turning the city into a sort of historical Disneyland, which would subsist solely on tourism.

Industrialists want the city to recover its maritime luster, producing more chemicals, refining more oil, canning more food and building more ships.

Conservationists themselves are split between turning the canal city into a cultural and university center, or moving more provincial government offices to provide jobs for more Venetians.

Plans for a subway under the lagoon from the mainland have tentatively been drawn up in a last ditch attempt at making the city more easily reachable for commuters. A single road and rail causeway is the only land link now.

Summer Is No Threat to City's Water Supply

By RALPH JONES
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Many cities throughout the country later on this summer will no doubt suffer a water shortage to some extent. Some will ban the washing of cars, some will prohibit watering lawns, while others may only encourage residents to forestall an impending water shortage by voluntary conversation.

A few years ago, in the early 1960s, Sedalia faced what could have become an acute shortage. Spring Fork Lake, the city's major supply source, was drawn down to a low level to make repairs on the intake tower, with the assumption that fall rains would fill the lake to capacity.

But this didn't happen. That years. Several below-zero days materialize and the lake remained at its lowest level in years. Several bwlow-zero days brought thick ice to the remaining lake water, causing thousands of fish to die for lack of oxygen.

Spring rains also failed to raise the lake level, and the Board of Public Works began to look around for alternate sources of supply. At one board meeting it was suggested that several wells be drilled in the lake vicinity, with the water to be pumped into the lake for storage. Another suggestion was to remove several thousand yards of dirt and deepen the lake, particularly around the edges, exposed by the low water level. An additional lake was also proposed.

All of these ideas were abandoned for the time being when it was decided to sink a new well in the vicinity of Anderson School, on Highway 65 south of Sedalia, connect the line to the gravity flow line leading from Spring Fork Lake to the treatment plant on Flat Creek and open up a new area of supply.

The new area was necessary because the 12 wells in operation at that time were so close together, near the treatment plant, that the wells became "tired," and pumping from one well would also lower the level in the others.

The new well, No. 13, despite its number, turned out to be a complete success. It came in as an artesian well, delivering several hundred gallons per minute, all by itself.

Members of the water board were overjoyed. The well was given an extensive 30-day test using high-capacity pumps, with the test water being pumped back up the flow line inti Spring Fork Lake. After the test the well still had approximately the same artesian flow. A permanent pump was installed and the well became a part of the water system.

The well was named "Lucky 13."

The new well was only one reason why Sedalia faces this summer with no prospect of a water shortage. The Water Department, working under a ten-year improvement plan recommended by Black & Veatch, Kansas City, consulting engineers, improved the pumping and treatment facilities, raised the level of a low-water dam on Flat Creek and installed an additional storage tank at the plant.

Incidentally, when the original low-water dam on Flat Creek was completed in May, 1882, backing water some two miles above the dam, the designers proclaimed, "The city now has a certain supply of water large enough for a place of 50,000 inhabitants."

The designers must have been dreamers, because this was years before Spring Fork Lake, an area which stores some 420-million gallons and covers an 178-acre area, was built.

They apparently did not take into consideration the millions of gallons of water used for car washing, lawn watering and the water-consuming industrial complexes in Sedalia today.

Statistics back up the contention that Sedalia is in good shape for the summer.

The city normally uses an average of 2.5 million gallons of water per day, taking into consideration that during State Fair week consumption reaches as high as 4 million gallons per day.

The city has a pumping capacity of 7,752,000 gallons per day, or approximately three times the normal summertime use. Five wells can be used, four producing 600 gallons per minute and one, Lucky 13, producing 1,500 gallons per minute, from a depth of about 1,500 feet. The wells alone can produce 4,752,000 gallons per day. The flow line from Spring Fork Lake can deliver 3.5 million gallons per day. The storage at Spring Fork Lake would supply the city for some 18 days, even if all other supplies failed during the peak use period.

These figures do not include the water stored behind the low-water dam on Flat Creek.

Further improvements to the water facility include a 30-inch main from the treatment plant to the city, which is to be constructed this year, probably beginning about mid-August. Plans have been submitted for approval, and Herbert Taylor, Water Department manager, said approval should take about ten days. Contracts may be let soon after approval and construction should take about one year, Taylor said.

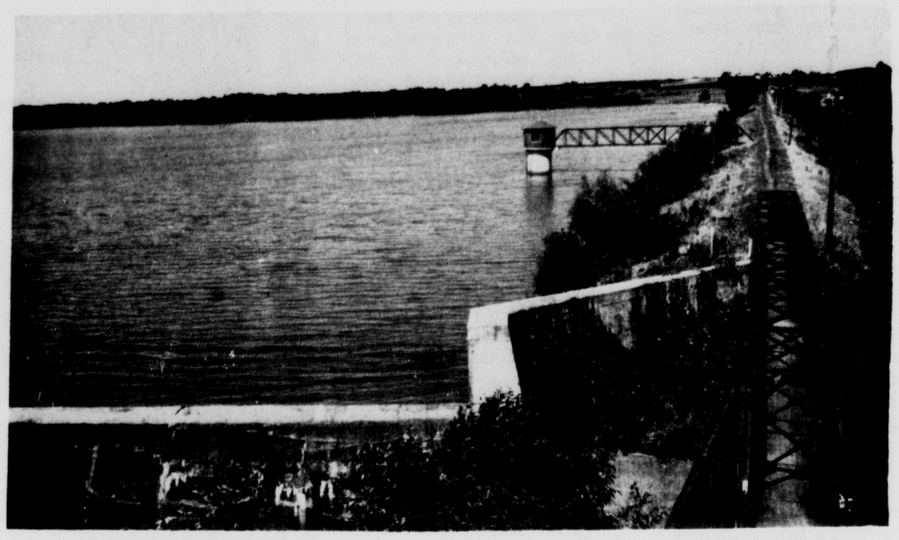

Settlement Basin

This is the settlement basin at the pumping station on Flat Creek south of Sedalia. Water arriving through the flow line from Spring Fork Lake is stored here until it is needed. The settlement basin holds 35 million gallons.

New Storage Tank

This new storage tank at the pumping station on Flat Creek holds one million gallons of treated water, held ready for pumping to the city as it is needed. The all-steel tank was constructed under the Black & Veatch plan and was completed in 1965. Previous storage tanks, holding only 600,000 gallons of treated water, were of concrete construction and under ground. The old tanks were subject to flooding when the creek got out of its banks, which happened several times a year. The above-ground facility is not subject to flooding.

Main Water Supply

This is the north end of Spring Fork Lake, showing the dam and catwalk leading across the spillway. The lake takes in 178 acres of area and holds 420,000,000 gallons of water at bank level, as it is now. (Democrat-Capital Photos).

Auxiliary Supply

A low water dam on Flat Creek near the pumping station backs water up some six miles. With the creek running most of the year, this provides an excellent auxiliary supply for Sedalia. Photo shows the creek from the old covered bridge site looking toward the new bridge.

Head Start Enrolls 190 Children

The Pettis County Head Start program, under the direction of Mid-Missouri Community Action Corp., is under way at Hubbard School and will last through Aug. 2.

Head Start is a preschool training program for children aged five and six who will enter school this fall. There are a total of 11 classes in Benton, Johnson, Morgan and Pettis counties for a total of 190.

Wallace Talbot, Educational Director, plans curriculum along with qualified teachers. The children are picked up at their homes by car at 9 a.m. and are taught through 1 p.m., including a hot meal. Five classes are held each day and there are approximately 18 children per class.

By the time a preschooler finishes Head Start training, the center hopes to have accomplished three goals: to have taught the child how to associate; to have developed within each child his own talent or creativity, and to have instilled into the child a responsibility or sense of direction. Head Start is not concerned with structural classroom work, such as ABC's or counting, which will come with later classroom situations.

In addition to social preparation, Head Start provides complete physical examinations, DPT and measles vaccines, dental check-ups, and when necessary, psychological testing to each child.

According to Roylee Peters, social service and health director, Head Start also strives to involve the parents of the children in the program. This begins with a home visitation by an outreach team. "By bringing the entire family into the picture by asking them to assist in the classroom, etc., we feel will help the child in wanting to learn and will result in follow-up and discussion in the home life," Peters said.

Each child usually undergoes a marked change after completion of the classes, according to Head Start personnel. The majority of parents also accept the help and advice of the teachers and leaders.

Mid-Missouri Community Action Corp. is non-profit, and though Head Start teachers are paid, many other resources must be utilized. According to Hardy Cobb, head of Mid-Missouri Community Action, the Head Start program has a $54,000 budget this year, $5,000 less than last year's budget, and yet the program served 75 more children in the four-county area with the help of volunteer workers, parental assistants and volunteers.

Applications are accepted by Mid-Missouri leaders according to children whose parents meet certain economic guidelines. Applicants are sent to the center by an outreach team that is in the field constantly.

Though Head Start only operated through a two-month summer program, work continues throughout the year with follow-ups, psychological testing and preparations for the next year.

Quote Mao On 'Fear' Of Leader

HONG KONG (AP) — Mao Tse-tung expressed fear last summer about being toppled from power and branded militant Red Guards as unfit to govern, says a purported Chinese Army pamphlet.

China watchers disagreed, however, over the document's authenticity. It was published Friday by the independent Hong Kong newspaper Ming Pao.

Some analysts suspected it was a clever forgery, pieced together here from existing information about the power struggle between Mao, the Communist party chairman, and followers of President Liu Shao-chi. Others were inclined to accept it at face value.

"It is still very possible that followers of Liu Shao-chi will gain the ultimate victory and we will suffer the ultimate defeat," the pamphlet quoted Mao as having told a foreign military delegation last August.

The delegation was not identified, but military envoys from Mali visited Communist China last summer and conferred with Mao during the last week of August.

"If the revolutionary rebels (Red Guard) organizations assume power they will be immediately driven out of power by Mao's enemies," the Chinese leader was supposed to have remarked. "Therefore the revolutionary rebels cannot be allowed to assume power, even though their revolutionary spirit is excellent."

Mao was harshly critical of his country's intellectuals, according to the document. He was said to have told the foreign delegation he had given up any idea of selecting his successors from the intellectual class because "all intellectuals, including those currently studying in schools, are fundamentally bourgeoists and are not to be trusted."

Guide to Free Gifts From the 'Yippies'

NEW YORK (AP) — You can get anything from food to a buffalo free if you follow instructions in a pamphlet issued by the Yippies—the Youth International Party.

Introductory offers can net free records, books, and merchandise, says the treatise, or you can even get free vegetables and meat if you know where to go.

On the free bison bit, the pamphlet advises that the U.S. government "in order to keep the herds at a controllable level, will give you a real live buffalo if you can guarantee shipping expenses and grazing area."

White Teachers Learn Lessons From Negroes of the Streets

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer

RIVER FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Sixteen white teachers—11 of them nuns and two seminarians —sat in the cool white marble hall of Rosary College and learned a lesson of the streets.

Their teachers: three Negro men—a self-described former hustler and pimp, a member of a South Side Chicago street gang called the East Side Disciples and a civil rights leader who is a sociologist.

Part of the lesson went like this:

Harold, 22: "I grew up in the streets. Everything I know I learned on the street—hustling and pimping."

Nun: "What do you mean—hustling?"

Harold: "Well, like the handkerchief game. Say, a white man would come down to the street looking for something—"

Michael Lawson, a sociologist and civil rights leader involved in rehabilitation programs: "Looking for what, Harold?"

Harold: "Looking for black women. I'd tell him I could get some fine black women for both of us. I'd have two handkerchiefs, see, one filled with paper and the other with money. I'd tell the man to put his money in with mine and hold the handkerchief while I went for the women. All the time I'd be switching the handkerchiefs around. And I'd leave him holding the one filled with paper while I ran off with the one with the money."

The Negro men and white teachers were participants in a traveling workshop in human relations, run by five nuns, which is starting its fourth cross-country tour to combat what it calls white racism.

It's method: Conducting seminars to educate white teachers, civic leaders and clergy about Negroes, about racial prejudice and about themselves.

This particular lesson was mostly about Negroes. Jessie, 19, a street gang member, told of his life on the streets.

"I been in a gang since I was real young," he said. "That's the way it is if you live in my neighborhood. Like, a friend of mine's got a $10 bounty on his head. That means if some member of another gang kills him, he gets $10."

The traveling workshop is sponsored by the Chicago-based National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice. Participants last year included 3,200 lay teachers and public servants, 100 clergymen of all faiths, 9,540 nuns, 60 brothers and 1,100 minority group members.

Sister Mary Peter Traxler, director of the workshop and of educational services for the National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice, recounted some of its results.

—A realtor in Youngstown, Ohio, told the audience, "Never again will anyone in my presence call Negroes lazy. How can they have any hope at all if, as we've heard, a Negro college graduate can expect lifetime earnings equivalent to a white man who has only an eighth-grade education?"

—A deputy warden said, "I didn't really realize before that Negroes suffered, too."

Sister Mary Peter said the effect of the workshop on its participants has been measured.

"We went back to test," she said. "The only real measurement of attitudinal change is the extent to which actions change, so we drew up 21 possible actions that a person might have undertaken after participating."

The actions included such things as joining a human relations group or participating in a civil rights demonstration.

"We found that 93 per cent of the participants had undertaken at least two of these," said Sister Mary Peter. "This is clear-cut evidence of our effect."

John Birch Society

A planning meeting to form a John Birch Society Chapter in Sedalia will be held at the courthouse assembly room July 13, beginning at 8 p.m. Several displays, along with talks, have been planned.

Self-Delusion Hallmark Of Vietnamese Politics

SAIGON (AP) — As in the fairy tale of the emperor's clothes, there is a big gap in South Vietnam between what people say and what they think.

The longer the peace talks continue in Paris, the wider the gap becomes.

Everyone knew the emperor wasn't wearing any clothes.

Everyone in Saigon knows that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese army are not likely to fold their tents and quietly go away.

Yet to judge from Saigon's newspapers and from the pronouncements of many South Vietnamese politicians, the war can end no other way.

Everyone knows that Communist-led forces impose their will on most of the country's territory and perhaps half its 17 million inhabitants.

Everyone knows that the Paris talks imply peace by compromise. But no one is ready to talk of concessions.

Several possible avenues of agreement - mutual withdrawal of North Vietnamese and American troops, free elections in South Vietnam, a coalition government or the country's neutralization—are all taboo in public discussion.

South Vietnam's constitution bans not only propagating Communist ideas but spreading ideas likely to give comfort to the enemy, such as neutralism.

The provision is officially interpreted as outlawing the very thought of negotiating with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

A South Vietnamese minister, Phan Quang Dan, was fired for publicly advocating such negotiations.

Prime Minister Tran Van Huong mentioned in a speech to the National Assembly that the National Liberation Front at one time contained some non-Communist patriots. He was shouted down by the deputies.

Not even a widely respected leader like President Nguyen Van Thieu can afford to call the emperor's bluff. At least, not quite.

A few days ago Thieu summoned 200 politicians and religious leaders.

The war will end one day, Thieu said, and the Communists will still be here. Instead of fighting them with guns, it will be necessary to fight them with political means.

One member of the audience rose immediately to accuse the president of trying to coerce the politicians into unity to enhance his own power. Thieu denied the charge indignantly. "I am no dictator," he said.

The politicians agreed to meet again to discuss the idea, but Thieu's chances of breaking through with his message seem slim.

Indirectly, Thieu's logic thus goes a long way toward the kind of compromise which many South Vietnamese leaders swear they will fight to the death.

South Vietnam is full of influential refugees from North Vietnam who still dream of freeing their old homelands from Communism with American help. There are also men making undreamt of fortunes out of the American presence.

Some politicians are urging an allied invasion of North Vietnam, preceded by the "atomization" of Hanoi and Haiphong.

To them, a compromise peace can be nothing but a sellout. Their speeches bristle with certainties about the "eternal" American commitment to South Vietnam.

"The United States has its own internal problems," President Thieu warned. "We must prepare ourselves for the day when we will have to stand on our own feet."

The politicians listened in silence. It was as though Thieu had pointed his finger at the emperor's nakedness.

Unless the politicians merge their 50-odd splinter groups into one or two strong political parties, the Communists will win the postwar struggle, Thieu warned.

Charles M. Ferguson, a native of Holden and former resident of Sedalia, will retire Sept. 27 as Rocky Mountain Zone Manager for the J.C. Penney Co., in Denver, Colo., after 44 years with the firm. He joined the firm as part time salesman at the Sedalia store in 1924. He rapidly rose to manager of the store at Fulton at age 29. He is married to the former Hazel Jackson of Sedalia. They have one daughter and one son. They plan to make Denver their home.

BUSINESS NEWS

Midway through its 75th anniversary year, Farm & Home Savings Association, home office, Nevada, has reported record additions to savings during the first half of 1968, a record in increase of assets for any six-month period, and a new record distribution of dividends.

The association's 148th semiannual financial statement shows total resources of $480,940,415, an increase of $34,947,381 during the past six months.

Savings were up $27,590,419 during the first half of 1968 to a new high of $410,706,789.

J.L. Van Wagner, assistant secretary and manager of Farm & Home's Sedalia office, Fourth at Osage, reported that the association's dividend distribution for the first six months of the year totaled $9,593,568—the largest, by far, of any such distribution in the history of Farm & Home. The record dividend went to more than 115,000 savers.

Students to Study A Big Trash Pile

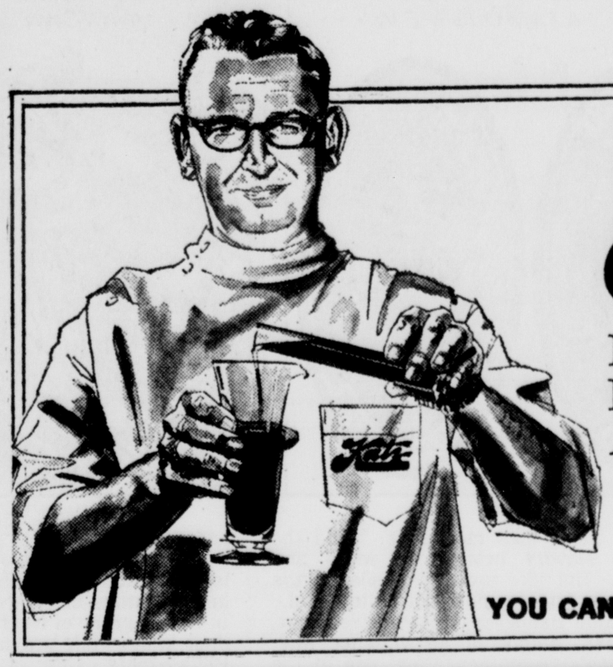

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP) — A group of Michigan Technological University students will spend this summer studying a 15-ton pile of fly ash in hopes of discovering recoverable minerals.

Fly ash is a waste product of coal-fired furnaces and is captured by equipment to prevent air pollution. The ash was given to Michigan Tech by the Detroit Weqeison Co.

Retains His Note For Future Use

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The bandit's note said, "Give me your money. I have a gun." He handed it to Viola Ward, a teller at Security First National Bank, and she handed him $1,170.

Then he fled, but not without first grabbing his note back.

THE LAST AMERICAN

by Don Oakley and John Lane

6 Pride and Prejudice

I tremble for my country when I reflect that God is just; that his justice cannot sleep forever.

—Thomas Jefferson

In 1776, Jefferson had been forced to cross out an embarrassing passage in his draft of the Declaration of Independence condemning George III for the slave trade.

In 1787, when the Founding Fathers assembled in Philadelphia to labor and debate over a Constitution for the new nation, political realities dictated more compromises. Though this document provided for the end of the slave trade in 1808, the fate of those who were already slaves (over half a million), as well as those who were to be born to them, was left to the individual states.

Jefferson, more than most men, hated the degradation slavery brought to white and black alike. But like most, he believed the Negro was not quite a man, not quite equal.

Dr. Benjamin Banneker, Negro astronomer, mathematician, author of an almanac and, with Jefferson's recommendation, one of the surveyors of the new capital of Washington, disputed with Jefferson on this point.

Banneker, of course, had had a white grandmother. It was this white blood that explained his ability, some men said.

But what of Phillis Wheatley, a pure "nigger" carried from Africa as a child in 1761? Bought by John Wheatley, a rich Boston merchant, and taught English by his wife, she became an internationally acclaimed poet. Washington received her in his encampment. Her volume of poems was the second book ever published by an American woman.

What of hundreds of thousands of others who had no opportunity to discover their talents?

Although slavery was virtually dead as a legal institution in the North, neither there nor in the South could Negroes find full citizenship. In 1786, a group of Negroes were dragged from their knees while praying in a white church in Philadelphia, City of Brotherly Love and shrine of freedom.

In a wave of reaction following the Revolution, Negroes in the North found themselves driven more and more into what modern South Africans call "separate development." And in the South, their shackles grew heavier and more unbreakable than ever.

"I would never have drawn my sword in the cause of America," said the disillusioned Marquis de Lafayette, "if I could have conceived that thereby I was founding a land of slavery."

Women Wreck More

PARIS (AP) — French women drivers bend more fenders than men do but are involved in fewer accidents resulting in casualties, an insurance companies' survey disclosed. Also, far fewer women, 165, were arrested for drunken driving than men, 18,360, in the past year, and out of 268,575 run-ins with police, only 30,075 women drivers were involved.

Registers Herd

Lt. Col. and Mrs. H. H. Brooks, registered Angus cattle breeders form near Sedalia, have enrolled their herd in the American Angus Association's beef improvement program. The herd is scheduled to be classified in August by an official representative of the American Angus Association.

The Half Moon was Henry Hudson's ship.

Age Is Question

OTTAWA (AP) — How old is Canada's Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau? His election campaign people recently said he is 46, court records showed 48, and he wouldn't say. "External Affairs," monthly bulletin published under authority of Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp, reports Trudeau was born in Montreal Oct. 18, 1919, which would make him 48 now, 49 in the autumn.

BEAUTY-TREAT FEET

Before a big night at the discotheque, give your feet this treatment to help them keep their comfort and cool all evening long. Pour about a half-inch of chilled baby lotion with built-in hexachlorophene into a pan and let your feet rest in the lotion for five or 10 minutes. Then massage your feet and legs with gentle upward strokes. The lotion will soften and sooth the skin and the hexachlorophene in it provides a natural deodorant.

Reckless Bike Riders

Noting the pedestrian and vehicular traffic in downtown Sedalia Friday, several friends chatting at Third street and Ohio avenue agreed "it was like old times" from the standpoint it was a busy shopping day.

Indeed it was, and in more ways than one, much to the consternation of shoppers who witnessed the gymnastics of bicycle riders.

One 12-year-old girl went through a red light on the wrong side of the street at the busy Third and Ohio intersection. She traveled in that manner almost to Second street where approaching cars made her get over into the right lane. When northbound cars stopped for a red light blocked her way she passed them on the right side and went through another red light.

This is the kind of irresponsibility that often results in children losing their lives or becoming maimed, causes automobile drivers to have apoplectic seizures or subsequent damage suits although the tragedy is not their fault.

Last year deaths resulting from automobile collisions decreased 300, but fatalities among bicycle riders increased from 750 to 800. Accidents resulting from injuries totalled 63,000, fortunately a decrease of 11,800 from the previous year.

In addition to the Ohio avenue incident we have noticed during the past week numerous instances of recklessness by bike riders at intersections and on sidewalks where pedestrians should have the right away and not be required to dodge these two-wheeled vehicles, especially in a business district where by city ordinance this practice is illegal.

Complaints are justified against bike riders "taking the whole street" like the youngster did on Ohio avenue.

The police should properly halt youngsters and give them a reprimand and a ticket the same as they do automobile drivers who disregard the rules.

A code for the safety of bicyclists is just as necessary as one for motorists. They should stop for stop signs; they should respond properly to traffic lights; they should not ride on sidewalks in a business district; they should not pass vehicles on the right side; they should signal for stops; they should not drive at night without a headlight, a tail light or red reflector.

Before some great tragedy occurs locally, it seems wise for parents to conduct a school of instruction at home occasionally when succeeding generations take to bicycles as a mode of locomotion to residential or business areas of Sedalia.

Godfather of the Student Revolt

DREW PEARSON and JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Godfather of the student revolt now sweeping campuses all over the world is Prof. Herbert Marcuse of the University of California, San Diego campus. Marcuse is a German-born refugee from Hitler who disavows Karl Marx and teaches that revolution must come from young people. Both Communism and Capitalism, he preaches, are dead.

The influence which Prof. Marcuse has over the student world is illustrated by what happened at Brandeis University outside Boston when Axel Springer, the German publisher, donated $250,000 to found a chair to be known as the "Ottilie Springer Professorship," in honor of his wife.

Brandeis is the leading Jewish University in the United States and Springer has been a great champion of Isreal. Despite this, the student body and faculty voted to ignore the man who put up the quarter million dollars, and named the chair for Herbert Marcuse instead.

There was great irony in this vote. For few men in Germany have worked harder to atone for Hitler's crimes against the Jews than Springer. His far-flung newspapers have followed a vigorous pro-Israel policy, and he has made various gifts to Israel including one which founded Jerusalem's famous museum. Springer even laid the cornerstone for the museum. Yet the students of a Jewish university proposed ignoring his $250,000 gift in favor of Prof. Marcuse.

— Who Is Marcuse? —

What is the background of this leader of the current student revolt and why is he so influential? He is damned just as much in Moscow as in West Germany. In the latter, Chancellor Kiesinger blames him for the student "Nihilistic" revolt. In the Kremlin he is accused of trying to substiture Mao Tse-Tung and Che Guevara for Marx and Lenin.

His latest maneuver is to propose that Red Rudi Dutschke, the Berlin student shot by Josef Backmann, a house painter who admires Hitler, be admitted to the United States in order to demonstrate "American tolerance and academic freedom," in the same manner that the British temporarily admitted Daniel Cohn-Bendit, the French-German student who helped incite the paralyzing riots in France. It was Cohn-Bendit, incidentally who is given credit for causing such a backlash in France that President De Gaulle was overwhelmingly re-elected.

In the United States some observers predict that the backlash against the student strikes at Columbia, Berkeley and elsewhere will materially strengthen ex-Gov. George Wallace and throw the November election into the House of Representatives.

Prof. Marcuse visited Paris this spring at the invitation of Unesco, to deliver the feature address at the celebration of the 150th anniversary of Karl Marx. While there, he went to Berlin where he called on Rudi Dutschke, still in the hospital, and reported that Dutschke was able to talk politics, but couldn't remember such words as table and chair.

It's ironic that Marcuse was invited to deliver the feature address in memory of Karl Marx, since his student proteges now denounce "Communism as Bourgeois" and since he has been excoriated by Pravda for preaching that Marxism is out of date.

For instance, the East German Government, wanting to embarrass West Germany, invited the West German students, followers of Red Rudi and Prof. Marcuse, to travel through East Germany, supplying them with special railraod cars. The invitation boomeranged. The West German students flaunted banners taunting the East German Government with following outmoded Communism.

Marcuse, now 70, fled Germany in 1934, two years after Hitler came into power. Today in his former country he is charged with advocating "Dynamic Maoism," and with inspiring left-wing students of the "New Left" against Axel Springer and the Bonn government.

It is sometimes said of Marcuse that the students who follow him haven't the slightest idea what he means. Personally he is charming, even lovable. He is very proper, quite ordinary in his habits, is sometimes described as being as homey as an old shoe.

His student followers say that basically he advocates change for the sake of change. He believes that in the present day society the elements of change have been subverted by the establishment, both the Capitalist establishment and the Communist establishment. Youth has to keep blasting away at the establishment, Marcuse theorizes, and this was one reason the students at Columbia revolted even after their original issue of the Vietnam War was killed by the Paris truce talks.

The world must have constant revolution, constant change, says the California professor who has attracted so many student followers in universities around the world. This is the creed that brings editorials of anguished indignation from Moscow.

Rockefeller-McCarthy ticket? — Even if Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Eugene McCarthy organize a third-party ticket, Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., warns them that it will be too late after the August conventions to get their names on the ballots in most states. Vice President Humphrey is still worried over what McCarthy will do if he is steamrollered at the Democratic convention. Humphrey has described his fellow Minnesotan to friends as "unpredictable." McCarthy gave no hint of his plans during his recent White House confrontation. After the meeting, President Johnson reported to aides: "I don't know why he asked for the meeting. We just looked at each other."

Reagan's free flight — Gov. Ronald Reagan, who loves to condemn ethics in Washington, accepted a free flight across country the other day in a private jet belonging to Pan American Airways. On the way to Washington he stopped off to palaver with Republican delegates in Topeka, Kansas. Pan Am also dispatched four limousines onto the field at Washington National Airport to pick up Reagan's party at the ramp. The flight was arranged by oil millionaire J.R. Butler, who heads the Reagan-for-President drive in Texas. A Pan Am spokesman explained to us that it was "a demonstration flight."

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The War Department has acquired under federal condemnation about 760 acres of land approximately three and one-half miles southwest of Knob Noster, to be used as a rifle range in connection with army plane and glider pilot training at the Sedalia Army Air Base. Lease arrangements will expire June 30, 1944.

FORTY YEARS AGO

A. M. Parks of the Parks Wholesale Grocery Co., has purchased from the Mack Motor Co., a four ton truck at a cost of nearly $8,000 to be used to run between Kansas City and Sedalia bringing in his own freight. The truck is the largest one in Sedalia and one of a fleet of three other smaller trucks.

NINETY YEARS AGO

It is not certain that the City Marshall has secured an engine to destroy the dogs, but sure it is that one run over Bud Shanks' purp, yesterday, in front of the express office, cutting the head smack, smooth off.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — I had an extension to file my return as the result of illness. Is it true I'll have to pay interest on my taxes when I do file?

A — Yes, interest at the rate of six percent a year must be added to taxes that are not paid in full by the filing deadline. This interest must be paid even though a taxpayer has received an extension of time to file his return.

Q — I made a mistake on my return which led me to overstate my income by several hundred dollars. Can I file for a refund on this even though I have not received the refund I requested on my original return?

A — Yes, you can correct this filing error now even though the refund on your original return has not arrived. Obtain a copy of Form 1040-X from your local IRS office and follow the instructions on this form for correcting your mistake. You will receive a separate refund for the difference between your original refund claim and the corrected claim.

First canal constructed in the United States was at South Hadley, Mass., in 1792.

DAVID POLING

Broaden the Spectrum Of Your Patriotism

By DAVID POLING

When you think about July 4, 1776, you must recall the determined effort to make freedom a vital part of the American community. Patriotism so often is defined as love of one's country. That is correct, but I believe that the founding fathers added a new dimension to the understanding of one's citizenship.

If I read Washington and Jefferson and Madison and Hamilton rightly, they had a commitment to the meaning of liberty and justice as the right of every man—not just for those who happened to be in North America. They proclaimed the liberation of all men and used this continent as the showpiece for a tired and unbelieving world.

If freedom is really indivisible, it should be the right of every human being, with or without an American passport.

If you accept this larger understanding of American patriotism, then you will endorse the yearning of all people for freedom and the good life. And to love your country means, down deep, that you think it is also a great emotion for foreigners, strangers, aliens to love their country as it generates the good life and more abundant living.

I guess what I'm saying is this: Love of country does not mean that I have to hate someone else's homeland. To think highly of this republic does not mean putting down France or scorning Egypt. I suspect that the highest and best accomplishments of every state and society contain a universal blessing that eludes boundaries and defies passports. Music and laughter, a fragrant summer evening, a Sunday concert —these belong to the whole world and nothing is lost through global pursuit.

And it's all mixed up with patriotism and the best patriotism is loving the country that brings forth life and creative expression.

You hear complaints today that people are not patriotic, that youngsters do not respect the flag or show devotion to military needs of the land. It may be that we have permitted a nervous nationalism or shrill jingoism to pass as patriotism.

Writing in the July Christian Herald, Kenneth L. Wilson is on the right track when he says:

"We've largely turned over patriotism to the custody of the military, and with no questions asked. Why is it so much more heroic to die on a battlefield than in one's own bed? Why is it more patriotic to invent a death-dealing instrument than to invent a life-conserving one?

"Why, when you get right down to it, is a military band more patriotic than a symphony orchestra—or even than, for that matter, a rock 'n' roll combo? In war, they say we're playing for keeps. What else are we playing for anywhere? To be a genuine, flag-waving patriot, must you, directly or indirectly, kill somebody?"

The patriotism that endures is described by Wilson:

"The American dream, it seems to me, rather has been, for the greater part, forged by individual enterprise in our nation's shops and laboratories and department stores and markets and churches and homes by men and women doing their best to make life a little better for someone else and, therefore, for themselves."

(Rev. Poling is president of the Christian Herald Assn.)

Opening lead—♠ A

What do you do with the South cards? If you are the type player who does not bid at all with these 10 high card points you will pass throughout.

If you are the type who likes to compete when you have a good suit and aren't vulnerable you will overcall the opening one spade with some number of diamonds.

South liked to compete. In addition he and his partner were playing preemptive jump overcalls so South jumped to three diamonds.

West's hike to four spades showed a good hand and North had enough to warrant raising his partner to five diamonds. North did not think that South would make this contract but he was sure that East would make his four spades.

At this point East decided to jam his nonvulnerable opponents. He didn't really think that he could bring home a spade slam. He was pretty sure that the defense would collect a diamond trick right off the bat and probably a club trick later on. East didn't really care. He was pretty sure that a six-spade call would bring out a seven-diamond bid by South.

Let's get back to the first paragraph. What would you do as South?

If you have looked at all the cards you will have seen that East is not going to make his contract. You wouldn't actually double since you aren't supposed to have seen the cards but you would pass and let East struggle.

If you haven't looked at all the cards you should still pass. You told your story when you bid three diamonds. Let your partner decide whether to pass or to take the save. He will have a tough problem but will probably pass on the theory that if East really thought he could make six spades East would not have jumped there but would have allowed himself to be pushed.

This last is academic. When this hand was played South went right to seven diamonds and paid off 900 points for going down five tricks doubled.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Which U.S. president revived the custom of addressing Congress in person?

A—Woodrow Wilson, who called Congress into a special session in 1913 to pass a new tariff bill. For the first time since the days of Thomas Jefferson the President delivered his message to Congress in person.

Summertime

It is summertime,
The time for fun,
The more you try
The less gets done,
There is always someplace
You want to go,
Work inside piles up,
Outside weeds grow;
But summertime
You just don't care,
The more you play
And the less you wear,
There are family reunions,
Class reunions, too,
And you wonder are these
The people you knew;
There are trips to the lake
For a weekend or so,
There are places all over
The country to go,
There is swimming, boating,
And there's water skiing,
Grandmother'd be shocked
At the sights we're seeing;
There is fishing all day
In a boat in the sun
And you don't catch a thing
But you're burned to well-done,
And then there is fishing
On the bank, with a pole,
You may not get a nibble
But it's good for your soul;
There is tennis and baseball,
There is picnic delight
Even if the fish don't Mosquitoes sure bite;
You can go to the city,
Or to somebody's farm
To the woods and the creeks
That hold such a charm;
It's a really great season
When you enjoy the outdoors,
You relax on a patio,
The best one is yours,
The summer is great,
But turn the fan on
Or the cold air-conditioner,
The old palm-leaf is gone;
Oh the summer is great
We drink and we eat
We get where it's cool
And complain of the heat
Yes, summer is fun
And free as the breeze,
A season it is
To do as we please.

The Way Toward Peace

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D.C. — It was an exciting experience to witness the historic signing of the non-proliferation treaty in the East Room of the White House on July 1. Secretary Rusk, Ambassador Dean of Britain, Ambassador Dobrynin of the Soviet Socialist Republic, and President Johnson were the speakers while representatives of more than fifty nations sat at a table with names indicating their country and added their signatures to the document.

President Johnson said, "The treaty's purposes are simple: to commit the nations of the world which do not now have nuclear weapons not to produce or receive them in the future; to assure equally that such nations have the full peaceful benefits of the atom; and to commit the nuclear powers to move forward towards effective measures of arms control and disarmament.

"After nearly a quarter century of danger and fear, reason and sanity have prevailed to reduce the danger and to lessen the fear. All mankind is reassured. As the moment is reassuring, so it is, even more, hopeful and heartening. For this Treaty is evidence that amid the tensions, the strife, the struggle and sorrow of these years, men of many nations have not lost the way — or the will — toward peace. The conclusion of this Treaty encourages the hope that other steps may be taken toward a peaceful world. It is for these reasons, and in this perspective, that I have described this Treaty as the most important international agreement since the beginning of the nuclear age."

The President spoke of the six years of negotiations it took to accomplish the significant treaties which led to the one which was being signed. The previous ones were the Limited Test Ban Treaty, the Outer Space Treaty, and the Treaty creating a nuclear-free zone in Latin America.

President Johnson also announced that "agreement has been reached between the Governments of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United States to enter in the nearest future into discussions on the limitation and reduction of both offensive strategic nuclear weapons delivery systems and systems of defense against ballistic missiles.

"Discussion of this most complex subject will not be easy. We have no illusions that it will be. I know the stubborn, patient persistence it has required to get this far. I know the difficulties that lie ahead. I know the fears, suspisions, and anxieties we shall have to overcome. But I believe that the same spirit of accommodation shown in the negotiation of the present Treaty can bring us to a good result."

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Full Recovery Possible From Pneumonia Attack

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — I had a chest X ray and my doctor said that most of the exudative area had cleared up but that small areas have become fibrotic. What does that mean?

A — I assume that you had some form of pneumonia, a disease that is characterized by a pouring out of fluid (exudate) into the air sacs of the lungs. There are, however, several other causes of fibrosis (replacement of normal tissue by scar tissue) in the lungs. You might ask your doctor to be more specific.

Q — I have had pneumonia twice in the last seven years. Is it true that, once one has pneumonia, the lungs will always be weaker?

A — No. Most persons make a full recovery, after which they are no more and no less likely to get another attack than they were before.

Dodd Wants Action On Gun Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd urged President Johnson Friday to issue an executive order to prevent the flooding of this country with foreign military surplus firearms before new import restrictions take effect.

The Connecticut Democrat said that unless prompt action is taken, more than three million firearms may be imported before the end of the year.

In anticipation of the import curbs, Dodd said in a letter to Johnson, "certain domestic importers, since Jan. 1, have obtained licenses that could result in the importation of over 1,300,000 foreign firearms."

"I am sure that by the time we reach the effective date of the bill, Dec. 1, the total will well pass the 3-million mark," Dodd added.

As chairman of the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee, Dodd was the chif author of the gun-control section of the anticrime bill. It prohibits the importation of surplus military handguns and other types of non-supporting firearms.

Dodd said the effective date of this part of the bill was set to allow federal agencies six months to establish enforcement machinery.

To Dedicate Area Planning Commission

Governor Warren E. Hearnes will sign a proclamation dedicating the Mid-Missouri Regional Planning Commission at ceremonies in Fulton July 9. Mayor Ernest G. Knipp of Tipton will attend the ceremonies representing Moniteau County. He is a member of the bylaws committee of the commission.

The dedication will be held at 1 p.m. at the Fulton Junior High School, Highway 54 North.

The counties in the Mid-Missouri Regional Planning Commission are Boone, Audrain, Callaway, Osage, Cole, Howard, Cooper and Moniteau.

Special arrangements are being made by the host city, Fulton, to welcome the representatives of the communities. Local Boy Scouts will be in attendance to assist in welcoming the Governor on his arrival at the Fulton Junior High School grounds.

Official guests will be served a special luncheon by the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority of Fulton, courtesy of Callaway County and the City of Fulton. Flower arrangements will be handled by Mrs. W. C. Murphy, president of the Fulton Garden Club.

In New Chapel

Vespers services were held recently in the new Parkwood Chapel at the Hohn Scout Reservation, Laurie. Shown conducting the service is the Rev. Herbert Johnson of Sunrise Beach. The chapel was donated and constructed by the Richard, David and William R. Parkhurst of Sedalia.

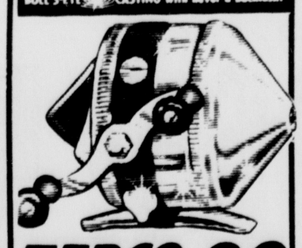

On Warpath Again

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Indians using bows and arrows chased half a dozen colonist families out of the Chief Nonoai reservation in the southern state of Rio Grande do Sul, the newspaper Jornal de Brasil reported. It said 958 Indians live on the reservation and a total of 14 colonist families had moved in on them.

Working In Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — About 49,000 foreigners are studying or working in West Berlin, city statistics disclosed. These are besides about 20,000 allied occupation people, military and civilian, in the total population of 2.2 million. Turkey, with 7,100, Austria and Italy, each with about 3,800, and Greece, with 3,700, have the biggest foreign contingents here.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY---Instead of discarding an old toothbrush I use it to put polish on my shoes. The brush is small, it can get at the hard-to-reach places where the leather joins the soles.---CHARLOTTE

DEAR POLLY—At our house we find old toothbrushes useful for many things. For example, they make a good nail brush. They are also ideal for cleaning a comb and brush as the little bristles can get between the teeth of the comb.—ADELE

DEAR POLLY---My hands are so rough that I often made runs in my hose while putting them on. Now I put hand lotion on my hands just before putting on hose and have no more trouble.---MRS. H. L. E.

DEAR POLLY—A great time saver is the file card box I keep on my desk. They carry names, addresses and telephone numbers of all the family and everyone with whom I correspond. On the cards for the family I also list birthday dates, sizes, gifts sent for Christmas (to avoid repetition) and any hint I may hear about future needs or coming events. I keep adding to the cards in the box.—SADIE

Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—I really enjoy your pointers in the paper each Sunday. When cutting onions turn on the fan in the vent over your stove, cut the onions under the fan and you will not smell them or get watery eyes.—MRS. D. D. M.

DEAR POLLY---When using a recipe card, put it between tines of a fork and place the fork in a glass. The card will be held at the right angle for reading and be out of the way so it will not be soiled. ---MRS. C. W. H.

DEAR POLLY—It was always difficult for me to do a nice job of ironing chiffon and other sheer scarves after they have been washed. The scarves puckered or slanted on the bias when I ironed them. Now after I wash and rinse a scarf (while it is still wet) I smooth it over the side of the bathtub and shape it until all the wrinkles disappear. If a few remain, or if the scarf does not cling to the tub moisten it again with a wet cloth or pour a glass of water over it if the wrinkled portion is on the inside of the tub. Allow to dry thoroughly before removing. This does not take very long.—MRS. J. M.

DEAR POLLY---My youngsters always had trouble saving money. They would try to save for some particular thing and then buy something else until I hit on an idea of helping them save. For every dollar they saved I gave them a quarter. When they really want something they can buy it because this has encouraged them to save.---DEBBIE

Dennis Weaver—Gentle Man In the Hollywood Jungle

Ask Them Yourself

FOR SEN. EVERETT M. DIRKSEN

Why are known Communists allowed in the employ of the U. S.?—Miss Estelle McKee, Ironton, Ohio

● Because the U. S. Constitution as interpreted by the Supreme Court permits Communists to hold Government jobs.

FOR DREW PEARSON, syndicated newspaper columnist

Are you satisfied with the results of the investigation of the finances of Sen. Thomas Dodd and Rep. Adam Clayton Powell?—R.B., Rochester, N. Y.

● No. In both cases I had hoped that the outcome of the investigations would be the establishment of a strong code of ethics for members of Congress. The standards as drafted leave innumerable loopholes, however, and give Congressmen a flag to wave without actually putting a rein on their more doubtful practices. I shall keep plugging for stronger measures.

FOR WARREN GILES, president, National League

What is the objection to a "spitball"?—Mrs. P.A. Blount, Appleton, Wis.

● The "spitball" places the batter at a disadvantage because it takes a sharp, unnatural drop just as it reaches the plate.

FOR JONATHAN WINTERS

Do you often ad-lib in your weekly "Face the Folks" interview?—Marilyn Kender, Battle Creek, Mich.

● Yes, quite often. Although we do have a prepared script, I can't resist the impulse to ad-lib at times.

FOR GRACE DAVALL, New York Zoological Society

Why don't birds or fowl fall off their perches when they sleep?—Sue Phillips, Los Angeles, Calif.

● When a perching bird sits to rest or sleep and the toes grasp the perch, the tendons stretch over the tibiotarsal joint and pull the toes closed. When the bird stands up, tension is released and the tendons relax, enabling the bird to leave the perch.

FOR FRANK MULLINS, marketing vice president, American Airlines

I read that American Airlines has ordered 25 huge trijet DC-10 Astroliners, seating 252 passengers. What kind of noise level can we expect when these planes are used?—L.M., Newark, N. J.

● Both American Airlines and the manufacturer, McDonnell-Douglas, set the reduction of engine noise to levels acceptable to airport communities as an objective in the development of the DC-10. This will be accomplished by major advances in engine technology and by $200,000 worth of sound-suppression devices on each plane.

FOR MRS. MARY G. ROEBLING, chairman of the board, Trenton (N. J.) Trust Co.

Carroll Righter's recent book about diet and astrology is dedicated to you. Does astrology play a large part in your life?—Betty Jane Rouh, Washington Crossing, Pa.

● It has been suggested that I run my business by astrology, but this is untrue. Astrology is no more than an interesting hobby with me. Carroll Righter is a personal friend, hence the dedication of the book.

FOR A. ROSS ECKLER, director, Bureau of Census

When will the next census be released?—Mrs. R. Stewart, Champaign, Ill.

● The next census will be taken beginning April 1, 1970. Preliminary population counts for local areas will be announced as each of the 400 temporary offices completes the census-taking and closes its doors, probably in June, 1970. Official counts of the population of all states will be delivered to the President on or before Dec. 1, 1970.

FOR DAN ROWAN of "Laugh-In"

How did the popular phrase, "Sock it to me," originate?—Mrs. Nan Galletta, Clarksburg, N.J.

● The phrase became popular via a Mitch Ryder recording of a couple of years ago. It is a Southern expression dating back to the early 1920s.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Opera Lover? While attending a Metropolitan Opera performance recently, Cleveland Indians' general manager Gabe Paul couldn't resist tuning in his transistor to the Tribe's game, a spine-tingler won by the California Angels, 3-2. What about the opera? "I needed the music to soothe my nerves," says Gabe.

Secret Bargain The Air Force has just figured it out. It costs $6.53 a year to keep a secret—that is, to safeguard a military document classified "Confidential." With all their secrets, let's hope that's a wholesale price.

Rinky-Dinks As the "Holiday on Ice" show tours the U.S. this summer, it may be the coolest place in town. It's also the hottest matrimonial bureau. The girl skaters range from 18 to 22, and most of them last about two years. As the management moans, "They marry even faster than airline stewardesses."

World's Worst Driver Next time your mate criticizes your driving, try telling him or her about the world's worst driver, as nominated by the "Guinness Book of World Records": "A 75-year-old male driver received 10 traffic tickets, drove on the wrong side of the road four times, committed four hit-and-run offenses, and caused six accidents—all within 20 minutes in McKenney, Texas, on Oct. 15, 1966."

Men's Fashions If you're still dubious about what kind of man wears beads and chains around his neck, relax. According to Noel Harrison, actor, singer, and fashion plate, those male baubles are already a bit passé.

Noel Harrison

"The most way-out thing a man can wear today is a caftan," he says. He wore one of those long Moorish robes recently to a Los Angeles supermarket and admits, "I must say people looked at me strangely."

Trash Trouble The population boom has brought a garbage explosion with it. The problem: what to do with the stuff? Some cities are burning garbage as a fuel for heating and generating electricity. In Yonkers, N.Y., they will dump garbage for four years to form the site of a new riverside park. But not all garbage is garbage. It's estimated that $7 million in gold and silver (jewelry, cast-off plate, etc.) disappears each year into the nation's trash burners.

ONE-TIME-ONLY PRICE SLASH!

SAVE ONE FULL DOLLAR on this One-Time-Only Offer!

Yes! Over 94,000 people have already paid $5.98 for this amazing new book. Now, to liquidate stock, we offer you the same exact book, word for word in exactly the same binding, for only $4.98 complete! A saving of one full dollar! But this offer will be made only this one time in this newspaper! Paper prices are again rising, and we will not be able to repeat it again! Read the full details about this outstanding new book below! Take advantage of this one-time-only, full $1 saving—TODAY!

This book says that

The SPRINGTIME of A WOMAN'S LIFE SHOULD BEGIN AT 55

That she should not reach middle age till she is seventy. And that she should not lose her ability to attract men until she is well past ninety—IF SHE WILL ONLY BECOME AWARE OF THESE FOUR GREAT NATURAL SOURCES OF PROLONGED YOUTH, COMPLETELY OVERLOOKED BY 99% OF AMERICAN WOMEN!

For example:

Are These Simple Postures The Key To Victory Over Time Itself?

1) An ingenious way to re-arrange the way you hold your face and neck, for a few incredibly-relaxing minutes every day, that virtually melts away years from the appearance of the skin of your entire upper body. (You'll learn why this simple posture works such breath-taking wonders in the paragraphs below.)

2) A new way to breathe—that purifies your system of the internal poisons that keep you constantly half-ill today, and that eat away your youth like acid.

3) A new way to achieve truly deep sleep—that recharges your body like a battery every night, and keeps accumulated exhaustion from turning you old.

4) And perhaps most important, and most startling of all, a new way to fight the never-relenting forces of gravity that cause the muscles of your face and body to sag deeper and deeper every day.

(This posture alone—this simple, 4,000-year-old "Effortless Exercise" that actually reverses the effect of gravity on your body, and causes it to firm up your muscles instead of collapse them—can give you a slimmer, younger body overnight, and for the next fifty years to come. You'll understand why when you read the paragraphs below.)

Welcome To A Whole New World Of Youthfulness, Physical Magnetism, And Incredible New Feminine Appeal!

These, then, are the startling, almost-unbelievable promises this book makes to you. But you must realize that to gain these benefits, you must first discard every idea about your body that you have been taught since you were a child—and be prepared to look at "age" and "youth" and "health" and "beauty" through entirely new eyes.

In essence, what you are going to learn, in your very first reading of this fascinating book, is this:

Over 4,000 years ago, in the Far East, some of the wisest men and women who ever lived discovered that "old age" was nothing more than a disease—actually just another ill of the body, to be fought as any other ill.

To do this—to fight this "ageing-disease"—they developed a series of age-delaying techniques called Yoga.

Yoga means Youth. Yoga techniques bring back youth, and prolong youth.

You can see living proof of these facts every day in India, China and Tibet. There Yoga believers have used these techniques to live to fantastic ages (close to 100 years), and still retain virtually the appearance of young women.

These women have achieved "Super-Femininity." At the ages of 60 and 70 and 80, they have more physical magnetism—are far more attractive to men—than the hordes of "half-feminine" women who may be 50 or 60 years younger.

Once again, this book gives you the techniques these women use—but now adapted and simplified for Western women, with all the religion and philosophy that were evolved along with them stripped away.

And now ready to go to work for you—overnight—to take each part of your body in turn, and repair the tragic damage done to it by strain and time.

Like this—

The First Step: To Give Your Face Back Its Youthful Bloom.

This book says that there is a very simple reason why the skin of your face and neck becomes thin, drawn, pale and wrinkled after thirty:

Because once you reach that critical age, your heart can no longer automatically pump enough nourishing blood uphill to your face, to keep it as smooth and plump and young as it was when you were a teen-ager.

It's exactly as if you stopped feeding water to a potted plant—and then watched the leaves of that plant crinkle up and begin to die.

No beauty parlor on earth—no face cream no matter how expensive—can ever correct this lack of internal nourishment. But Yoga can. It does it in a few exhilarating minutes every day—by showing you an ingenious way to re-arrange the way you hold your face and neck, that automatically causes your body to pour nourishing blood into every fiber of your face.

This simple posture is so easy to accomplish that, for the first few days, you may not be able to believe that it can really be doing you that much good. But then—when you wake up one morning and find your husband studying your face in silent admiration—you will realize the incredible potency of this "youth-restoring technique" practiced by two hundred generations of Eastern women.

And it's just the beginning . . .

How To Sit Your Way To A Beautiful Body

Now you begin the re-education of every contour-shaping muscle in your body—and the elimination of the ugly and deadly fat that has plagued you for years—but this time without such extreme measures as crash diets, sweat boxes, back-breaking calisthenics, or pills or other artificial devices of any kind.

In essence, what you are going to do with this book is learn a series of "Effortless Exercises." These, again, are simple postures and rhythmic gestures that re-charge your energy bank every morning rather than exhaust it . . . and that beautify the feminine contours of your body, without creating a single bulging muscle (as Western exercises do) to make you look like a man.

One of these postures, for example, (done simply by sitting in a special way on the floor) firms your legs, calves, inner thighs—all in the same moment.

Another lifts and preserves the bust. Another flattens the stomach and slims the hips. Still another prevents flabby arms.

And (in our opinion, the most important) still another takes the "old-age stiffness and perpetual ache" out of your spine, and gives you the cat-like grace and freedom to enjoy the life of a young girl.

And—at exactly the same time—

Vital Health Centers Of Your Body That Have Slept For Years —Are Now Gently Massaged Into Blazing New Vitality . . .

Now these "Effortless Exercises" begin to work their magic—for probably the first time in your entire life—on the internal glands and organs that either keep you young 'til ninety (if you keep them healthy and strong) or (if you allow them to wither up from disuse) turn you into an old woman at thirty.

For example:

Here is an incredibly gentle posture that virtually doubles the amount of circulation that reaches the vital nerve centers in the back of your head and neck—and thus puts you to sleep faster and deeper than you have known in years. (You'll be amazed at the energy with which you bounce out of bed the next morning.)

Here is a one-minute technique that turns ordinary air into the most potent revitalizer in the world. (Try it for exactly 60 seconds when you're exhausted from housework; see how it enables you to out-dance your teen-age daughter till dawn.)

Here's how to flush internal poisons right out of your body. Clear your complexion. Purify your blood. Get overnight relief from those vague aches and pains that drain youth like a dripping faucet.

Here is a special posture for the woman who is beginning to lose her animal attractiveness. Whose husband is losing interest in her. And who wants him to gasp in delight just a few short nights from the time she first opens this book.

Read It From Cover To Cover Entirely At Our Risk.

One final word of warning: If you expect a huge, weighty, philosophical tome here, you are completely mistaken. This book has been carefully cut down to the bare practical essentials. There is not a word in it that does not give you a physical benefit immediately. Therefore, even in the special deluxe version we send you, it is only 128 pages. You can finish it in a single weekend. The new youth and beauty and physical attractiveness it gives you will last a lifetime.

The cost is not the usual price of $5.98 but only $4.98 complete! It is a book for women who mean business about restoring and preserving the most priceless possession they will ever have—their youth. If you mean business, why not send in the No-Risk Coupon today.

How to Keep Your Family

Food poisoning, sunburn, heat exhaustion—you can avoid them all with tips

MARY WILSON crammed a wicker basket with her family's favorite food—fried chicken and shrimp, potato salad, and, for dessert, a chocolate cream pie.

She stowed the food, all cooked the day before, in the trunk of the car, and they set off for a picnic in the country.

A perfect summer day! But its ending was "no picnic." On the ride home, Mary herself felt queasy. Ten-year-old Mark became "car sick" for the first time in his life, and five-year-old Timmy's face was a sickly green as he complained of sharp pains in his stomach.

The doctor's diagnosis that evening: food poisoning.

During the hot summer months, this scene is repeated thousands of times. So are the episodes of painfully blistered backs, poison-ivy rashes, and sniffles and sneezes that spoil the most carefully planned vacation. This is the season of barefoot, carefree living, but it's also the season when many families tend to become casual about health.

This is unfortunate because, with some simple precautions, most of summertime's discomforts and diseases can be prevented. Here are some tips by which your family can enjoy a much happier and healthier summer.

Food and Diet: In preparing food, the first rule is to be sure your utensils and your hands are clean. Many of our favorite foods—such as milk, milk products, eggs, meat, poultry, fish, shellfish, and such products as cream pies, custards, and potato salad—also produce disease bacteria. If you're taking these foods on a picnic, they must be kept either hot (140 degrees or above) or cold (45 degrees or below).

You can transport hot food for short distances in an enclosed insulated container (an extra ice chest will do). For longer trips, it's usually best to refrigerate food at 45 degrees and reheat just before the meal. For cold foods, you should have a picnic cooler or ice chest, with some supplemental cold from ice, dry ice, or a reusable cold pack.

You might try this trick that commercial sandwich producers use to keep their sandwiches safe from bacteria: use frozen slices of bread together with chilled fillings. Wrap the sandwiches tightly in a plastic film wrapper, put them in a picnic cooler and, when mealtime arrives, they'll be just right to eat.

At home, you should refrigerate food promptly during the summer, even if it is still warm. And remember that many of those favorite foods we mentioned should not be kept too long in hot weather, especially if you have a busy family and they are opening and closing the refrigerator a lot.

For back-yard cook-outs, be careful not to leave food out for too long, and always cover food to protect it against flies and other insects.

The Sun: friend or foe? Many a vacation has been ruined not because of rain but because there was too much sun and too much hurry to turn bronze beneath it. The serious result can be an ugly red skin,

Healthy This Summer

The safe way to tan is the slow way. For most people, 15 minutes is long enough for the first sunbath. Each day after that, you can add another 15 minutes. You should always use a suntan preparation and beware of the noon sun and also of those overcast days when the sun is hidden but still can burn cruelly.

Remember, too, that children burn more quickly than adults and need close watching in the sun. For babies, you should start with five minutes and then increase the time in direct sun only another five minutes each day.

Sunburn can make people sick with chills, fever, and even delirium. If there are blisters, you should see a doctor because of the danger of infection. First aid for sunburn begins with gentle cleansing, possibly with an antibacterial skin cleanser. For a mild case when the skin turns red, simple remedies are effective. For bad burns when the skin is red, swollen, or blistered, you had better consult a physician.

Insect Bites and Stings: For most people, the sting of a bee means a momentary "ouch," followed by a mild swelling and reddening. First, remove the stinger as soon as possible, then apply diluted household ammonia, baking soda, or calamine lotion to ease the pain.

If you have ever been stung by an insect and experienced a more severe reaction, you may be one of those persons who are sensitized. It doesn't seem possible, but the sting of even a small honeybee can be fatal to such people. You should consult a doctor about how to protect yourself from bee sting or insect-bite complications.

Sensitive or not, it helps to know that insects are drawn to people for the same reasons they buzz about flowers. They're attracted by bright colors and by sweet smells you may be giving off with scented cosmetics, hair oils, or perfumes. If a bee is buzzing about you, don't panic or swing wildly at it. Simply walk away slowly.

Hay Fever: There are seven or eight million persons in this country who cannot even think of summer without sneezing. These are the hay fever sufferers for whom the first bloom of flowers is a signal for running or stuffed noses, irritated eyes, sneezing, and itchy throats. Many have uncomfortable days and sleepless nights till the frost returns.

Though it's all called hay fever, there are several varieties. Some persons have symptoms all year round and suffer from "perennial hay fever." We have just passed through the "spring" season, when the sneezes are due mostly to tree pollens, and now are in the "summer hay fever" season, when pollens from such grasses as timothy and redtop cause the greatest discomfort. In mid-August comes the most widespread variety, "fall hay fever," caused usually by ragweed pollen.

If you have hay fever, you should see a doctor. Hay fever can lead to infections of the sinuses, throat, and bronchial tubes and is sometimes accompanied by asthma. The doctor may prescribe injections to ward off your attacks, or he may recommend eye drops, nose sprays, antihistamines, or inhalants to make you feel more comfortable. He'll tell you how you can remove the pollens from your home or office with an air filter, perhaps in an air-conditioning unit. If your case is severe, he may even suggest a filter mask or a small filter worn in the nose.

Poison Ivy: The Indians warned the early settlers about poison ivy, poison oak, and poison sumac, and Captain John Smith described these native plants in his journal. Americans are still coming down with the red rashes and blisters they cause.

Like hay fever, this, too, is an allergy. Some of us can walk through fields of poison ivy and come away without an itch. For others, the best way is to avoid these plants. This may be difficult since they grow almost everywhere, in back yards as well as in woods and pastures. It's wise, though, to wear long sleeves and long trouser legs when going into unknown woods or weeded areas.

If you suspect you've been in contact with one of these poison plants, wash immediately with strong soap suds and rinse well to remove the sap before it can do too much harm. Then sponge with a 50- to 70-percent alcohol solution.

Clothes that have been exposed should also be washed in strong soap. Don't overlook the family pet, who's not in danger of getting a rash himself but can be a source of further contamination.

Sports: If you've sat through the winter in an easy chair, it's not wise to jump into summer with 36 holes of golf or strenuous water skiing. Ease into your summer sports gradually, or the muscles that have been in hibernation all winter will lay you low with aches and charley horses. And if you're not used to it, violent exercise is bad for your heart.

In any case, it's dangerous to get overheated and overtired in the hot sun. It puts a severe strain on your heart and blood vessels. Try to plan your exercise for the cooler morning and early evening hours and take a 15-minute break every hour. Wear white or light-colored clothing (to reject heat) which is loose and comfortable (to permit heat to escape) and permeable to moisture (to allow heat loss via perspiration).

Keeping Cool: This is the season for eating more lightly, avoiding spicy foods, and drinking plenty of fluids. You might take a tip from the Arabs of North Africa who fight their blazing temperatures with steaming cups of mint tea. If you try it, you too may find that hot drinks are actually more cooling than cold ones.

If you prefer the clink of ice, remember that cool drinks are better than freezing cold ones—and that water is the best drink of all. Certainly, not all of your drinks should be sweetened ones. Also, for some persons iced drinks taken out in the hot midday sun can upset the system, especially if they are on vacation in an unfamiliar climate.

Though air conditioning keeps you more comfortable, it can also lead to summer sniffles if you sit in its draft or if you keep going from cool to hot and back again.

Be careful not to play too hard or drive too long in hot weather. Be on the lookout for such symptoms as weakness, dizziness, headache, dim or blurred vision. These are the early warnings of heat prostration or sunstroke. They call for immediate rest in a cool place and a drink of water, possibly with some salt added. Most persons recover quickly, but if the symptoms do linger, seek medical attention promptly.

Summer is the time all of us need to practice a little preventive medicine. And perhaps the best warm-weather prescription any doctor can give you is this: take a generous dose of common sense every morning immediately on arising. ◆

BALL STUDIO, whose plants produced over 75 million pictures last year and used over $5 million in KODAK supplies and equipment, thinks you should know the inside facts about this processing business.

BALL STUDIO SAVINGS 25% BETTER THAN "FREE FILM" DEALS! Take a close look at the comparison of prices. We've taken typical "free film" prices and matched them against the everyday low prices you enjoy at BALL. "Free film" plans claim that their prices are for the cost of processing alone, that you get new film as a gift. Consider these huge savings that are yours on processing alone when you send your film to BALL—up to 90c greater savings per roll on Black-and-White . . . up to $1.74 savings per roll on Kodacolor.

Even adding Ball's everyday low price for new KODAK film to our price for Kodak-quality processing, you'll see that the cost is still way below what the "free film" company charges.

NO "FARMING OUT"—We do all of our own work . . . we are not merely middle-men with a mailing address from which we "farm out" your film to other plants. All of the KODAK-trained technicians who supervise the processing of your film are in the direct employ of BALL.

SERVICE DIRECT TO YOUR MAIL BOX—You don't have to shop around and fight the crowds for BALL's low, low prices. You just drop your order in the mail in a regular envelope and it's returned right to your mail box by your dependable U. S. Post Office.

BALL STUDIO'S Double Guarantee

1. BALL STUDIO guarantees you finest quality processing to KODAK standards under the direction of KODAK-trained personnel and processed with genuine KODAK paper and chemicals. Yours at tremendous savings.
2. If you are not satisfied with the work, for any reason (even if you make a mistake) return the complete order of prints and negatives or slides, or full roll of movies. After he'd been married a month, Dick ran into one of his bachelor friends. "How's married life?" asked the friend.

"Great! Simply great!" said Dick. "You should try it."

"That good, huh?"

"It's wonderful," said Dick. "The house is always tidy, my clothes are always clean and pressed, there's a delicious meal waiting for me every night when I get home from work. Fancy Molds Glamorize Gelatin Dishes

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

Serve Piquant Egg 'n' Olive Salad with barbecued poultry.

■ Jelled appetizers, main dishes, salads, or desserts turned out of shapely molds onto attractive serving dishes with appropriate garnishes will add eye appeal to your table setting.

Piquant Egg 'n' Olive Salad

- 5 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 1 cup pitted ripe olives, chopped
- ½ cup diced celery
- ½ cup chopped dill pickle
- 2 tablespoons (2 env.) unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup pineapple juice
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 cup cold water
- 1 cup chili sauce
- ½ cup ketchup
- 1 tablespoon cider vinegar

1. Toss the first four ingredients together in a bowl; refrigerate.

2. Soften gelatin in pineapple juice in a saucepan. Stir over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Blend in mayonnaise. Remove from heat; mix in remaining four ingredients.

3. Chill, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to thicken.

4. Stir into egg-olive mixture. Turn into a fancy 2-qt. ring mold and chill until firm.

5. Unmold salad onto a pedestal plate. Fill center with ripe olives and garnish edge with greens.

One 2-qt. mold

Sparkling Fresh Peach Mold

- 2 tablespoons (2 env.) unflavored gelatin
- ¼ cup sugar
- ¾ cup water
- 3 cups white grape juice
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 4 medium-sized ripe peaches, peeled and sliced
- 1½ cups red raspberries or blueberries

1. Blend gelatin and sugar in a saucepan. Mix in water; stir over low heat until gelatin and sugar are completely dissolved.

2. Remove from heat and stir in the grape juice and lemon juice. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white, stirring occasionally.

3. Arrange half of the sliced peaches and raspberries in a 1½-qt. ring mold. Spoon half of the chilled gelatin over fruit. Arrange the remaining fruit in the mold and spoon remaining gelatin over fruit. Chill until firm.

4. Unmold onto a chilled serving plate and, if desired, garnish with whipped cream. One 1½-qt. mold

Frozen Peppermint Dessert

- 1 can (1 lb. 4½ oz.) crushed pineapple, undrained
- 1 pkg. (3 oz.) strawberry-flavored gelatin
- 1 pkg. (10½ oz.) miniature marshmallows
- ¼ cup (about 2 oz.) cinnamon candies
- ¼ lb. soft butter mints, crushed
- 2 cups chilled heavy cream, whipped to soft peaks

1. Put the first four ingredients into a large bowl and mix well. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

2. Add the butter mints and whipped cream to the chilled pineapple mixture and fold together until thoroughly blended. Turn mixture into a 10-in. tubed pan. Freeze until firm.

3. Unmold the dessert onto a chilled serving plate and garnish with sprigs of fresh mint.

One 10-in. tubed mold

Note: In this recipe, the strawberry-flavored gelatin is used for color and flavor rather than for jelling the mixture.

Jellied Beef Mold

- 3 cups diced cold roast beef
- ½ cup diced celery
- ½ cup diced green pepper
- 1 pimiento, coarsely chopped
- 2 tablespoons (2 env.) unflavored gelatin
- 2 cups cooled beef broth (dissolve 2 beef bouillon cubes in 2 cups boiling water; cool)
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 1 cup cold water
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- 2 tablespoons grated onion
- 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
- ¼ cup red wine vinegar
- ¼ cup chili sauce
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

1. Toss the first four ingredients together in a bowl; refrigerate.

2. Soften gelatin in 1 cup of the broth in a saucepan. Stir over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Blend in the mayonnaise. Remove from heat and stir in the remaining broth and the water. Mix in the remaining nine ingredients.

3. Chill until mixture begins to gel, stirring frequently.

4. Mix the gelatin with the beef and vegetables. Turn into a 2-qt. mold and chill until firm.

5. Unmold onto a chilled serving plate; garnish with crisp lettuce.

One 2-qt. mold

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT

Fidgeting, loss of sleep and a tormenting itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults.

DENNIS WEAVER:

Gentle Man in the Hollywood Jungle

HOLLYWOOD has been called a "jungle" by critics, and, in a way, the name fits. In an environment of ruthless ambition and selfishness, Dennis Weaver, star of tv's "Gentle Ben," is a misfit —a truly gentle, considerate man.

That's a paradox, too, because Dennis is a powerfully built, 6-foot, 2-inch athlete, who, fortunately for many of his less gentle colleagues, never loses his temper.

Dennis' gentleness and consideration come across in many ways. Unlike many movie stars who hire press agents to publicize their charitable and ideological involvements, Dennis doesn't even talk about them. But let any community need arise, and he is in the forefront fighting.

It's understandable that the Weavers were named Encino's "Family of the Year," and Dennis was cited for his moral, social, and civic leadership.

Dennis didn't have an easy time getting into show business. "It was kind of rough," he says. "I was going to acting classes and trying to participate in off-Broadway groups, while my wife Gerry worked as a secretary. I did odd jobs to help out, like selling magazines."

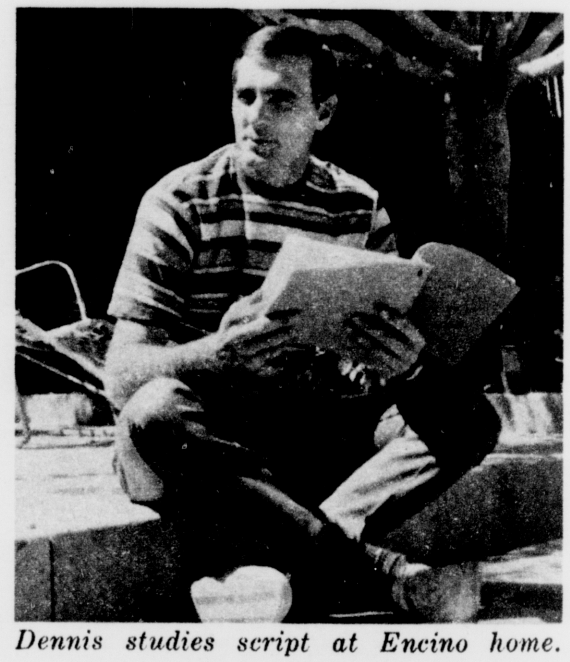

While at the Actors' Studio in New York, Dennis met Shelley Winters, who was so impressed by his talent that she talked Universal into signing him.

For the next few years he played supporting parts in countless Western and adventure films until the panic of tv encroachment hit Hollywood in 1952. "Just about everyone was lobbed off the studio contract list, including me," Dennis recalls. "To get by, I took odd jobs."

Today Dennis' sensitivity and concern for others are most evident in his attitude to people close to him. Take the case of Heidi, the German girl who came to live with the Weavers a few years ago to take care of the house and children.

Despite a grueling schedule at the studio, Dennis and his wife took pains to teach Heidi English. She stayed with the Weavers until she married a young Air Force private and moved to Texas.

A few months later, Heidi and her husband were back in California, his last stop on the way to Vietnam. Heidi had no place to stay, so the Weavers suggested she move in with them again. Her husband's back now and living with the Weavers, too. "He's studying to be an architect," Dennis explains. "Meanwhile, they help with the house—they are family."

Dennis' whole personality is evident in his three sons, Richard, 20, Rob, 15, and Rustin, 9. They are well behaved and considerate, trying to follow the example of their father, who was raised strictly but fairly in Joplin, Mo.

"We didn't have much money because I grew up during the depth of the Depression," Dennis recalls, "but we were a close family and a happy one."

In spite of the family's financial hardships, he managed to work his way through college but he interrupted his studies when he joined the Naval Air Corps in 1943.

A top-flight athlete during his high-school days, Dennis enrolled at the University of Oklahoma when the war ended, and in 1948 he tried out for the Olympics, placing sixth in the nation from among 35 decathlon entrants.

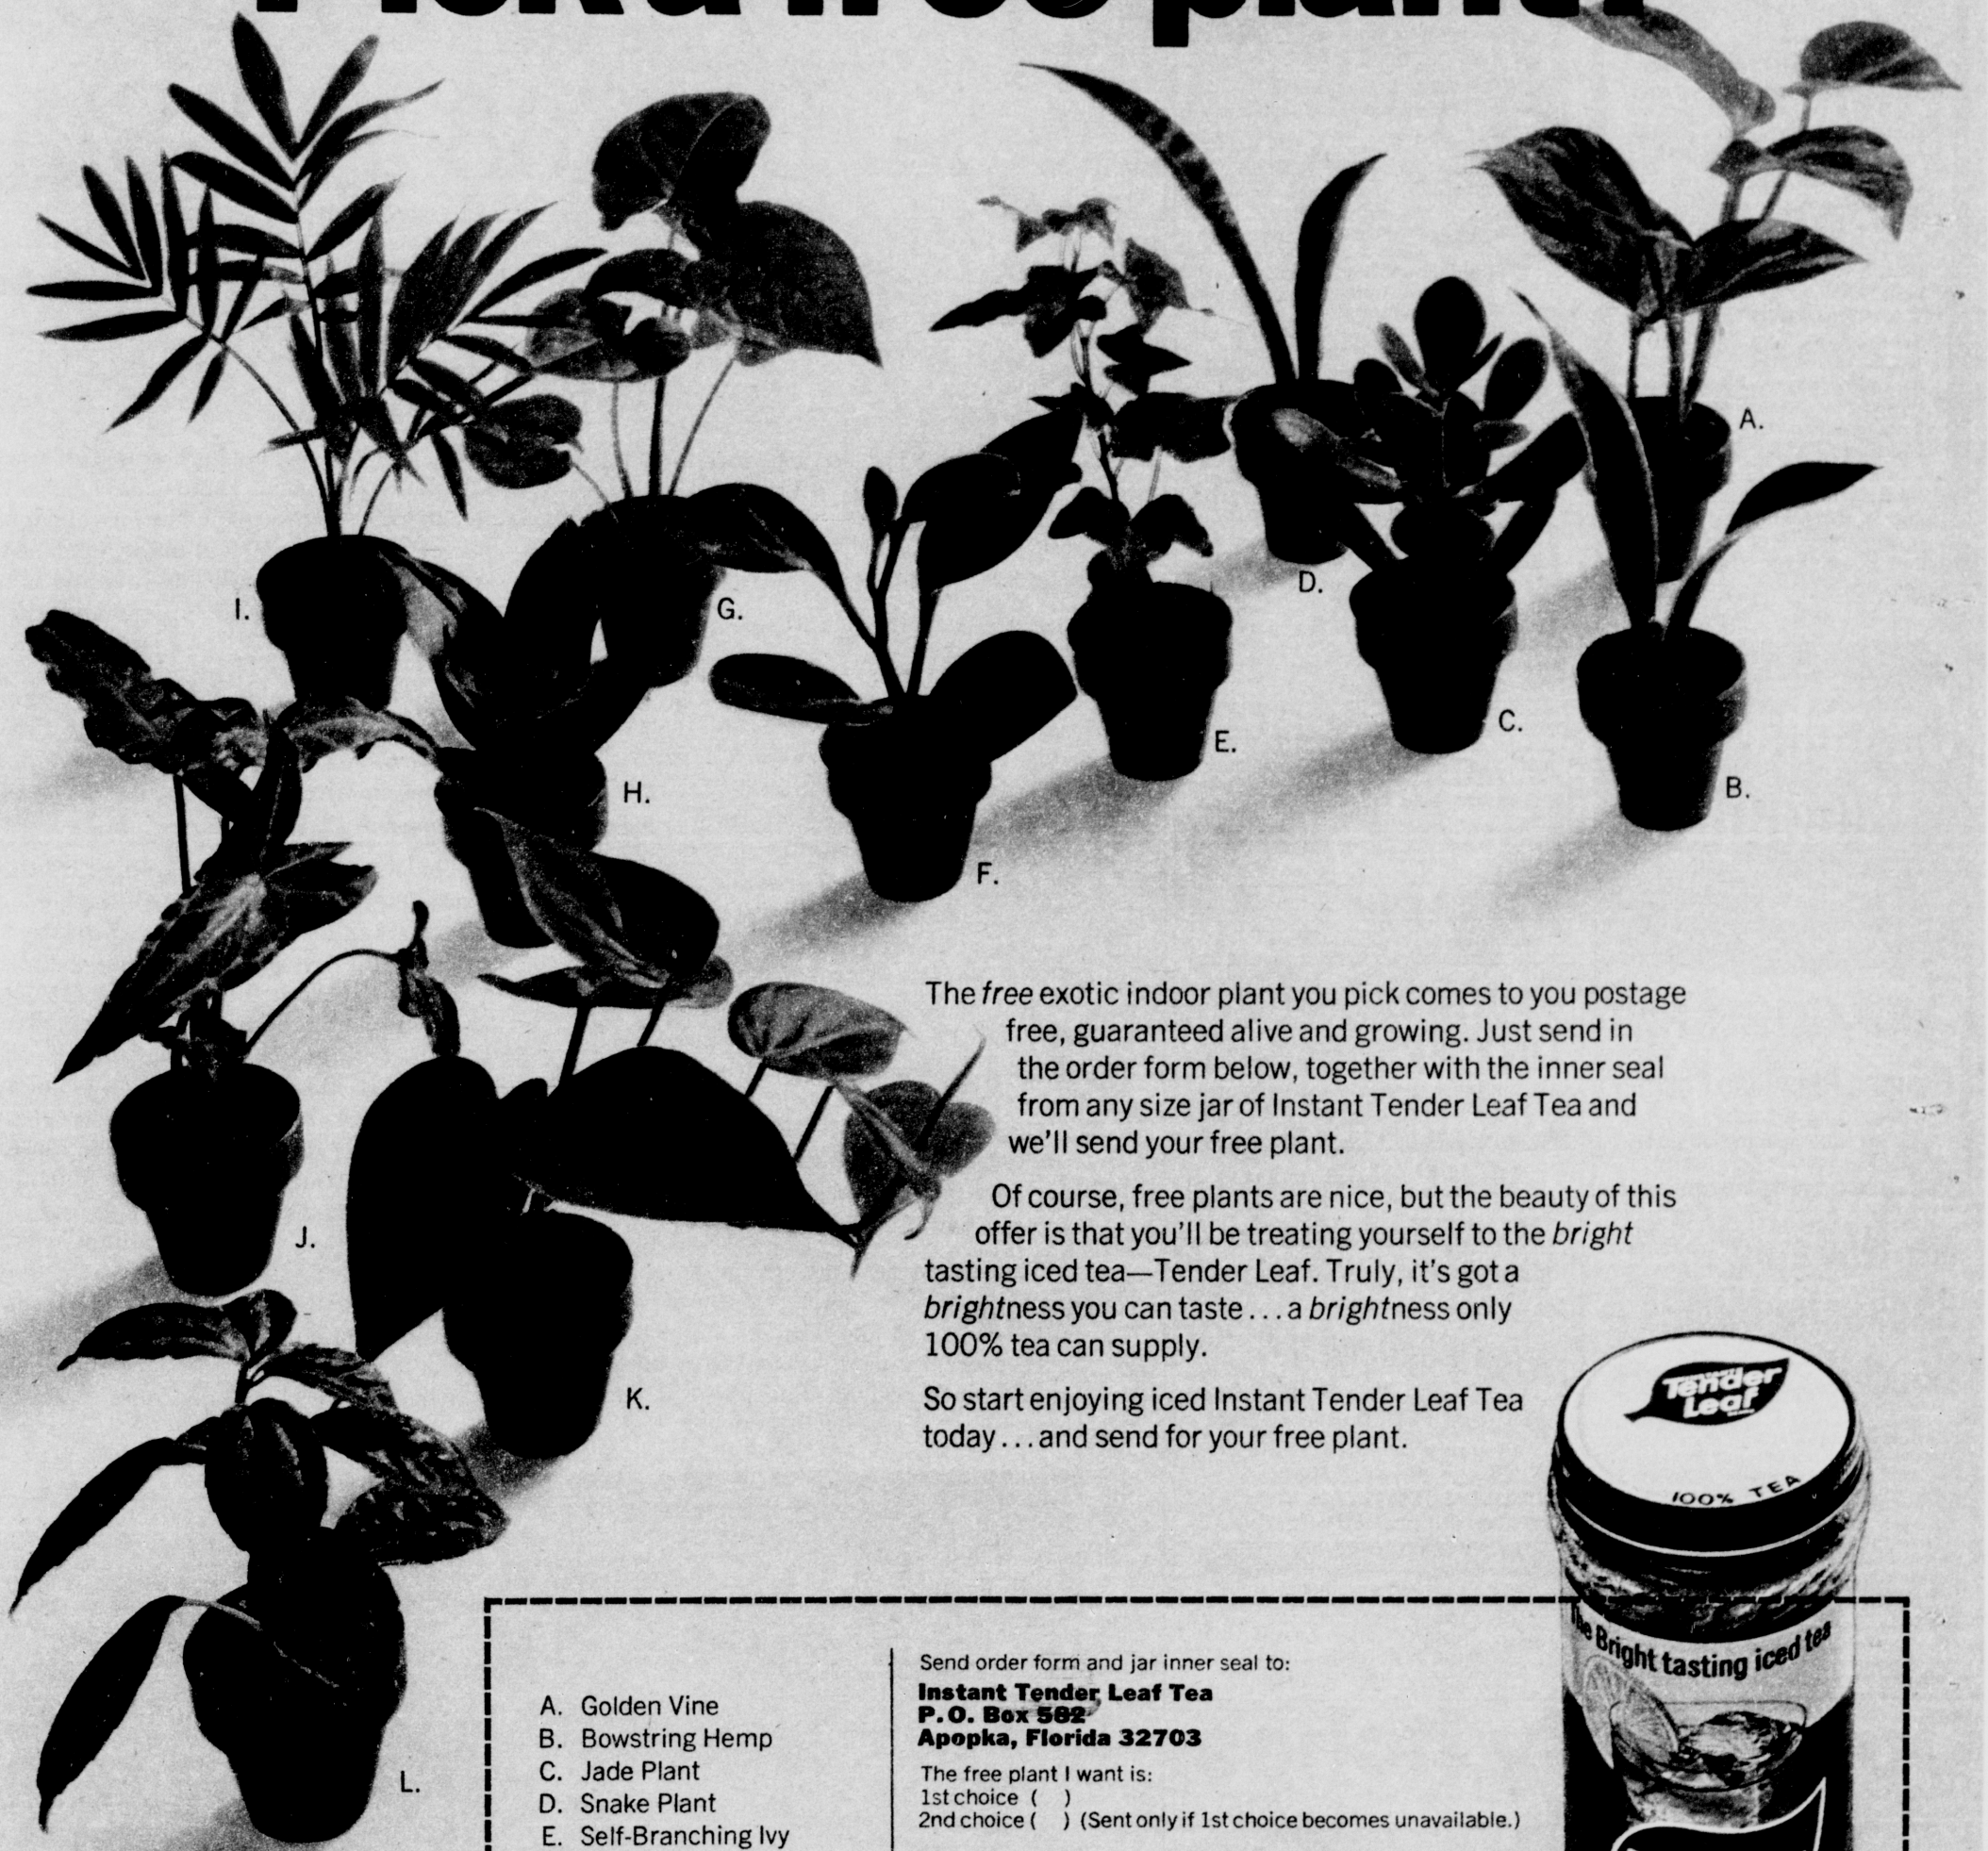

All along, however, his one big love was drama. "I never wanted to do anything but become an actor," he told me.

Today Dennis is so identified with his tv characters—Chester in "Gunsmoke," the veterinarian in "Kentucky Jones," and now the game warden in "Gentle Ben"—that not many people are aware of his background as a serious dramatic actor, as well as being a highly skilled director.

Unlike many actors tied to a tv series, Dennis is happy with what he does and not just because his series has a healthy rating. It's because the series leaves him free seven months each year to star in films, to be with his family, and to do what he does best of all—trying to help others.

Dog Nearly Itches to Death

"I thought we would have to put Daisy to sleep ...but I could never do this. I suffered as she suffered almost two years with large running, itching sores. I had almost given up trying things when I came across Sulfodene. Now her back is all healed, her hair is coming in thick. The Lord should bless you for such a fine product," says Mrs. John Burmester, New Jersey.

Discovered by famous veterinary scientist, Dr. A.C. Merrick, SULFODENE liquid medication works fast to stop fungus itch, heal itch-sores (often called mange, eczema, hot spots). So soothing, the most frenzied itching is relieved almost instantly. Quickly promotes healing. Open sores heal over. Scales disappear, hair grows back.

Used by kennels and veterinarians. For dogs and cats. Get SULFODENE. At all drug stores, leading pet shops.

SANDY KOUFAX TELLS—

How I See the '68 All-Star

A former All-Star gives tips on what to expect

By TOM FAY

TO GET the lowdown on this year's All-Star game and the current trends in baseball, FAMILY WEEKLY went to former major-league great, pitcher Sandy Koufax.

A three-time Cy Young Award winner and former National League Most Valuable Player, Sandy had been named to six All-Star teams before retiring in 1966. He is the holder of several major-league records, including most shutouts in one season by a lefthander (11) and most strikeouts in one season (382).

Koufax is currently a member of the "NBC Game of the Week" broadcasting team and will provide the color commentary on Tuesday's All-Star game. Here are his answers to our questions.

This will be the first time for many American Leaguers in the Houston Astrodome. Will that give the National League an added advantage and if so, how?

There's no real advantage in a game like the All-Star game. If there is any edge, it might show up in a game that goes extra innings, or maybe a bottom-of-the ninth crucial situation. But home-town reaction isn't really a factor since allegiance to each league obviously is not as great as to a team. National League players might be more familiar, of course, with the park's layout, but it would only be a psychological advantage and then only a slight one.

What is your opinion of the Houston Astrodome as a ballpark? What are the field conditions? Hitting backgrounds? Visibility? And does Houston's Astroturf affect the roll of the ball much?

The Astrodome is a fine park. Hitting background is good. Visibility good. They've handled the crowd "white-shirt" problem for the hitter by good seat distribution, particularly in centerfield.

I don't know of any significant effect that Astroturf has on the roll of the ball. If anything, Astroturf is a bit more difficult to run on. Apparently regular cleats don't get the bite that they do on real ground. Outfielders do have difficulty running—and stopping.

The unique enclosed stadium could have an effect on the pitcher—the guy who is doing the most work, most constantly. Particularly if the Astrodome has a full house. All those people using up the air and smoking does make it

A 15th-inning home run by Tony Perez of the Cincinnati Reds gave the NL a 2-1 win in last year's game.

Game

from this year's contest

tough on a hardworking pitcher.

The last two All-Star games have ended with the National League winning 2-1. More and more, the pitchers are dominating the hitters. Do you think rules should be changed to give the hitter an advantage—say tightening the strike zone?

I can't think of any changes that would make any real difference in one game. All-Star games always are going to be close. When you have the advantage of picking the four or five top pitchers in each league, you're bound to have close contests. Tightening of the strike zone has been proposed before—to no avail, and I think logically so. Comparisons between players, past and present, will always be a part of the game, and while I don't say improvements cannot be made with some rule and regulation revisions, they should not be made indiscriminately and without thought.

What about the new spitball rule?

All this rule is doing is slowing up the game. It's all a noble effort to try to eliminate what some consider to be an inequity in the contest between the pitcher and the batter. But if it isn't the spitball, it will be some other pitch.

Will the National League continue to dominate the American League in these games?

No league will always dominate this type of contest. If you're comparing 250 players against another 250 players, then yes, there can be a discernible gap in ability. But All-Star games involve 20 or so top men from each league. Usually, they're equal in ability, so it's mostly the breaks.

In last year's game, the American League kept Jim Hunter on the mound for over five innings. Do you think this is fair to the pitcher? His team? His league?

The rule is that your starting pitcher cannot go over three innings. As far as being fair to the pitcher to keep him in that long, it's up to the pitcher. If he thinks he can handle it and wants to stay in, fine. If he wants out, he'll say so.

If the manager is in the pennant race, then obviously he's flirting with some trouble to wear out his pitchers when they may have a crucial game coming up after the All-Star meet. In this way, he does affect the team's performance and obviously must use discretion. If it means choosing between a win in the All-Star game at the risk of a loss in a tight pennant race, I think the choice is apparent.

How much does an All-Star game really mean to the players?

The All-Star game doesn't mean that much to a player—until he gets there. Then it means a great deal. It's an honor. Sure, a player would at first much prefer to have the three days off, but once you've been selected and you're on the field, you're proud of it. And you don't want to get beat; pride tells you that. It's usually a 100-percent effort on everybody's part. •

PATENTED, NEW ELECTRONIC "MAGIC BULLET" LURE DRAWS AND CATCHES FISH UP TO 100 FEET UNDERWATER.

PROVEN IRRESISTIBLE TO ALL FISH!

U.S.GOV'T PATENT
The Electra-Lure, Transistorized "Magic Bullet" Is So New... So Unique... It Has Been Awarded A U.S. Government Patent!
Patent Number #3310902

This Fantastic New Electronic Principle Tested and Proven on All Types, All Sizes, Fresh and Salt Water Fish by Private and Professional Fishermen.

• Tough, durable construction, guaranteed forever. • All electronic micro-transmitter. • Produces homing-signal proven irresistible to all types of fish. • Omnidirectional—draws fish from full 100 feet underwater. • Designed for Bait-casting, spinning and fly rods. • Draws frogs from MORE than 100 feet. • Perfect for all fresh and salt water fish.

Invented by Space-Age Scientists for Their Own Hobby.

Charter boat captain displays trophy fish caught by Electra-Lure "Magic Bullet."

I can endorse the Electra-Lure. It makes fishing a success for even the duffers. Even children turn into limit takers. Be sure to use a steel leader for the great northern, and all fish that are capable of biting...This is the first improvement in fishing since the invention of the hook.

Capt. Obbie,
Obbie's Chart Boat
San Diego, Calif.

FASTER, MORE EFFECTIVE THAN ANY OTHER LURE!

The brilliant new transistorized ELECTRA-LURE "MAGIC BULLET" represents the latest scientific advance in sport fishing. The sonic principle was originally developed for government and commercial use. Now this fantastic electronic principle has been refined and designed for application with any fresh and salt water bait-caster, spinner, or fly rod. • The ELECTRA-LURE "MAGIC BULLET" is actually a tiny, water-tight electronic transmitter which broadcasts a steady HOMING SIGNAL that has been proven irresistible to fresh and salt water fish of all types and sizes. THIS SCIENTIFICALLY PREDETERMINED SIGNAL HAS BEEN PROVEN TO DRAW FISH FROM UP TO A 100 feet..... IN ALL WATERS, EVEN WHEN OTHER BAIT AND FOOD IS ABUNDANTLY AVAILABLE. These fantastic results are not so surprising when you realize that the search for the proper sound frequency and the the ultra minature components to produce them has been underway for years, and has at last become a reality due to space-age sonic technology.

Transistorized Electra-Lure "Magic Bullet" Offers Scientific Facts and Proven Results...

Many mechanical lures have been trying for years to obtain the fantastic results proven by the ELECTRA-LURE "MAGIC BULLET." However, this fish catching miracle has been made possible only through years of research which produced ultra miniature components built into the ELECTRA-LURE "MAGIC BULLET." • The ELECTRA-LURE "MAGIC BULLET" is electronically REMOTE-CONTROLLED! While the ELECTRA-LURE "MAGIC BULLET" is in the water at any depth, you can actually turn the transmitting homing signal off and on, simply by tugging on your line. • It is now available to you, to test in your own way, for a full 3 months at absolutely no risk!

OUR SATISFIED CUSTOMERS SAY...

Dear Sir:
I received my transistorized plug in good order. Thank you. I used the plug in the Colorado River and had results that exceeded my expectations. Please send me six more of your transistorized plugs.

They Demonstrate for America

This "Singing Peace Corps" is out to change the generation that will change the world

By CLAIRE SAFRAN

FROM THE back of a stage crowded with 150 young singers, a boy cups his hands to his mouth and sings out: "Can't you hear America calling?"

The answer comes in a rumbling echo: "Every boy and girl . . ." The spotlight picks out another boy: "We are going to fire a new shot . . ."

And again the echo: "Heard around the world!"

This is an Up with People cast, and they indeed have been heard around the world. They were launched on a midsummer day in 1965, during a youth conference sponsored by the Moral Re-Armament movement. There were just 150 of them then, banded together as a washed-and-pressed answer to the overpublicized hippies and campus rioters.

"We're tired of hearing what those other kids are against," one girl said. "Let's demonstrate what we're for!"

They crisscrossed America, traveling by bus, sleeping in whatever homes would open their doors to them, running—"we never walk"—on stage to vigorous choruses of "Don't Stand Still." At paid performances that raise the money to get them to the next town and at free high-school and neighborhood shows, they clap their hands, stamp their feet, and sway their bodies. It is less of a "show" and more of a way of life to these young people, age 16 to 25. Their message is contained in the songs they write themselves: "Up with People," "Freedom Isn't Free," "What Color Is God's Skin?" In three short years, they have exploded into 252 groups or "Sing Outs," involving 50,000 young people on five continents.

They were in Watts three weeks after the riots and left a local Sing Out in their wake. The following summer, when violence ripped other ghettos, that group helped to keep Watts cool.

They were the first young people to visit Indonesia after its revolution and were told, "Now we're united against the dictator Sukarno, but you have given us something to keep us united after Sukarno."

In Japan, a young leftist leader told them, "I have been to Russia and to China, but you are more revolutionary than anything I have ever seen. Your revolution includes everybody!"

In Italy, the Pope blessed their efforts, and in Germany, Chancellor Ludwig Ehrhardt said, "Not only have you strengthened the tie between the U.S. and Germany, but you have helped to show us that freedom isn't free."

The Up with People casts are unsalaried, and many of the youngsters have turned down scholarships and good jobs, sold their cars, and used their savings to help with the venture.

They make no secret of what they are up to right now. Eyes shining, voices strong with optimism, they tell you, "It's more than improving the image of America. We are out to change the generation that will change the world." ◆

American Up with People singers join youngsters in Milan in praising the joys of freedom—and its responsibilities.

POSTER DRESSES

GREAT ROSE

JOIN THE POSTER PARADE FOR FASHION FUN! Wear 'em. Wash 'em. Frolic in a fun-frock of black and white imprinted with oversize photographs front and back, designed in London, England, to suit your current Mod mood. Toughness is built into the non-woven fabric for long, l-o-n-g wear, and should you tire (which is doubtful), just cut open all the seams and hang it on your wall as a mammoth poster—or cover pillows, use as curtains, tablecloth, etc. Left shoulder opens and closes at a touch. If you want more of scoop neck or prefer a mini-mini, just cut with a scissors—but neatly, gals! Your ready-to-wear posters, latest London party-wear, is okay to wash (unwoven and nylon for drip-dry care). Oh yes, poster dresses are penny-wise, priced at only $2.98! Guaranteed for fun!

OFFER WILL NOT BE REPEATED THIS SEASON

We urge you to order your giant poster dresses now while the supply lasts. We will send any one to you for just $2.98 plus 25¢ postage. Each of these fine London fashions will fit sizes 6-16 (specify), and you will be delighted by the way they look and what your friends say! This is your only chance to order. Be sure to fill out coupon and mail it today. This offer will not be repeated in Family Weekly this season.

I was just thinking...

I've Got the Pearts

SO YOU think you're pretty smart?

I think I am, too. That's my principal problem.

I speak when I should be listening. I have an opinion on everything. You'd think I had a Ph.D. in nuclear physics and had won the National Spelling Bee.

The information I volunteer, I regret to confess, is often a far cry from factual. I answer questions nobody asked, and when I ask one, I often answer it myself before anyone else has a chance.

I'm an average human being with an average education and a full, though well-concealed, knowledge of my limitations. But you should hear me when I get going. I attempt to correct my boss about his sentence structure while he's dictating, point out to coworkers the difference between ordinance and ordnance, as though I'd invented it myself, and run as fast as my broken arches will allow to intercept anyone on his way to the dictionary so that I can pretend Noah Webster used me as a source.

I may have been even worse as a child. My mother reported that, before I was able to walk steadily, I corrected a shoe clerk on his grammar.

"Now, ain't those nice shoes?" he asked Mother.

"Not nice to say 'ain't,'" I admonished. To salve the salesman's ego, Mother bought shoes that didn't fit.

When I became revoltingly overbearing, my Missouri grandmother, in whose eyes I could generally do no wrong, surveyed me through her spectacles and opined, "Patty, I believe you have a case of the pearts."

I've never recovered. Medical science has developed ways to control everything from diverticulitis to diverticulosis. (Notice how cleverly I distinguish between them?) Why can't science do something for me before I come down with another chronic ailment? A fat lip.
